Ike, Told GOP Faces Hard Fight, Enters Fray Today

President Plans Four Addresses Next Three Days

[By The Associated Press]

The "running scared" Republicans send their principal campaign attraction into the political fray today as President Eisenhower starts a four-state speaking tour in the West.

Republican National Chairman Leonard W. Hall, repeating that his party is "running scared," reported to Eisenhower that prospects are good but "a hard fight" is needed to retain Republican control of the Congress.

"I don't think you should conduct a campaign any other way," he told newsmen afterwards.

Hall and other party leaders conferred with the President at the summer White House in Denver as Eisenhower prepared for his three-day swing into Montana, Oregon, Washington and California. Four speeches are scheduled during the three days.

GOP Counts On Ike Prestige

Republicans are counting heavily on Eisenhower's prestige in the Nov. 2 election, and some reportedly have asked the President to take a more active part in the campaign.

But Hall said Eisenhower plans no change in his tactics. Hall said the President will make a nationwide "get out the vote" speech by television and radio Nov. 1, but has only one other political engagement beyond this weekend.

Eisenhower and Vice President Nixon will address party workers from Denver by radio and television Oct. 8 on "National Precinct Day."

The President's tour takes him today to Missoula, Mont., for an airport speech; to the Oregon-Washington border for dedication of McNary Dam tomorrow morning, and to Los Angeles for a major political address in Hollywood Bowl tomorrow night.

Addresses AFL Friday

On Friday morning, he will speak briefly and informally at the annual convention of the American Federation of Labor in Los Angeles.

In Washington, Secretary of Agriculture Benson used a news conference to repeat that politics played no part in his decision last week to ease farm production controls next year.

The decision was based, he said, on the drought, a reduced corn crop, improved prospects for export of farm surpluses and the new flexible price support laws which he said make controls less necessary.

N.Y. GOP Delays Slate Completion

SYRACUSE, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Republican strategists tonight put off choosing two running mates for Sen. Irving M. Ives and J. Raymond McGovern amid growing signs they intended to wait until the Democrats pick their slate.

McGovern became a certain GOP choice for lieutenant governor today when Ives, sure to be the candidate for governor, endorsed the state comptroller.

High level agreement on nominees for comptroller and attorney general still failed to materialize at a GOP state Executive Committee huddle late this afternoon.

Later, L. Hudson Morhouse, acting Republican state chairman, told newsmen he thoaght "it might be advisable political strategy to see what the Democrats are doing" in New York City before completing the GOP ticket.

The Republican convention opens tomorrow morning in the vast Onondaga County War Memorial Auditorium. The Democratic convention opened today, giving the Republicans time to delay naming their full slate until the opposition has committed itself.

U.N. Guards Expel Three Anti-Soviets

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—Three women in the public gallery threw anti-Soviet leaflets onto the floor of the U.N. General Assembly today just as Soviet delegate Andrei Y. Vishinsky was about to speak. U.N. security guards expelled them.

The leaflets bore the name of "The American Friends of the Anti-Bolshevik Block of Nations, Inc.—Ukrainian Division," which had been picketing across the street. "Deprive the U.S.S.R. and her satellites of U.N. membership," they urged.

Adenauer Asks For Quick End To Occupation

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Chancellor Konrad Adenauer has asked for a quick Western Big Three declaration ending the occupation of West Germany and granting her full sovereignty, Western officials disclosed tonight.

The German leader's call was the day's dominant development in the tangled maneuvers that surround free Europe's search for a means of rearming West Germany in the light of France's rejection of the European Defense Community.

French Plan Weighed

Adenauer's move became known as the Western Allies weighed with cautious reserve French Premier Pierre Mendes-France's new plan for arming the West Germans. The plan was a rival to the British scheme previously advanced by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

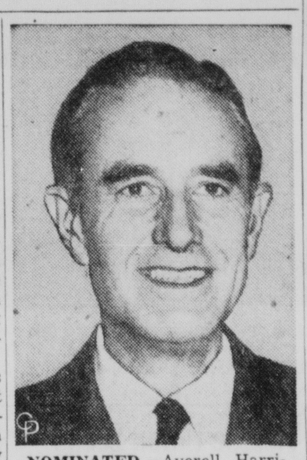

The French proposals are viewed as only a starting point for hard bargaining when the London nine-power conference on the key European problem gets under-way Sept. 28.

Informants here said Adenauer's call is expected to be high on the agenda for decision at the London parley. It was Sept. 2 that he first put the price tag of "full and undiminished sovereignty" on German military support for Western defense lines.

Concessions Promised

Adenauer has promised an immediate counter-declaration in return for his requested Big Three declaration. In it, he would voluntarily cede certain rights to the three occupying nations — the United States, Britain and France.

One provision would allow the three nations to keep their armies on German soil on an agreed cost basis. Another would allow the Allies to remain in control of West Berlin, isolated in the Soviet zone. A third would give the Allies control over the problem of German unification.

Threats Close Public Schools At Milford, Del.

[By The Associated Press]

Telephoned threats of violence led to the closing of two public schools again Tuesday at Milford, Del., possible court action loomed at Hillsboro, Ohio, and a strike of white students continued at Madison, W. Va.

Elsewhere in the South the segregation situation continued calm, with no incidents reported.

At Milford, Dr. Raymond C. Cobbs, school superintendent, ordered the schools closed after reporting telephoned threats of violence if Negroes were allowed to attend classes in the previously all-white high school.

Delaware Gov. J. Caleb Boggs declined comment. A scheduled parade featuring the Milford high school band was canceled.

School doors were shut yesterday after the school board learned of a protest march planned by anti - integrationists. Plans to reopen them were abandoned shortly after 8 a.m. today.

Dr. Cobbs said in a statement: "Members of the Board of Education since making an earlier announcement have received numerous calls threatening violence in case any negro children attend school. In the interest of the safety of all the children the board hereby serves notice that the schools are closed until further notice."

Five policemen guarded the school and tension was reported mounting in the southeastern Delaware community.

Harry E. Mayhew, one of the four members of the school board, resigned, but did not discuss the reasons for his action. There was no immediate decision as to whether 11 Negro pupils would be allowed to take up their high school studies.

At Hillsboro, a small southwestern Ohio city, Negroes planned to go to court in an effort to get their children into previously all-white schoolrooms.

At Madison, W. Va., Boone County School Supt. Clarence Tamplin reported a strike of white students was continuing and that the Board of Education had made "no definite decision" on school segregation.

Transit Employe Steals And Sells Over 5,000 Tokens

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—James Blount, 30, a transit system change maker, was accused today of making up gambling losses by selling 1-5cent subway tokens at bargain rates.

Having lost his pay check, Blount, police said, reported for work last Friday, helped himself to several bags of tokens, locked his change booth and went upstairs.

There, on a downtown Brooklyn street, he allegedly disposed of 5,769 tokens—worth $865.35—to passersby at prices varying from two for a quarter to 10 for a dollar.

With 2,231 tokens left, Blount went home. Later, conscience stricken, he confessed to his minister who advised him to give himself up, police said.

Blount was charged with grand larceny.

Film "Czar" Retained

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) — Eric Johnston has been signed to a new seven-year contract as president of the Motion Picture Association of America, the association reported today. Johnston has served in the post since 1945 when the late Will Hayes resigned as "czar" of the movie industry, while continuing to be active in services for the government.

Red Agitators Seized

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, Sept. 21 (AP)—Police said today they are holding about 100 Communist and other agitators for attempting to call a streetcar strike which the Labor Ministry ruled was illegal.

New Device Focuses Many Radium Beams On Cancers

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — A new machine for attacking cancer with radium — a device which brings multiple beams of radiation to bear on a malignancy in much the same way that a ring of spotlights focuses on an ice show performer—was announced today.

A team of researchers of New York's Roosevelt Hospital said the device—developed by a Columbia University radiologist—offers advantages, in certain cases, over previous methods of attacking deepseated cancers with radiation.

These earlier methods include use of radium from a single source; various methods for applying X-ray and the use of radioactive cobalt from a single source.

Dr. Douglas Quick and physicist Jeanne D. Richmond described the new machine, and their preliminary experience with it over the last 2½ years, to the 55th annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society. They credited development of the device to radiologist Gioacchino Failla of Columbia.

The device employes 50 grams of radium as a source of radiation. But, instead of being concentrated in a single capsule, the radium is equally divided among 25 capsules arranged in a ring at the bottom of a heavily shielded chamber. The capsules are directed inwardly at an angle so that the 25 individual "beams" emitted from the ring come to a focus a few inches beneath the surface of the patient's body, striking the cancer from all angles.

N.Y. Democrats Name Harriman For Governor

Former New Deal Diplomat Defeats F. D. Roosevelt, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (Wednesday) (AP) — Averell Harriman won the Democratic nomination for governor early today after a heated state convention battle with Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Wildly cheering demonstrations for each candidate preceded the balloting, which did not begin until after midnight.

Harriman got sufficient votes for the nomination at 1:07 a.m. (EDT).

Supporters of the late president's son failed in their hope of stampeding the convention.

Harriman, 62, wealthy former New Deal diplomat had entered the contest a heavy favorite with the backing of the most influential Democratic state leaders and Tammany Hall.

Roosevelt came into the hall immediately after Onondaga County's vote pushed Harriman's total over the 150 majority mark.

He smilingly shook hands with party leaders on the platform.

Paul E. Fitzpatrick, the convention's permanent chairman, interrupted the roll call at that point to introduce Roosevelt as "a great American."

In his appearance before the convention, Roosevelt said:

"On behalf of my many friends, I would like to suggest that the nomination of my old friend Averell Harriman be made unanimous."

Refugees, Police Clash At Saigon; Two Men Killed

SAIGON, Indochina, Sept. 21 (AP)—Five hundred refugees from the North fought police here today in a demonstration that deepened Viet Nam's government - army crisis. Two men were killed and several wounded as the police fired to disperse refugees.

The aims of the demonstration were interpreted variously.

The French News Agency said the refugees were demanding for some reason that they be returned to North Viet Nam, soon to fall completely under Communist rule. Promotion of such a demand would help Red agitators presumably assigned secretly to refugee groups to foment trouble.

But Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, the chief of staff who is still refusing Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's order to take a "special leave" in France that the army interprets as exile, said the refugee group demonstrated in favor of Diem against the army. He charged the government promoted the clash, arming the refugees with clubs and bottles to attack the police.

The refugees are among a third of a million who abandoned homes, farms and business, and moved southward—many aboard U. S. ship and air transports—to avoid falling into the hands of the Communist - led Vietminh as it takes over North Viet Nam under the Geneva agreement ending the Indochina war.

Two Men Convicted Of Kidnaping Cabbie

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—A U. S. District Court jury today found two men guilty of kidnaping for forcing a taxicab driver to go to Maryland after the pair allegedly shot a policeman outside Connie Mack Stadium last June 22.

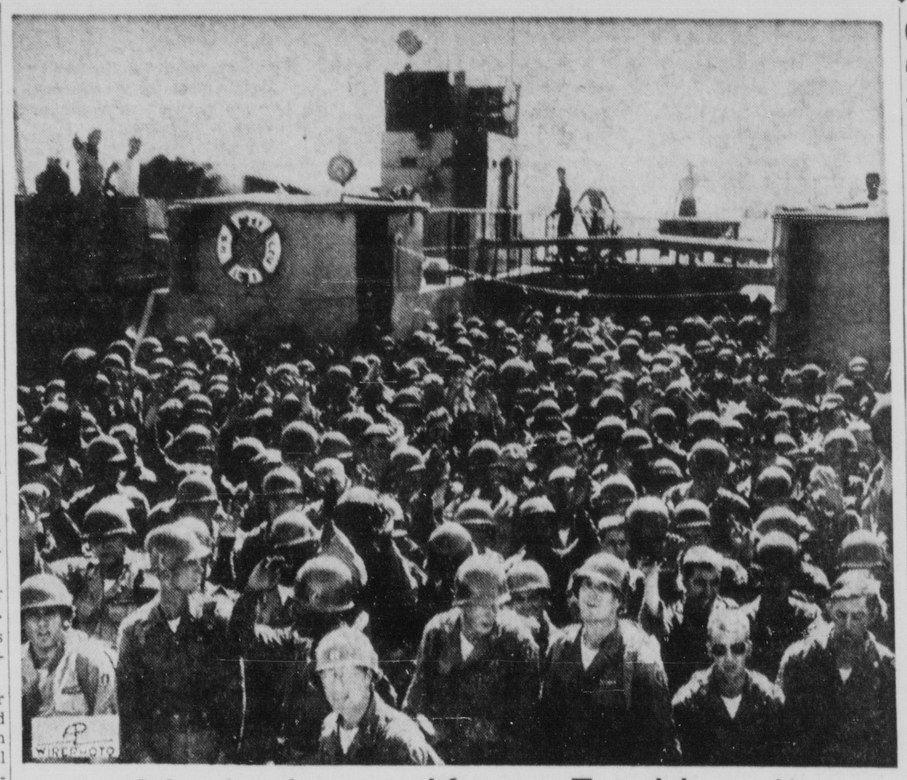

The jury recommended leniency for John Lorenz, 20, Yonkers, N. Y., because it was his first offense. The other man, Farris E. Morris, 32, Jackson, Miss., faces a life sentence.

Red Plot To Kidnap Own Agent Thwarted

BERLIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berlin police claimed tonight to have foiled a kidnap plot ordered by the Russians against one of their own ace secret agents in the Allied sector of the city.

The police said the Communists had planned to seize the agent because they suspected him of working for the West and feeding them fake reports.

They said the plot was thwarted last night with the arrest of two German residents of the American sector suspected as the would-be kidnapers.

Yanks Leave Korea For Hawaii

Happy soldiers of the 27th "Wolfhound" Regiment of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division pack a small landing craft taking them to a waiting transport in Inchon harbor where they sailed for Hawaii. The 1,100 men comprised one of the first contingents to leave Korea under the Army's recently announced plan to pull four divisions from the peninsula. South Korean leaders have protested bitterly against the withdrawal.

Indications Point To Early Merger Of AFL And CIO

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP)—A new era of good feeling between the AFL and CIO developed today at the AFL's annual convention with indications the nation's two big labor groups plan an early merger.

The CIO sent a warm message of "fraternal best wishes" to the AFL sessions—the first time the CIO has extended such an expression of friendship since its unions broke away from the AFL nearly two decades ago.

No-Raiding Pact Hailed

In his message CIO President Walter Reuther said that the no-raiding agreement recently signed by the AFL and CIO marks "a heartening trend toward elimination of friction within the labor movement."

AFL President George Meany promised his group would meet soon with Reuther and CIO leaders with every hope of negotiating a quick merger.

"I don't think the subject should be talked or 'conferenced' to death," Meany said. "It is quite open and shut as to what we have got to do, and I think we should get to it as soon as possible after this convention.

"We need real unity in the labor movement. We have many problems that we could face in a better way if we had unity."

Welfare Fund Probe Set

On the eve of a new congressional investigation opening here tomorrow into union handling of rich welfare funds, Dave Beck, president of the AFL Teamsters' Union, issued a statement saying employers as well as union share responsibility for safeguarding such funds.

A number of California teamsters union officials were reportedly under subpoena to appear at tomorrow's hearings in the federal building before a special house subcommittee headed by Rep. Samuel McConnell (R-Pa).

Double Slayer Kills Self With Dynamite

WISE, Va., Sept. 21 (AP)—A crazed coal mine operator slugged his wife and small daughter with a hammer early today and then wrote finis to his violence and himself by touching off a half dozen cases of dynamite in the basement of their home.

The torn bodies of Leslie Green, 40; his wife, Mrs. Vercie Green, 35, and their daughter, Peggy Ann, 8, were found in the scattered wreckage of their 8-room, 2-story frame home in the Hurricane section of Wise County.

Sole member of the family to escape the blast was Betty Green, 16, who told police her mother and father had been quarreling when she went to bed last night.

Pope Limits Audiences

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 21 (AP)—Vatican sources said tonight that Pope Pius, fatigued from overwork, would continue to limit his number of private audiences.

29 Children, Three Men Hospitalized By Chlorine Gas

PESHTIGO, Wis., Sept. 21 (AP)—Twenty-nine school children and three men were hospitalized today after they inhaled chlorine gas escaping from a ruptured hose line in a transfer operation at the Badger paper mills.

The youngsters, affected by the gas as they walked past the plant on the way home from school, were taken to Marinette General Hospital in ambulances and police cars. They range in age from 6-14 years.

Hospital attendants said three children were "coughing badly," but the other 26 were in "satisfactory condition." A physician said chlorine gas, depending on its strength, could cause death.

South Korea Aid To Be Increased

DENVER, Sept. 21 (AP) — Plans to bolster South Korea with an additional 100 million dollars in aid by summer and to ship American coal to nations where the supply is short were announced today at the summer White House.

The decisions by President Eisenhower were disclosed by Harold E. Stassen, chief of the Foreign Operations Administration, after a conference with the chief executive.

Stassen reported that other topics were covered during the talk in Eisenhower's office at Lowry Air Force Base, but he limited his announcement to the two items.

The coal program, Stassen said, will mean purchase of about 10 million tons in American coal starting "promptly." It will provide supplies for the nations receiving it, the administrator declared, and is intended to help felieve the economic situation in United States areas "which have the largest unemployment."

He estimated two million tons of coal will be purchased in Kentucky, two million in West Virginia, two million in Pennsylvania, 1½ million in Illinois and 2½ millions elsewhere.

Nixon Criticizes And Challenges Adlai Stevenson

EAST LANSING, Mich., Sept. 21 (AP)—Vice President Nixon demanded tonight that Adlai E. Stevenson say how the policies of a Democratic Congress in 1955 would differ from those of the Truman administration.

Nixon, in a campaign speech prepared for a Republican rally at Michigan State College, gave the Eisenhower administration's reply to recent charges by Stevenson that the administration is a "give-away government" and has damaged United States prestige abroad.

"Quips And Criticism"

"Up to this time," Nixon said, "we have nothing from him but quips and criticisms without one positive constructive suggestion as to what his party would do."

"Under the circumstances, we can only assume, as his national chairman admitted in answer to a question recently, that all a Democrat Congress offers is a return to the policies of the Truman administration.

"Unless Mr. Stevenson tells the American people how he differs from those policies we shall have to continue to remind the people what those policies were."

Nixon is on an eight-state tour on behalf of congressional candidates.

Answers Stevenson Charge

Replying to Stevenson's charge that the Republicans have "a give-away government," the vice president said:

"He is correct if he refers to the fact that this administration has given back to the people 7½ billion in taxes. And parenthetically I might add that under the policies of this administration we are taking steps to tighten up the lax procedure of previous administrations which permitted espionage agents to give away to our potential enemies secret information from our State Department and our atomic program."

Nixon said it was "significant" that Stevenson offers no constructive program while criticizing the peace settlement in Indochina and the collapse of the European Defense Community.

Son Of Ex-Italian Minister Jailed In Party Girl's Death

ROME, Sept. 21 (AP)—Piero Piccioni, jazz piano playing son of former Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni, and self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna were arrested tonight in connection with the mystery death of party girl Wilma Montesi.

The chief of Italy's police, Giovanni Carcaterra, announced the arrests.

Piccioni, 32, is charged with aggravated manslaughter and Montagna is accused of aiding and abetting, the chief said.

Testimony in the smouldering case had linked the two men with the death of the shapely 21-year-old girl whose nearly nude body was found on the black sands of Ostia Beach near Rome a year ago last April.

One girl witness accused Montagna as "the "brains" of a dope gang that preyed on young women and she accused Piero Piccioni, 32, of being the ring's "assassin."

This testimony came in the trial of magazine editor Silvano Muto, false and alarmist reports in declaring in his publication the Montesi girl died during a dope and sex orgy.

After the girl's body was found, police ruled the death accidental, but the case exploded with Muto's report. His trial was suspended after a new investigation was launched by the government.

Piero's father resigned from his post as foreign minister last Saturday with the statement he wished to have a free hand to defend his son against charges of complicity in the case.

Soviet Move Turned Back By 43-11 Vote

Action Put Off For 1954; Van Kleffens Elected President

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U.N. Assembly as its first business today overrode Soviet demands and shelved for 1954 any action on the tension-ridden question of seating Red China.

The vote was 43-11. It was the third straight year the Assembly had taken such action.

Today's vote was virtually the same as that last year, when a similar proposal was approved 44-10. Denmark switched from the affirmative to the negative to account for the single additional vote cast against the proposal.

The vote two years ago was 42-7.

Britain and France joined the United States in urging postponement of action, even though Britain has recognized the Red Chinese government. The British told the Assembly this was not the time to consider the question.

The roll call was on a proposal by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., American delegate, to put off the issue for this year. The Assembly convened today is expected to adjourn in December.

Van Kleffens Elected

The nations voting against the Lodge resolution were Burma, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, India, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Soviet Ukraine, Soviet Ukraine, Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. Abstaining were Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

After this decision the Assembly elected Eelco N. van Kleffens, former foreign minister of the Netherlands, as president for this year. He received 45 votes. Prince Wan Waithayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, had withdrawn from the contest but got 3 votes. Twelve countries abstained.

The Assembly will complete its organization tomorrow with the election of seven vice presidents and seven committee chairmen, who will serve as its steering body.

Just before the vote on the Red China issue, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, outgoing president and sister of India's Prime Minister Nehrh, slapped down by a stern ruling an attempt by V. K. Krishna Menon, her brother's top adviser on foreign affairs, to throw the whole question over to a later time in the Assembly session.

Out Of Order, Menon Says

Menon protested that he had not had a chance to debate the issue. He said the proposal for postponement was out of order.

Krishna Menon insisted the Assembly must await a report of the Credentials Committee for a debate on the whole issue. Mrs. Pandit ruled that the Assembly by deciding to take up the Lodge resolution had decided what it wanted to do.

The Soviet Union's first deputy foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, made the same diplomatic maneuver as last year by raising the question as the session opened. He waited only until Mrs. Pandit had made her good-bye speech as Assembly president.

British Leading In A-Power Race

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) said today the British are at least 18 months ahead of the United States in the race to build a full-scale plant to produce electricity from atomic power.

Holifield, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, also said an inspection of British facilities convinced him the British are "ahead of us along certain experimental lines of power application."

But he added in an interview that "we're quite a way ahead" of Great Britain "in the over-all phase of atomic developments, particularly in the weapons field."

Holifield just returned from an official trip to Europe which included a three-day inspection of the Harwell Research Center and the Sellafield Production Center of Britain's atomic industry.

The British, he said, are constructing two reactors or atomic power plants designed to produce civilian power. The first will be completed in about two years.

But, instead of being concentrated in a single capsule, the radium is equally divided among 25 capsules arranged in a ring at the bottom of a heavily shielded chamber. The capsules are directed inwardly at an angle so that the 25 individual "beams" emitted from the ring come to a focus a few inches beneath the surface of the patient's body, striking the cancer from all angles.

N.Y. Democrats Name Harriman For Governor

Former New Deal Diplomat Defeats F. D. Roosevelt, Jr.

NEW YORK, Sept. 22 (Wednesday) (AP) — Averell Harriman won the Democratic nomination for governor early today after a heated state convention battle with Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr.

Wildly cheering demonstrations for each candidate preceded the balloting, which did not begin until after midnight.

Harriman got sufficient votes for the nomination at 1:07 a.m. (EDT).

Supporters of the late president's son failed in their hope of stampeding the convention.

Harriman, 62, wealthy former New Deal diplomat had entered the contest a heavy favorite with the backing of the most influential Democratic state leaders and Tammany Hall.

Roosevelt came into the hall immediately after Onondaga County's vote pushed Harriman's total over the 150 majority mark.

He smilingly shook hands with party leaders on the platform.

Paul E. Fitzpatrick, the convention's permanent chairman, interrupted the roll call at that point to introduce Roosevelt as "a great American."

In his appearance before the convention, Roosevelt said:

"On behalf of my many friends, I would like to suggest that the nomination of my old friend Averell Harriman be made unanimous."

Refugees, Police Clash At Saigon; Two Men Killed

SAIGON, Indochina, Sept. 21 (AP)—Five hundred refugees from the North fought police here today in a demonstration that deepened Viet Nam's government - army crisis. Two men were killed and several wounded as the police fired to disperse refugees.

The aims of the demonstration were interpreted variously.

The French News Agency said the refugees were demanding for some reason that they be returned to North Viet Nam, soon to fall completely under Communist rule. Promotion of such a demand would help Red agitators presumably assigned secretly to refugee groups to foment trouble.

But Gen. Nguyen Van Hinh, the chief of staff who is still refusing Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's order to take a "special leave" in France that the army interprets as exile, said the refugee group demonstrated in favor of Diem against the army. He charged the government promoted the clash, arming the refugees with clubs and bottles to attack the police.

The refugees are among a third of a million who abandoned homes, farms and business, and moved southward—many aboard U. S. ship and air transports—to avoid falling into the hands of the Communist - led Vietminh as it takes over North Viet Nam under the Geneva agreement ending the Indochina war.

Two Men Convicted Of Kidnaping Cabbie

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—A U. S. District Court jury today found two men guilty of kidnaping for forcing a taxicab driver to go to Maryland after the pair allegedly shot a policeman outside Connie Mack Stadium last June 22.

The jury recommended leniency for John Lorenz, 20, Yonkers, N. Y., because it was his first offense. The other man, Farris E. Morris, 32, Jackson, Miss., faces a life sentence.

Red Plot To Kidnap Own Agent Thwarted

BERLIN, Sept. 21 (AP)—West Berlin police claimed tonight to have foiled a kidnap plot ordered by the Russians against one of their own ace secret agents in the Allied sector of the city.

The police said the Communists had planned to seize the agent because they suspected him of working for the West and feeding them fake reports.

They said the plot was thwarted last night with the arrest of two German residents of the American sector suspected as the would-be kidnapers.

Yanks Leave Korea For Hawaii

Happy soldiers of the 27th "Wolfhound" Regiment of the U. S. 25th Infantry Division pack a small landing craft taking them to a waiting transport in Inchon harbor where they sailed for Hawaii. The 1,100 men comprised one of the first contingents to leave Korea under the Army's recently announced plan to pull four divisions from the peninsula. South Korean leaders have protested bitterly against the withdrawal.

Indications Point To Early Merger Of AFL And CIO

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP)—A new era of good feeling between the AFL and CIO developed today at the AFL's annual convention with indications the nation's two big labor groups plan an early merger.

The CIO sent a warm message of "fraternal best wishes" to the AFL sessions—the first time the CIO has extended such an expression of friendship since its unions broke away from the AFL nearly two decades ago.

No-Raiding Pact Hailed

In his message CIO President Walter Reuther said that the no-raiding agreement recently signed by the AFL and CIO marks "a heartening trend toward elimination of friction within the labor movement."

AFL President George Meany promised his group would meet soon with Reuther and CIO leaders with every hope of negotiating a quick merger.

"I don't think the subject should be talked or 'conferenced' to death," Meany said. "It is quite open and shut as to what we have got to do, and I think we should get to it as soon as possible after this convention.

"We need real unity in the labor movement. We have many problems that we could face in a better way if we had unity."

Welfare Fund Probe Set

On the eve of a new congressional investigation opening here tomorrow into union handling of rich welfare funds, Dave Beck, president of the AFL Teamsters' Union, issued a statement saying employers as well as union share responsibility for safeguarding such funds.

A number of California teamsters union officials were reportedly under subpoena to appear at tomorrow's hearings in the federal building before a special house subcommittee headed by Rep. Samuel McConnell (R-Pa).

Double Slayer Kills Self With Dynamite

WISE, Va., Sept. 21 (AP)—A crazed coal mine operator slugged his wife and small daughter with a hammer early today and then wrote finis to his violence and himself by touching off a half dozen cases of dynamite in the basement of their home.

The torn bodies of Leslie Green, 40; his wife, Mrs. Vercie Green, 35, and their daughter, Peggy Ann, 8, were found in the scattered wreckage of their 8-room, 2-story frame home in the Hurricane section of Wise County.

Sole member of the family to escape the blast was Betty Green, 16, who told police her mother and father had been quarreling when she went to bed last night.

Pope Limits Audiences

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy, Sept. 21 (AP)—Vatican sources said tonight that Pope Pius, fatigued from overwork, would continue to limit his number of private audiences.

29 Children, Three Men Hospitalized By Chlorine Gas

PESHTIGO, Wis., Sept. 21 (AP)—Twenty-nine school children and three men were hospitalized today after they inhaled chlorine gas escaping from a ruptured hose line in a transfer operation at the Badger paper mills.

The youngsters, affected by the gas as they walked past the plant on the way home from school, were taken to Marinette General Hospital in ambulances and police cars. They range in age from 6-14 years.

Hospital attendants said three children were "coughing badly," but the other 26 were in "satisfactory condition." A physician said chlorine gas, depending on its strength, could cause death.

South Korea Aid To Be Increased

DENVER, Sept. 21 (AP) — Plans to bolster South Korea with an additional 100 million dollars in aid by summer and to ship American coal to nations where the supply is short were announced today at the summer White House.

The decisions by President Eisenhower were disclosed by Harold E. Stassen, chief of the Foreign Operations Administration, after a conference with the chief executive.

Stassen reported that other topics were covered during the talk in Eisenhower's office at Lowry Air Force Base, but he limited his announcement to the two items.

The coal program, Stassen said, will mean purchase of about 10 million tons in American coal starting "promptly." It will provide supplies for the nations receiving it, the administrator declared, and is intended to help felieve the economic situation in United States areas "which have the largest unemployment."

He estimated two million tons of coal will be purchased in Kentucky, two million in West Virginia, two million in Pennsylvania, 1½ million in Illinois and 2½ millions elsewhere.

Nixon Criticizes And Challenges Adlai Stevenson

EAST LANSING, Mich., Sept. 21 (AP)—Vice President Nixon demanded tonight that Adlai E. Stevenson say how the policies of a Democratic Congress in 1955 would differ from those of the Truman administration.

Nixon, in a campaign speech prepared for a Republican rally at Michigan State College, gave the Eisenhower administration's reply to recent charges by Stevenson that the administration is a "give-away government" and has damaged United States prestige abroad.

"Quips And Criticism"

"Up to this time," Nixon said, "we have nothing from him but quips and criticisms without one positive constructive suggestion as to what his party would do."

"Under the circumstances, we can only assume, as his national chairman admitted in answer to a question recently, that all a Democrat Congress offers is a return to the policies of the Truman administration.

"Unless Mr. Stevenson tells the American people how he differs from those policies we shall have to continue to remind the people what those policies were."

Nixon is on an eight-state tour on behalf of congressional candidates.

Answers Stevenson Charge

Replying to Stevenson's charge that the Republicans have "a give-away government," the vice president said:

"He is correct if he refers to the fact that this administration has given back to the people 7½ billion in taxes. And parenthetically I might add that under the policies of this administration we are taking steps to tighten up the lax procedure of previous administrations which permitted espionage agents to give away to our potential enemies secret information from our State Department and our atomic program."

Nixon said it was "significant" that Stevenson offers no constructive program while criticizing the peace settlement in Indochina and the collapse of the European Defense Community.

Son Of Ex-Italian Minister Jailed In Party Girl's Death

ROME, Sept. 21 (AP)—Piero Piccioni, jazz piano playing son of former Foreign Minister Attilio Piccioni, and self-styled Marquis Ugo Montagna were arrested tonight in connection with the mystery death of party girl Wilma Montesi.

The chief of Italy's police, Giovanni Carcaterra, announced the arrests.

Piccioni, 32, is charged with aggravated manslaughter and Montagna is accused of aiding and abetting, the chief said.

Testimony in the smouldering case had linked the two men with the death of the shapely 21-year-old girl whose nearly nude body was found on the black sands of Ostia Beach near Rome a year ago last April.

One girl witness accused Montagna as "the "brains" of a dope gang that preyed on young women and she accused Piero Piccioni, 32, of being the ring's "assassin."

This testimony came in the trial of magazine editor Silvano Muto, false and alarmist reports in declaring in his publication the Montesi girl died during a dope and sex orgy.

After the girl's body was found, police ruled the death accidental, but the case exploded with Muto's report. His trial was suspended after a new investigation was launched by the government.

Piero's father resigned from his post as foreign minister last Saturday with the statement he wished to have a free hand to defend his son against charges of complicity in the case.

Soviet Move Turned Back By 43-11 Vote

Action Put Off For 1954; Van Kleffens Elected President

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U.N. Assembly as its first business today overrode Soviet demands and shelved for 1954 any action on the tension-ridden question of seating Red China.

The vote was 43-11. It was the third straight year the Assembly had taken such action.

Today's vote was virtually the same as that last year, when a similar proposal was approved 44-10. Denmark switched from the affirmative to the negative to account for the single additional vote cast against the proposal.

The vote two years ago was 42-7.

Britain and France joined the United States in urging postponement of action, even though Britain has recognized the Red Chinese government. The British told the Assembly this was not the time to consider the question.

The roll call was on a proposal by Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., American delegate, to put off the issue for this year. The Assembly convened today is expected to adjourn in December.

Van Kleffens Elected

The nations voting against the Lodge resolution were Burma, White Russia, Czechoslovakia, Denmark, India, Norway, Poland, Sweden, Soviet Ukraine, Soviet Ukraine, Soviet Union and Yugoslavia. Abstaining were Afghanistan, Egypt, Indonesia, Saudi Arabia, Syria and Yemen.

After this decision the Assembly elected Eelco N. van Kleffens, former foreign minister of the Netherlands, as president for this year. He received 45 votes. Prince Wan Waithayakon, foreign minister of Thailand, had withdrawn from the contest but got 3 votes. Twelve countries abstained.

The Assembly will complete its organization tomorrow with the election of seven vice presidents and seven committee chairmen, who will serve as its steering body.

Just before the vote on the Red China issue, Mrs. Vijaya Lakshmi Pandit, outgoing president and sister of India's Prime Minister Nehrh, slapped down by a stern ruling an attempt by V. K. Krishna Menon, her brother's top adviser on foreign affairs, to throw the whole question over to a later time in the Assembly session.

Out Of Order, Menon Says

Menon protested that he had not had a chance to debate the issue. He said the proposal for postponement was out of order.

Krishna Menon insisted the Assembly must await a report of the Credentials Committee for a debate on the whole issue. Mrs. Pandit ruled that the Assembly by deciding to take up the Lodge resolution had decided what it wanted to do.

The Soviet Union's first deputy foreign minister, Andrei Y. Vishinsky, made the same diplomatic maneuver as last year by raising the question as the session opened. He waited only until Mrs. Pandit had made her good-bye speech as Assembly president.

British Leading In A-Power Race

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — Rep. Holifield (D-Calif) said today the British are at least 18 months ahead of the United States in the race to build a full-scale plant to produce electricity from atomic power.

Holifield, a member of the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, also said an inspection of British facilities convinced him the British are "ahead of us along certain experimental lines of power application."

But he added in an interview that "we're quite a way ahead" of Great Britain "in the over-all phase of atomic developments, particularly in the weapons field."

Holifield just returned from an official trip to Europe which included a three-day inspection of the Harwell Research Center and the Sellafield Production Center of Britain's atomic industry.

The British, he said, are constructing two reactors or atomic power plants designed to produce civilian power. The first will be completed in about two years.

AEC Member Urges Step-Up In Atomic Efforts For Peace

Murray Suggests That Power Plant Be Built In Japan

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 21 (AP)—Thomas E. Murray, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, called today for the government to step up its use of the atom for peace and start by building a power plant in Japan, first victim of the atom age.

The federal government, he told the CIO United Steelworkers' convention, should develop practical electric power from the atom and help power hungry areas of the world.

The hydrogen bomb has given man the "dreadsome power of the world destruction," he said. But it can also give him the richest of "material blessings."

By locating an atom power plant on Japan, "the only land engulfed in the white flame of the atom," Murray said the United States "would demonstrate to a grim skeptical and divided world that our interest in nuclear energy is not confined to weapons."

He noted that our government now is helping Belgium to build a nuclear power reactor, and said that should be only a start toward building reactors in other foreign lands.

The world, Murray said, faces a dilemma symbolized on the one hand by the hydrogen bomb tests in the Pacific and on the other by the nation's one atomic power engine at Arco, Idaho.

"We have on the one side, frustration and world destruction; on the other, creativity and a common ground for peace and cooperation."

Murray said there is an "ever-growing and dangerous unbalance" in the fact that the atom is "far advanced in the weapons field" but is "not yet very far down the road to peace." For that reason the nation should take the lead in pouring "the energy of the atom, as soon as possible, into peaceful and constructive paths."

Murray warned that the mounting stockpiles of atomic weapons in the United States and the Soviet Union by their very existence carry a "delayed time fuse."

"The mechanisms of delay in this fuse cannot be trusted to last indefinitely," he said.

The government and not private industry, he added, must tackle the widespread building of atomic power plants.

KISS FOR JOHNNY RAY — Singer Johnny Ray, who thrilled an Australian school girl by fervently kissing her when he arrived in Melbourne recently, gave his ex-wife, Marilyn Morrison, a more sedate kiss as she welcomed him back to the U. Thieves Snatch Gold Bullion Worth $117,600

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fast working thieves crashed their truck into the rear of another today and snatched two boxes containing gold bullion worth $117,600.

The gold had come from the royal mint and was consigned to Amsterdam.

The gold, weighing about 200 pounds, was being loaded into a truck at the KLM Royal Dutch Airlines depot. A worker was closing the back of the bullion truck when the thieves' truck suddenly appeared and smashed into it.

Sheppard's Lawyer Hits Newspapers

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's lawyer, William J. Corrigan, had more sharp words for Cleveland newspapers today.

Asked to comment on published reports that he was preparing further legal action to free his client from county jail pending trial on first degree murder charges, Corrigan replied:

"The newspapers are writing out of their imaginations."

Corrigan said he had no comment on whether he would seek habeas corpus action to procure the 30-year-old osteopath's liberty. He also declined to say if he would try to have the trial, set for Oct. 18, moved to another part of the state.

He lost a legal battle yesterday when Judge Edward Blythin denied bail for Sheppard, accused of bludgeoning to death his pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31.

Blythin ruled he could find no evidence of improper action by the grand jury in indicting Sheppard.

In a final plea to the judge, Corrigan accused the Cleveland papers of "creating a sensation to sell newspapers." He said Sheppard had been "indicted by public clamor which was stirred by the press."

Steel Union Says GOP Ignores Proposals

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 21 (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CIO) today accused the Republican administration of "either inaction or outright rejection" of the union's legislative proposals.

A resolution passed at the steelworkers' biennial convention said:

"During the past 20 months our organization, for the first time in its history, has been confronted with a Republican administration both in Congress and the White House.

"As a result we have faced even greater obstacles than those previously presented by the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition in our attempt to secure fair and just legislation."

The resolution, approved by 3,000 delegates representing 1,200,000 steelworkers, said "some portions" of the USW program have been enacted.

Correspondent Freed By Reds, Mother Reunited

SPOKANE, Wash., Sept. 21 (AP)—Richard Applegate, the radio correspondent held captive 18 months by the Chinese Reds, came home to America today and had a tearful reunion with his 74-year-old mother.

Applegate ran down the steps of his plane after it landed from the Far East and embraced his mother who burst into tears.

"Why are you crying, Fatty?" Applegate said. "We're home."

Donald Dixon of the International News Service was with him. He stood by and beamed.

Applegate, 42-year-old Hong Kong correspondent for the National Broadcasting Co.,, Dixon and the skipper of their yacht were captured by the Communists as they sailed west of Hong Kong. Last week, they were suddenly released.

It was "unified prayer" that did it, said Mrs. Frank Applegate who came here from Medford, Ore. to meet her son.

"You're thinner but we'll fatten you up," she said. "We've saved corn out of the garden. We've butchered some chickens and we've got steaks for you."

"You shouldn't have mentioned that corn," Applegate said. "That's what I've been dying for."

The mother clutched her son as he told newsmen at the airport:

"I knew she was praying and working for my freedom. I don't owe anyone as much for being back in America as I do mother and dad."

Applegate, who said he lost 50 pounds in Red prisons, is going on to New York and said he plans to write and lecture to tell the world about "those dirty beasts."

Downtown Baltimore Hotel Struck, Picketed

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Some union employes struck and picketed the Southern Hotel in downtown Baltimore today.

Harry M. Sachs Jr., attorney for the Baltimore local of the Amalgamated Service Employes Union (Ind.), said a substantial number of the 150 employes refused to cross the picket line and the hotel was not able to function completely.

Harold Fink, manager of the hotel, said all but a few employes filtered through the picket line and operations were normal.

Fink said the management had trouble with "some bad bellboys" and discharged them.

Sachs said the union served notice on the hotel it wanted to negotiate a contract and set Monday as a deadline for the start of talks. There was no response, he said, so the strike started today.

Hen Again Deserts Brood; Rides Truck Axle For 180 Miles

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP) — A Virginia mother, who behaves like an outrageous biddy, was picked up here today after deserting her brood for the second time in a week.

She made the 180-mile trip from her Sweet Hill, Va., home riding on the third axle of a bulky trailer. The same thing happened last Tuesday.

The owner of the truck and trailer, George Washington Jr., described the old hen as a "Rhode Island Red."

Washington was at a loss to explain his chicken's totally irresponsible attitude toward motherhood.

"She's really a good layer," he alibied weakly—when she can control her odd yen to see the world.

Viscose Union Seeks "Modest" Wage Hike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The CIO Textile Workers of America notified the American Viscose Corp. in Philadelphia today that it will ask a "modest wage increase plus certain improvements in working conditions."

Wesley W. Cook, director of the union's synthetic yarn division, issued a statement saying "The total cost to the company of the union's proposal will not exceed 10 cents an hour."

Cook said the Viscose Advisory Council, representing approximately 10,000 employes in the seven plants of the corporation, agreed to confine their demands "in view of the unsettled conditions in the textile industry."

Nationalists Report 15 Red Junks Sunk

TAIPEH, Formosa, Wednesday, Sept. 22 (AP)—Nationalist warplanes yesterday struck the Southeast China coast north and south of battered Amoy, claiming 15 military junks sunk and five Red gunboats damaged.

The Defense ministry said the air blows in the 19th straight day of Nationalist attacks were concentrated on three sectors north and south of Amoy, which has been all but knocked out as a port.

U.S. Report Hits Russian Stalling On Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U. S. delegation made public today a report accusing the Soviet Union of having no serious desire to negotiate on the subject of disarmament.

The document reviewed disarmament talks held at U. N. directions in London last May and June. It said the Russians tried to employ these sessions as a platform for "glib distortions to support the propaganda slogan 'ban the bomb.'"

The State Department white paper released by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. is called "The Record on Disarmament." It consists of a U. S. review of 19 secret meetings in the British capital of a subcommittee of five powers on the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

"The discussions obviously did not result in the discovery of an acceptable solution," the report said. It added, "nevertheless, in our view they served several constructive purposes."

The paper listed among these constructive purposes the agreement by the four Western powers present at the talks (Britain, France, Canada and the United States) on "the establishment of an international control organ and the phasing and timing of the various elements of a disarmament program."

It said the four Western powers showed complete unity both in substance and tactics. The Soviet Union, the report declared, failed to split the Allies.

U.S. Report Hits Russian Stalling On Disarmament

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—The U. S. delegation made public today a report accusing the Soviet Union of having no serious desire to negotiate on the subject of disarmament.

The document reviewed disarmament talks held at U. N. directions in London last May and June. It said the Russians tried to employ these sessions as a platform for "glib distortions to support the propaganda slogan 'ban the bomb.'"

The State Department white paper released by U. S. Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr. is called "The Record on Disarmament." It consists of a U. S. review of 19 secret meetings in the British capital of a subcommittee of five powers on the U. N. Disarmament Commission.

"The discussions obviously did not result in the discovery of an acceptable solution," the report said. It added, "nevertheless, in our view they served several constructive purposes."

The paper listed among these constructive purposes the agreement by the four Western powers present at the talks (Britain, France, Canada and the United States) on "the establishment of an international control organ and the phasing and timing of the various elements of a disarmament program."

It said the four Western powers showed complete unity both in substance and tactics. The Soviet Union, the report declared, failed to split the Allies.

Sheppard's Lawyer Hits Newspapers

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (AP)—Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard's lawyer, William J. Corrigan, had more sharp words for Cleveland newspapers today.

Asked to comment on published reports that he was preparing further legal action to free his client from county jail pending trial on first degree murder charges, Corrigan replied:

"The newspapers are writing out of their imaginations."

Corrigan said he had no comment on whether he would seek habeas corpus action to procure the 30-year-old osteopath's liberty. He also declined to say if he would try to have the trial, set for Oct. 18, moved to another part of the state.

He lost a legal battle yesterday when Judge Edward Blythin denied bail for Sheppard, accused of bludgeoning to death his pregnant wife, Marilyn, 31.

Blythin ruled he could find no evidence of improper action by the grand jury in indicting Sheppard.

In a final plea to the judge, Corrigan accused the Cleveland papers of "creating a sensation to sell newspapers." He said Sheppard had been "indicted by public clamor which was stirred by the press."

Steel Union Says GOP Ignores Proposals

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J., Sept. 21 (AP)—The United Steelworkers of America (CIO) today accused the Republican administration of "either inaction or outright rejection" of the union's legislative proposals.

A resolution passed at the steelworkers' biennial convention said:

"During the past 20 months our organization, for the first time in its history, has been confronted with a Republican administration both in Congress and the White House.

"As a result we have faced even greater obstacles than those previously presented by the Republican-Dixiecrat coalition in our attempt to secure fair and just legislation."

The resolution, approved by 3,000 delegates representing 1,200,000 steelworkers, said "some portions" of the USW program have been enacted.

GUATEMALA, Sept. 21 (AP)—President Carlos Castillo Armas today withdrew the ban his regime had placed on permitting illiterates to vote.

Downtown Baltimore Hotel Struck, Picketed

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Some union employes struck and picketed the Southern Hotel in downtown Baltimore today.

Harry M. Sachs Jr., attorney for the Baltimore local of the Amalgamated Service Employes Union (Ind.), said a substantial number of the 150 employes refused to cross the picket line and the hotel was not able to function completely.

Harold Fink, manager of the hotel, said all but a few employes filtered through the picket line and operations were normal.

Fink said the management had trouble with "some bad bellboys" and discharged them.

Sachs said the union served notice on the hotel it wanted to negotiate a contract and set Monday as a deadline for the start of talks. There was no response, he said, so the strike started today.

Hen Again Deserts Brood; Rides Truck Axle For 180 Miles

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP) — A Virginia mother, who behaves like an outrageous biddy, was picked up here today after deserting her brood for the second time in a week.

She made the 180-mile trip from her Sweet Hill, Va., home riding on the third axle of a bulky trailer. The same thing happened last Tuesday.

The owner of the truck and trailer, George Washington Jr., described the old hen as a "Rhode Island Red."

Washington was at a loss to explain his chicken's totally irresponsible attitude toward motherhood.

Viscose Union Seeks "Modest" Wage Hike

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The CIO Textile Workers of America notified the American Viscose Corp. in Philadelphia today that it will ask a "modest wage increase plus certain improvements in working conditions."

Wesley W. Cook, director of the union's synthetic yarn division, issued a statement saying "The total cost to the company of the union's proposal will not exceed 10 cents an hour."

Cook said the Viscose Advisory Council, representing approximately 10,000 employes in the seven plants of the corporation, agreed to confine their demands "in view of the unsettled conditions in the textile industry."

Nationalists Report 15 Red Junks Sunk

TAIPEH, Formosa, Wednesday, Sept. 22 (AP)—Nationalist warplanes yesterday struck the Southeast China coast north and south of battered Amoy, claiming 15 military junks sunk and five Red gunboats damaged.

The Defense ministry said the air blows in the 19th straight day of Nationalist attacks were concentrated on three sectors north and south of Amoy, which has been all but knocked out as a port.

Thieves Snatch Gold Bullion Worth $117,600

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Fast working thieves crashed their truck into the rear of another today and snatched two boxes containing gold bullion worth $117,600.

The gold had come from the royal mint and was consigned to Amsterdam.

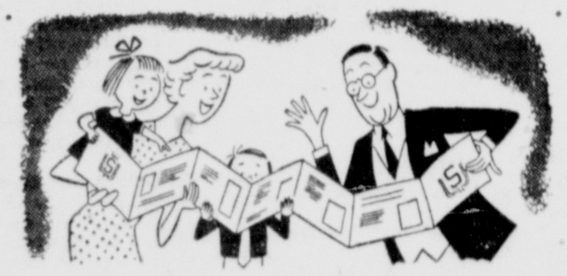

The gold, weighing about 200 pounds, was being loaded into a truck at the KLM Royal Dutch Airlines depot. A worker was closing the back of the bullion truck when the thieves' truck suddenly appeared and smashed into it.

Foreigners Will See America's Spiritual Side In Agency Exhibit

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—The U. S. Information Agency said yesterday it is sending a missionary abroad in an attempt to show that this country is not—as many foreigners think—devoted entirely to material things.

The missionary is an exhibit entitled, "The Church in America." It had a preview today before departing for its first stop, in Germany.

Even a native looking at the exhibit is apt to be surprised by the wide variety of U.S. religious experiences.

The earliest settlers brought their churches along, and there are pictures of some of the old churches: St. Paul's of New York (1764), in which George Washington worshipped when he was there; the Temple Jehuat Israel of Newport, R.I., built by Jewish merchants; the Baptist meeting house of Providence, R.I., (1775), and the Roman Catholic missions of the West Coast.

And there also are pictures of the old Russian Orthodox church in Fort Ross, Calif., the new and tranquil looking mosque here in Washington, and the Buddhist temple in San Francisco.

Modernistic churches, as well as those in the traditional style, are presented. In the traditional style is the First Presbyterian church of South Bend, Ind. Among the moderns: The Warren Memorial chapel of Monteagle, Tenn.

Nor is church art forgotten. There's a particularly impressive display of stained glass windows—made of transparencies so that they show up brilliantly when the light hits them.

But the information people think Europeans will get their biggest surprise from the pictures showing how big a role churches play in community life. In Europe, they say, churches stick more exclusively to the religious side, while here—.

Well, this section shows such scenes as that fine old American standby, the church's boys' basketball team; a nun, baseball bat drawn back most businesslike, ready to slap out a hit; a choir in a Bach concert, and four motherly looking ladies ladling out turkey and peas at a church supper.

There also are shots of the Eisenhowers leaving church and of evangelist Billy Graham talking with Speaker of the House Martin. (Oddly, neither Graham nor Martin is identified by name.)

Probably the keynote of the exhibit is a quotation from Lord Bryce, the English historian who studied U.S. habits more than a half century ago.

Bryce observed, apparently with approval, that here at least a theory held by Frederick the Great was being worked out in actual practice.

Frederick's view, according to Bryce:

Everyone should be allowed to go to heaven in his own way.

GOP, Demo Chairmen To Debate On TV-Radio

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) — CBS said today a series of four weekly Sunday debates will be broadcast on radio and television during the political campaign—two of them between the national chairmen of the two major parties.

CBS said the first debate, on Sunday, Oct. 10, will present Republican Chairman Leonard Hall and Democratic Chairman Stephen Mitchell. Hall and Mitchell also will debate on the final show of the series Oct. 31.

On the two Sunday debates in between, CBS said, the national chairmen will select high-ranking party members to debate campaign issues.

The Hall-Mitchell debates, the network said, will be broadcast "live" and will originate from whatever cities the national chairmen happen to be in at the time.

The series will be telecast at 2:30 p.m. (EST) each Sunday and will be heard on CBS radio at 10:30 p.m. (EST) the same days.

DETROIT, Sept. 21 (AP) — John Papalexopoulos, 68, an immigrant Greek grocery clerk, told Probate Judge James H. Sexton today he wanted to change his name because "the customers can't pronounce it."

Judge Sexton approved a request to change the name to John Papalexiou.

Operation Eases Blood Clot Threat

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—One hundred foreign and American cardiologists were told yesterday of a new operation which may reduce the chance of fatal blood clots in persons suffering from heart disease.

The operation was described to members of the World Congress of Cardiology, who visited here from their meeting in Washington, by the men who devised it—Dr. Sidney Scherlis, assistant professor of medicine at University hospital here and Dr. R. Adams Cowley, assistant professor of cardiology.

The operation involves the severing of some of the nerves which control the heartbeat. Dr. Scherlis said the idea is to reduce the impact of nervous reactions on the heart.

He said there is reason to believe some fatal heart attacks are caused by sudden contractions of blood vessels in the heart.

For years, he said, physicians have noted the connection between worry and heart disease, and between sudden shocks like a blast of cold air and the onset of heart attacks.

If the blood vessels of the heart are relaxed and not stimulated suddenly by various kinds of nervous reactions, he said, they might continue to function normally.

Oakland Woman Heads Maryland Pythian Sisters

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Grand Lodge Knights of Pythias of Maryland was under the direction today of a new slate of officers, including David Hettleman of Baltimore as grand chancellor.

The officers were elected and installed at the lodge's 87th annual convention here during the weekend.

Floe Schaeffer of Oakland was named grand chief of the Grand Temple Pythian Sisters.

Other new K. of P. officers include: Grand Vice Chancellor D'Arcy Harding, Cambridge; Prelate Louis J. Barnes, Brunswick; Grand Secretary Julius E. Schindler, Cumberland; Grand Treasurer Joseph R. Walter, Baltimore.

The three kinds of dikes in Holland are: "Watchers," the big ones standing in the sea to fend off first assaults of waves; "sleepers," the second line of defense behind the "watchers;" and the "dreamers," the last-resort defenders of individual farms.

Jet Transport Tests Resume This Week

SEATTLE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Test flights which "will approach closer to the speed of sound than any transport ever has done" were predicted today by the Boeing Airplane Co. for its new jet transport.

Test flying is scheduled for resumption this week. The Boeing 707 has been laid up since Aug. 5 when its nose wheel assembly was damaged in a ground accident.

The company reported the plane, which has been called "the Boeing 15-million-dollar gamble," climbed to 42,000 feet and flew at speeds above 575 miles an hour within eight days after its first takeoff in mid-July.

The Air Force recently announced an order for a "limited number" of the big planes, which can be used either as transports or tankers.

Miss America Belongs To Her Sponsors Minute Crown Is Placed Upon Her Head

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP) — "I'm sorry, honey," the man said patiently into the telephone.

"But Miss America gets paid for everything she does—except charity appearances. It will cost you a lot of money. . . . No, I'm sorry, she wouldn't be interested."

He hung up and remarked: "Some press agent for a manufacturer. Wanted to give her two sweaters for nothing if she'd endorse them. A woman actually telephoned long distance that if Lee would be photographed in a hat she'd designed, she'd give Lee the hat."

Bradford Frapart is business manager of Miss America—this year it's Lee Ann Meriwether of California—through all the financial complexities of her year in the spotlight. He and his wife, Lenora Slaughter, who is executive director of the pageant at Atlantic City where Miss America is chosen, between them practically run her life.

Frapart has hardly been beyond reach of a telephone all week, handling one commercial inquiry after another.

He ran his fingers through his hair in a tired way, then explained:

"The biggest part of this job is to keep the 10 percenters (agents on commission) away from her and make sure the wrong people aren't allowed in. We figure she can make a lot of money this year. Things are rolling in fine. At least $50,000 or $60,000, maybe more."

Lots of people want to give Lee things for free—well, practically free. Except for gifts from her sponsors, she really hasn't accumulated much loot. Two Atlantic City furriers presented her with an ermine stole and a wild mink jacket. An Atlantic City jeweler gave her a three-part white leather jewel box brimming over with rhinestone and pearl costume jewelry.

The furs and the jewelry really impressed Lee, and so, of course, has the lavish assortment of clothes.

Lee's time, last week and this week is cut up like a platinum pie. Last Monday and Tuesday she belonged to Everglaze, a fabric made by one of her sponsors. From 11 a.m. (there was a press conference earlier) to 7 p.m. she stood patiently for fittings of some of the clothes she will take with her on a South American tour.

Then came dinner—a hot turkey sandwich—with Frapart, a Nash motors executive and Mary Korey, a friendly, dark-haired young publicity woman from Atlantic City who will be her companion and trouble-shooter during the year. They sat around for a half-hour, mostly telling how tired they were, before retiring around 10.

Lee was up at 7 next morning, breakfasted on scrambled eggs and ham, and arrived at the hairdresser's by 9. It turned out she had a home permanent, which distressed the hairdresser, named Armand.

Then Lee, after an under-the-drier snack of Danish pastry and coffee, was off to Ceil Chapman's to fit, amid snapping shutters, a ball gown.

From the dressmaker's she went to a commercial photographer's studio and it was dinner time when the pictures were finished. Lee, insisting she wasn't tired, had another hot turkey sandwich, changed into evening clothes and raced off with Lola Martin, fabric promotion director, to meet Shirley Booth backstage. She was home by 9, in bed by 10.

Wednesday and Thursday, Lee belonged to Nash, another sponsor, for photographs again, this time with automobiles. Friday and Saturday the Florida citrus commission had her making television film commercials. Then Philco moved in for two days of photography. The coming week will be much like the last one.

Through all the activities of the day, the central figure sailed along as if she were alone and in the most relaxing, carefree job in the world.

"Of course, it won't be this pace all year," explained Mary, signing for a new batch of telegrams and directing another messenger where to put the flowers. "This is just the organizational phase and it is especially rough.

Do most Miss America's age perceptibly during their big year?

Mary, kicking off her pumps, said only: "It's a good thing they have an age limit on these contests. You have to be under 28 to take it."

"Hey," came Lee's voice from the next room, "What do I try on next—the Ceil Chapman with the bugle-beads?"

American Negro Will Disappear, Geneticist Says

BERKELEY, Calif., Sept. 21 (AP) —The American Negro eventually will disappear by mixing into the caucasian population, and the main mark he will leave on the whites will be a slightly brunette shade, says a University of California geneticist.

The process will require centuries, but just how long will depend on social developments, says Dr. Curt Stern, a professor of zoology who specializes in the study of heredity. Dr. Stern makes the statements in the October issue of the Scientific American.

There will be two stages of the process, he adds.

First, an increasing number of ostensibly black people who already have a mixture of white in them will become whiter as they mix with other whites and their offspring will become known as white.

This will leave a smaller number of Negroes who can be classed as black. Second, these supposedly little-diluted blacks will be somewhat more African in appearance than the Negro of today. Whether they will mix slowly into the overwhelming larger white group or be taken into it rather rapidly will depend on social considerations of the future.

Dr. Stern figures that 78 per cent of the American Negroes today can claim some white blood. By 1980, he calculates, there probably will be scarcely a Negro in the United States who can claim pure African descent.

More than 50 per cent of the population of Bolivia are Indians who speak only their own dialects.

There are about 10 billion cells in the human brain.

Ground Is Broken For New Hospital Building

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Ground was broken yesterday for the first of two new hospital buildings to house Maryland's chronically ill.

Gov. McKeldin turned the first spade full of earth for construction of a 213-bed addition to Montebello Hospital during ceremonies held in a drizzling rain with a few state officials looking on.

Dr. Robert H. Riley, director of the State Department of Health, said the two-story addition will cost about 2½ million dollars and will bring the hospital's capacity to 367 beds. Recent renovation of a laundry building at Montebello, formerly known as Sydenham Hospital, added 49 beds to the 105 in the old main building.

The governor will break ground in similar ceremonies on September 27 in Hagerstown where a three million dollor, 300-bed chronic disease hospital will be built.

GULF'S COMPLETELY NEW AND DIFFERENT GASOLINE...

ACTUALLY MAKES CARS PERFORM BETTER THAN NEW...

AFTER 15,000 MILES!

NEW SUPER-REFINED GULF NO-NOX

HIGHER-THAN-NEW HORSEPOWER! BETTER-THAN-NEW ON GASOLINE MILEAGE! AND NOT A SINGLE TRACE OF CARBON KNOCK OR PRE-IGNITION AT ANY TIME—EVEN ON THE STEEPEST MOUNTAIN GRADES!

Instead of trying to fight trouble-making deposits with so-called "miracle-additives"—inside your engine—Gulf believes in preventing them from forming in the first place. That's why Gulf, in making new Super-Refined NO-NOX, refines out the carbon-forming, "dirty-burning tail-end"—more than a cupful in every gallon. Just look at the plates the Gulf scientist is holding in the unretouched photo above, and see what a difference Gulf super refining makes!

Now—Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines. Result: a cleaner-burning super-fuel that gives you thousands of extra miles of full engine power . . . free from knock or pre-ignition.

Starting with your first tankful, this new, super-refined, super-powered fuel will give you these immediate and lasting benefits:

- More complete engine protection than the so-called "miracle-additive" gasolines. Why? Because Gulf refines out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline, the No. 1 troublemaker in high-compression engines—and then treats this new Super-Refined NO-NOX to give it a complete range of protective properties. It protects every part it touches against harmful deposits—carbon, rust, gum.
- Extra gas mileage. Why? Because new NO-NOX is specially blended for the short-trip, stop-and-go driving you do most.
- No knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's super-compression engines. Why? Because the anti-knock power of new NO-NOX has been stepped up to an all-time high.
- Stall-proof smoothness—no more worries about carburetor icing in chilly weather, or vapor lock on warm days. Instant starts, too—and fast, fuel-saving warm-up.

That's why new Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX gives you more power-with-protection than you've ever known.

A "swinging" walk should be corrected—you look more graceful without the swing.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

I just wish every woman could see herself—from the back—as she walks. The swinging, hip-thumping walk would be banished forever!

You can't crane your neck to see your walk as other see it. But you can get a pretty accurate walking picture of yourself as you pass store windows, and before your mirror at home.

One more thing you can do: Watch other women walk. On any street in New York you can distinguish the professional models—by their looks, yes; but even more by the way they walk. They actually appear to glide! You'll notice that some women everywhere move just as gracefully.

Corrective Measures

Since a faulty walk detracts from all a woman's other charms, it should be corrected. There's no quick way, but there are sure ways to do so. Let's start now by doing away with that swing.

Relax your knees, and transfer your weight from one foot to the other both quickly and smoothly. Smoothly, so you won't bounce. Quickly, so you won't settle into your hips with each step— that's what makes the hips roll, and it's a habit you want to avoid.

Push forward a little with your back foot as you walk. Pull your body high, and lift your chest out of the rib cage. Not only does slumping interfere with your easy motion, it's downright unattractive.

Here's a little trick to increase your grace: Practice walking two parallel lines about two inches apart, keeping your feet straight ahead, and remembering what I've told you about doing away with the swing. When you feel you've corrected this walking fault on a level, practice walking up and down stairs.

Up And Down

Keep your hand away from the railing! When climbing stairs, don't work at it. Don't haul yourself up by the rail. Don't lean over and crawl. Do this: Incline your whole body slightly forward, carrying your weight ahead of your hips. Place one foot steady and push upward with your back foot (smoothly, please!) just lifting your knees enough to make the riser.

Coming down, turn slightly sideways. Then you can see the stairs ahead without leaning over. Stand straight, bending the back knee until the forward foot touches the step below.

Haven't you seen actresses look really regal as they slowly descend a marble staircase, or as they glide the length of a grand ballroom? That's the way you can look, too!

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree—to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

A "swinging" walk should be corrected—you look more graceful without the swing.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

I just wish every woman could see herself—from the back—as she walks. The swinging, hip-thumping walk would be banished forever!

You can't crane your neck to see your walk as other see it. But you can get a pretty accurate walking picture of yourself as you pass store windows, and before your mirror at home.

One more thing you can do: Watch other women walk. On any street in New York you can distinguish the professional models—by their looks, yes; but even more by the way they walk. They actually appear to glide! You'll notice that some women everywhere move just as gracefully.

Corrective Measures

Since a faulty walk detracts from all a woman's other charms, it should be corrected. There's no quick way, but there are sure ways to do so. Let's start now by doing away with that swing.

Relax your knees, and transfer your weight from one foot to the other both quickly and smoothly. Smoothly, so you won't bounce. Quickly, so you won't settle into your hips with each step— that's what makes the hips roll, and it's a habit you want to avoid.

Push forward a little with your back foot as you walk. Pull your body high, and lift your chest out of the rib cage. Not only does slumping interfere with your easy motion, it's downright unattractive.

Here's a little trick to increase your grace: Practice walking two parallel lines about two inches apart, keeping your feet straight ahead, and remembering what I've told you about doing away with the swing. When you feel you've corrected this walking fault on a level, practice walking up and down stairs.

Up And Down

Keep your hand away from the railing! When climbing stairs, don't work at it. Don't haul yourself up by the rail. Don't lean over and crawl. Do this: Incline your whole body slightly forward, carrying your weight ahead of your hips. Place one foot steady and push upward with your back foot (smoothly, please!) just lifting your knees enough to make the riser.

Coming down, turn slightly sideways. Then you can see the stairs ahead without leaning over. Stand straight, bending the back knee until the forward foot touches the step below.

Haven't you seen actresses look really regal as they slowly descend a marble staircase, or as they glide the length of a grand ballroom? That's the way you can look, too!

YOUR POSTURE

To achieve grace of the highest degree—to make yours the posture ideal — to improve stance, figure, health and the appearance of your clothes as well, read the informative, easy-to-follow booklet "YOUR POSTURE". For a copy, write to Secrets of Charm in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope and 10c in coin to help cover cost.

Political Observers List "Jack" Pollack As Byrd Supporter

[By The Associated Press]

James H. (Jack) Pollack, Baltimore political leader who has supported both Democrats and Republicans, was being listed as a down-the-line backer of H. C. Byrd by political observers today.

Byrd headquarters meantime announced the naming of Stanley L. Sagner, nationally prominent Baltimore clothing manufacturer, to the steering committee which is plotting the Democratic campaign.

Sagner played a major role in the primary campaign of George P. Mahoney, narrowly defeated by Byrd for the nomination for governor.

He was put into harness last night to introduce Byrd at a campaign dinner in Baltimore.

Sagner declared in a formal statement:

"The experience of the last four years of Republican administration . . . proves beyond a doubt the State government needs closer supervision and a sound, business-like management.

"The State has suffered from absentee management by a wandering governor. Surpluses have been eaten up and an 18-million dollar deficit faces us as the result of unbusiness-like conduct of the State's affairs. It has wasted the substance of the people, turned surpluses into deficits and can point to no program of accomplishment.

"The solution of our problem lies in the election of a capable administrator like Harry C. Byrd as governor and a Democratic administration to provide the constructive, planning and far-sighted leadership which the people of Maryland have come to expect of the Democratic party."

Pollack is seen frequently around Democratic campaign headquarters in Baltimore.

A Democrat, Pollack backed William Preston Lane Jr., in the primary four years ago and Lane carried the 4th District's seven unit votes.

Then, Pollack reversed himself, supported Republican Gov. McKeldin and the district went right along with the boss.

Pollack's falling out with Lane was attributed to a political appointment displeasing to big Jack.

The 4th District leader has supported Byrd since early in last summer's primary election campaign. And the 4th was the only district in the city to go for Byrd over Mahoney.

Had Mahoney carried the district instead of Byrd, the latter's slim margin would have been upset and Mahoney today would be the Democratic party's nominee for governor.

Veteran politicians expect the State's biggest city to be pivotal territory in the general elections next Nov. 2—just as it was in the Democratic primary.

It has been a political axiom that the Democratic candidate must win in the city by about 40,000 votes if he is to carry the State.

In the general election, the popular vote replaces the unit vote system in effect during the primaries.

McKeldin carried Baltimore by 43,000 votes in 1950, despite a heavy margin of registered Democrats over Republicans on city election rolls.

McKeldin had a state-wide advantage of 81,000 votes in the 1950 elections.

Campaigning at Takoma Park yesterday, Byrd sidestepped the segregation issue when questioned by reporters.

The Democratic candidate was there to address the Montgomery County Junior College convocation.

"I have no comment of any kind on integration," he told reporters.

Their questions followed Byrd's address in which he quoted a Far Eastern educator saying "There's no difference in the ability to learn of any race."

"In the years to come, we are going to have to compete with yellow-skinned people who are just as well trained as you are," Byrd told students and faculty.

McKeldin was in Cumberland officating at ceremonies launching construction of the Blue Bridge linking Maryland and West Virginia from Cumberland to Ridgeley.

Maryland Harvest About Completed

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 21 (AP)—Farmers in Maryland and Delaware are about through with the fall harvest and are already preparing the soil for winter crops.

The only heavy harvesting activity noted today in the weekly crop and weather report by federal and state agencies was in the fruit belt, where the fall apple harvest is in full swing.

Pasture and hay seedings are complete, the report said, much of the rye is already in the ground, barley is being planted, and ground is being prepared for winter oats and wheat.

State U. N. Association Plans Exposition

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—The United Nations Association of Maryland is planning a U. N. Exposition at the Fifth Regiment Armory here Oct. 22-23-24 and describes it as the first ever held.

Exhibits will show traditions, cultures, customs, religions and costumes of the 60 nations in the world organization, plus its contributions to them and their contributions to it.

U. Of Md. Prexy Says Grid Loss Now And Then Helpful

COLLEGE PARK, Md., Sept. 21 (AP)—Dr. Wilson Elkins, the new president of the University of Maryland, said today he would be "pleased to sit in the reflected glory" of a winning football team, but suggested a loss or two now and then.

Coach Jim Tatum of the Maryland football team was an interested listener at the president's side.

The president, who has been on the campus of the defending national champion for only 20 days, also told a sports reporters' luncheon that he is in favor of post season bowl games.

"I don't look on them as any different from games during the season," Dr. Elkins said. "They have the same values to the athletes."

However, he expressed a fear of harm to a university's academic program if it always won and went to a bowl.

"If a team stayed on top year after year, the probability is it would impair our education program because we were so engaged in recruiting (players) and so concerned with winning.

"We must realize that once in every two or three years even Tatum must lose a game.

"Generally speaking, a college doesn't participate in a bowl very often. If it played annually, then you might find it detrimental. If it is impairing the educational program of athletes, then, of course, you ought to reconsider."

In seven years of football coaching by Tatum, Maryland has been undefeated in 1951 and 1953 and played in four bowls. It lost last Jan. 1 in the Orange Bowl to Oklahoma.

Maryland opened the 1954 season last Saturday by beating Kentucky and Dr. Elkins said "I hope it will continue the same path."

Dr. Elkins claimed that some of his earlier statements on athletics had been "misinterpreted and colored."

"I tried to emphasize that I believe strongly in a strong, wholesome athletic program," he told the sports reporters. "My aim is to continue to encourage, foster and help it."

Complaint Brought Against Widower Who Wed Girl, 14

HAGERSTOWN, Sept. 21 (AP)— Alvey G. Whitmer, 38-year-old widower with six children, was charged today with contributing to the delinquency of a minor by marrying 14-year-old Mattie Pearl Herrin.

Whitmer's children range in ages from 7 to 15—a year older than his bride.

Deputy Sheriff Leister Isanogle said Whitmer acknowledged marrying the girl in Arlington, Va., last Monday.

The complaint was brought by Mrs. Glenn Stauffer, sister of the 14-year-old bride. Whitmer was released on $500 bond pending trial in Juvenile Court next Monday. His wife was held on charges of being delinquent while authorities considered her plight.

The Whitmers live on a farm between Hagerstown and Williamsport.

Portugal has been an independent state since the Twelfth Century.

Nation's Taxpayers $2,804 Richer As Library Of Congress Holds Rummage Sale

By ARTHUR EDSON

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Library of Congress has held a rummage sale, and the good news today is that the nation's taxpayers are $2,804.50 the richer because of it.

It tossed out 80,000 volumes — some because they were no longer needed, some because they were duplicates—and put them on sale, take your pick at 50 cents each. The 1,171 buyers who wandered among the crammed shelves had their choice of such goodies as:

The Annual Report, Par III, of the Army Chief of Engineers (1892).

Cuba's 1943 census report. In Spanish, of course.

The bound volumes of the first half of 1926 of the Gold Coast Gazette, a newspaper published in Accra, West Africa.

Last year's Sears, Roebuck catalogue.

One yellowed volume had a reminder that no matter how much the world changes, Congress runs on pretty much the same.

Consider this dialogue:

Mr. Rogers of New Jersey: "Will the gentleman from Illinois yield to me for a moment?"

Mr. Kuykendall: "Not now."

Rogers: "I have been very liberal to others."

Kuykendall: "I know that; but the gentleman is not answering any questions I have put."

This sort of parliamentary jousting could have been heard at almost any session of the last Congress. Yet the quotes are from the Congressional Globe, the predecessor of today's Congressional Record, for March 3, 1866.

Of the 75,000 discards remaining, the library will give first choice to schools interested in filling chinks in their attics. The remainder will be sold as wastepaper.

Some of the books had a historical appeal. Bt it was hard to determine what attracted many of the buyers. During a discussion of useless reading material, one reporter mentioned he couldn't think of anything more useless than back copies of the "Almanach de Gotha," written in French, which contains, among other things, a short list of European royalty.

"But you know," said a library assistant, "we must have had 10 people asking for that very thing. And do you know the payoff? One fellow bought 30 copies. Seemed happy about it, too. Why, I don't know."

The consensus is his wife will be holding her own rummage sale before long.

New Political Storm Sweeps South Carolina Demos Over Choice Of Maybank's Successor

By DON WHITEHEAD

COLUMBIA, S. C., Sept. 21 (AP) — South Carolina is being swept by a new political storm today that has Democratic party unity just about as tattered as it was in the 1952 Eisenhower-for-president rebellion.

Whether the sound and fury will subside to a breeze by Nov. 2 remains to be seen. Some say yes. Others say no.

This time the trouble came after the Democratic State Executive Committee named State Sen. Edgar Brown, 66, of Barnwell, as the U.S. Senate nominee instead of calling for a special primary election to choose the successor to the late Sen. Burnet R. Maybank who died Sept. 1.

The nomination in this heavily Democratic state is equivalent to election. And not since 1894 has South Carolina named a senator to a full six-year term without a primary vote by the people.

Violent Reaction

The reaction to the committee's 31-18 vote on Sept. 3 against a primary was sudden, violent and jarring. Almost every daily and weekly newspaper in the state is calling for a primary. They have fanned the issue to a white heat—at least for the moment.

Committee leaders defend their action by saying the group took the only course open to them under the law—and that any other course would be tainted by "collusion" and so suspect that it might mean the party would reach the November election with no legal candidate at all. No one yet has challenged the legality of the committee's action and its legal right to choose the nominee under the circumstances.

And so the committee leaders—headed by Chairman Neville Bennett — are standing pat behind Brown and going right ahead with his campaign as the Democratic party's nominee.

"Bishop Of Barnwell"

Brown is a big, bald, 6-foot man with a talent for politics that has earned him the title of the most powerful political figure in South Carolina. He has a host of friends and a host of enemies.

He is known affectionately to some as "the bishop of Barnwell" because of his clerical appearance. And he's known also and not with affection as "the boss of the Barnwell ring" which is the nearest thing to a state political machine that exists in South Carolina.

Neither Brown nor his friends apparently anticipated the intensity of the storm that broke after the committee meeting when the press lined up for a primary and brushed aside the arguments that a primary couldn't be held legally.

The combined opposition position, however, is that the executive committee can find a legal means to hold a primary just as easily as it found legal arguments against a primary.

Up to now, most of the criticism has been against the committee and not against Brown himself who is saying little and apparently gambling the heat will subside before election day.

Byrnes, Thurmond Involved

Interest in this conflict has been fanned higher because of the "big three" personalities involved:

1. Brown, Democratic national committeeman, president pro-tem of the State Senate and chairman of its Finance Committee. Despite past failure to win popular support for a U.S. Senate seat, his power in the State House has grown through the years. His strong support of Adlai Stevenson in 1952 helped keep South Carolina in the Democratic column.

2. Gov. James F. Byrnes, former secretary of state in the Truman administration. He broke with the Democratic administration two years ago and led the fight which almost carried South Carolina for Eisenhower. He is seeking to have the executive committee reverse its position and call a primary.

3. Former Gov. J. Strom Thurmond, 52. He ran for the presidency in 1948 on a States Rights ticket and gave last-minute support to Eisenhower. He is running as a write-in candidate against Brown. The South Carolina ballot has a space for write-in votes.

A second write-in candidate is Marcus A. Stone, Florence and Dillon lumberman.

Mitchell Endorses Brown

Byrnes has not formally linked forces with Thurmond and it's not certain he will. But it is certain the governor won't back Brown who already has received the blessing of Democratic National Chairman Stephen Mitchell.

Byrnes said in an interview: "If there isn't a primary election, I'll not support the candidate of the executive committee, named under the circumstances as he was. Whom I would support, I'm not prepared to say."

But at this point, Thurmond is the only challenger to Brown.

In separate interviews, both Byrnes and Thurmond said in approximately the same language that the issue is whether or not the people of South Carolina "will permit 31 men to name their senator and deny them their right of a free choice." Each contended this was a Democratic family dispute that had no relationship at all to the party split over Eisenhower.

Byrnes said that in his opinion if an election were held right now, a write-in candidate would ride to victory on the wave of indignation that has been created.

But Brown put the fight in this perspective:

"The real issue in this situation is Democratic regularity against the independents and the Republicans. The very same leaders who led the 1952 movement to leave the party and support Eisenhower are supporting this movement against me and the committee.

"It isn't the rank and file of Democratic voters. The newspaper talk doesn't reflect the feeling of the people who have come back to the party. This ferment will die down. It's the die-hard leaders who supported Eisenhower who are trying to get control of the party."

Brown said he would make his fight on two main arguments: first, the argument of party regularity and, second, the argument that the committee acted within the law in the only legal manner possible.

Thus the lines have been drawn in one of the most unusual and complex political situations South Carolina has seen develop.

It came about in this way:

Sen. Maybank was nominated without opposition for another U.S. Senate term in a primary election held last July. He died suddenly of a heart attack Sept. 1 shortly after midnight—just two days before the deadline for filing the names of nominees to appear on the general election ballot in November.

Emergency Meeting Called

South Carolina election law says the nominees' names must be certified to the secretary of state 60 days before the general election but a dead man's name can't be certified. It also says that if a nominee dies or withdraws, the committee may choose his successor if there is not time enough in which to call a primary election.

After Maybank's death, a call went out for an emergency meeting of the state executive committee in Columbia Sept. 3—the deadline date for certification of nominees.

About this time Byrnes stepped in with a statement that he hoped a primary election would be held.

At first there seemed to have been a general assumption a primary election would be called. Then reports circulated that the committee itself might name Brown and that his name was being pushed by his friends.

When the committee met, with members from each of the counties, the arguments revolved around the question of whether a legal primary could be held since the certification deadline was at midnight of that same day.

It was suggested the committee name a "stand-in" nominee and have his name certified as the legal candidate. Then the stand-in would withdraw, a primary election would be held, and the actual nominee would be chosen.

South Carolina law allows a party to substitute a candidate for one who dies or withdraws.

"It isn't the rank and file of Democratic voters. The newspaper talk doesn't reflect the feeling of the people who have come back to the party. This ferment will die down. It's the die-hard leaders who supported Eisenhower who are trying to get control of the party."

Brown said he would make his fight on two main arguments: first, the argument of party regularity and, second, the argument that the committee acted within the law in the only legal manner possible.

Thus the lines have been drawn in one of the most unusual and complex political situations South Carolina has seen develop.

It came about in this way:

Sen. Maybank was nominated without opposition for another U.S. Senate term in a primary election held last July. He died suddenly of a heart attack Sept. 1 shortly after midnight—just two days before the deadline for filing the names of nominees to appear on the general election ballot in November.

Emergency Meeting Called

South Carolina election law says the nominees' names must be certified to the secretary of state 60 days before the general election but a dead man's name can't be certified. It also says that if a nominee dies or withdraws, the committee may choose his successor if there is not time enough in which to call a primary election.

After Maybank's death, a call went out for an emergency meeting of the state executive committee in Columbia Sept. 3—the deadline date for certification of nominees.

About this time Byrnes stepped in with a statement that he hoped a primary election would be held.

At first there seemed to have been a general assumption a primary election would be called. Then reports circulated that the committee itself might name Brown and that his name was being pushed by his friends.

When the committee met, with members from each of the counties, the arguments revolved around the question of whether a legal primary could be held since the certification deadline was at midnight of that same day.

It was suggested the committee name a "stand-in" nominee and have his name certified as the legal candidate. Then the stand-in would withdraw, a primary election would be held, and the actual nominee would be chosen.

South Carolina law allows a party to substitute a candidate for one who dies or withdraws.

Widow Is Appointed To Education Board

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Mrs. Ruth Marcus of Baltimore was named by Gov. McKeldin yesterday to the vacancy on the State Board of Education caused by the death of her husband, Richard, Aug. 8.

Marcus, a civic leader and president of Louis Marcus Corp., had been a member of the board since Nov. 7, 1953.

His wife is a native of Norfolk, Va., but was raised and schooled in Baltimore. She received her bachelor of arts degree from Goucher College.

Mrs. Marcus said she was "very pleased and very honored" by the appointment. As a mother of two daughters, she said, she is extremely interested in the development of the state's educational system.

She said she will be particularly interested in teacher training and standards.

But the Brown forces argued in the committee that under the circumstances such a move to set up a "dummy" candidate might be illegal and it could open the way for the election of a Republican senator. (As it turned out, no Republican candidate was qualified for the general election Senate race.)

A motion to hold a primary was defeated—31 to 18—and then the committee unanimously named Brown as the party nominee.

This action triggered the explosion.

Charges were made that the "Barnwell ring" had pulled a fast one, handing Brown a U.S. Senate seat that he hadn't been able to win in a popular vote test almost 30 years ago.

Brown ran for the Senate in 1926 against E. D. "Cotton Ed" Smith and was defeated in a primary run-off by 5,000 votes. He ran again in 1938 against Smith and Olin D. Johnston—but withdrew from the race two days before the primary election when it became apparent that Johnston and not Brown had at least the implied support of President Roosevelt.

Byrnes, never mentioning Brown by name in the interview, referred to the situation as being "cock-eyed."

The governor argued the deadline was not absolutely mandatory and that there was nothing to prevent the candidate (Brown) from withdrawing and opening up the field for a free-for-all primary.

"There is no question that a primary can be held legally," Byrnes said. "And as far as time is concerned, I can get ballots all over the state in five hours by using the Highway Department. So the argument that there is not time is no argument at all."

Thurmond already has his headquarters set up two blocks from the opposition headquarters. Does he think he can win with a write-in vote which has proved almost a political impossibility in race of this kind.

"There's no question the way the vote will go if two things are done," Thurmond said. "First, the press must keep up their campaign against the committee action, and, second, we'll have to put on an educational campaign to show the people how to write in a vote.

As for the Democratic loyalty oath to support the party nominee, Thurmond argued the people are not bound in this election because the requirement only refers to nominees chosen by primary election.

Efforts are underway to have the committee meet again and rescind its Sept. 3 action—but it's doubtful if this move will be successful.

Two Wills Admitted To Probate Here

Two wills were probated in Orphans Court yesterday.

The will of Bertha K. Dailey listed a nephew, Francis Joseph Read, Potomac Park, as executor with bond set at $5,000. A cash bequest was made to Martha Louise Kelley and Louisa A. Read, sister of the deceased, was principal beneficiary.

The will of Elizabeth Knieriem, city, was admitted to probate with Loretta Carney and Lillian Conlon her daughters, listed as executrices.

A cash bequest was made to SS. Peter and Paul Catholic Church and the estate was left to the three daughters of the deceased. They are Margaret Knieriem and the other two mentioned.

Rec Activities Slated This Fall

The Recreation Department is contacting grade schools in connection with formulating its fall program.

Director Robert E. Pence said the touch football program will be a major part of the setup for grade, junior and senior high boys and adults. Twirling classes are planned for girls.

Pence said assistance is being received from Mrs. Peggy Mackert who is drawing up plans for junior and senior girls and women and Mrs. Eva Hogan for the senior citizens, those over 65 years of age.

This, Pence emphasized, is not all of the department's fall program. Also included are the Civic Theatre (dramatics), badminton, reorganization of the Women's Recreation Association (volleyball and basketball), the Teen Club for colored youth, and a continuation of contributions to leadership of the Art Center.

Pence said he is trying to get most of the activities in line before he leaves this weekend for the 36th annual National Recreation Conference at St. Louis. Pence will be at the conference, opening September 27 and continuing through October 1.

Driver Is Injured In Auto Accident

A local driver is a patient in Memorial Hospital after being in a car-tractor-trailer accident on Route 28 at the Wiley Ford intersection early yesterday.

Jack Whittington, 28, of 205 Humbird Street, was brought to the hospital by his brother, James Whittington, and was admitted for observation.

Cpl. F. H. Tribett, of the Keyser Detachment of West Virginia State Police, said Whittington's 1950 auto collided with a tractor-trailer driven by Jack Wastle, 46, of Fayette City, Pa.

Both vehicles were traveling north and Whittington told hospital attendants that the left front tire of his auto blew out, causing him to hit the rear of the truck.

Cpl. Tribett said the investigation is being continued.

Wempe Given Permit To Build Dwelling

The building engineer records show the structure will be 28 by 44 feet with a concrete block foundation, stone veneer walls and asphalt shingle roof.

Hurricane Scrutiny Has Its Drama

Hurricane Edna and her sisters in the Atlantic were under close scrutiny from the minute they were born in their Caribbean nursery until they fizzled at sea. This was necessary because a hurricane is most unpredictable and can alter course for any number of reasons having to do with natural forces.

Keeping them in view is the dangerous, nerve wracking job performed by the crews of Navy and Air Force planes which are organized into special "hurricane hunter" squadrons.

One of the more dramatic stories to come out of the recorded history of Hurricane Edna was the 16-hour ordeal of 10 fliers in their Bermuda-based B-29. In the early morning hours they plunged through Edna's outer turbulence and into the comparatively calm "eye" of the great circular storm. From there they bird-dogged the hurricane as it moved ponderously up the coast.

They sent out a stream of weather data and precise location fixes. Thus, the shore weather stations knew more about Edna than Edna did herself. After nine hours of this rugged patrol the bomber was about to turn back to base when its radio picked up the weak SOS sent out by the Nantucket Lightship, which was adrift and powerless.

Without hesitation the pilot headed the plane into the vicious outer winds — winds which toss bombers about like blown leaves and strip paint from the wings and fuselage. Flying just off the water he located the lightship by radar, and flew circles overhead until a Coast Guard plane could get through and take over sentry duty.

With gas almost gone, and navigational equipment out, the big plane staggered out of the blow and made a coastal landfall. The exhausted pilot landed his plane with the fuel gauges reading empty.

These Days

A Deadly Syllogism

The editor of the Waterbury, Conn., Republican, raised a most interesting question. He is dealing with investigations of persons and he says:

"A perfectly deadly syllogism is abroad in this country today. It runs something like this: The Communists profess to be for a better break all around for the economically and socially depressed; here's a fellow who feels that fine as our American system is, it will bear economic and social improvement; therefore he is a Communist or, at the very least, he will bear watching."

Men have labored to improve social and economic conditions in the capitalist world, Charles Dickens, William Morris, Henry George, Jacob Riis, Jane Addams, Samuel Gompers, to pick a few names, without being regarded as Communists. In fact, Henry George and Samuel Gompers labored valiantly against Marxism. Social and economic conditions in the capitalist world have been improving since the dark days in the early 19th Century often called the Industrial Revolution. And they will continue to be improved, just as the 56-hour week gave way to the 40-hour week; just as women and children have been protected in labor.

The quarrel is never over the need for elevating the proletariat to the living conditions of the middle class of the 19th Century, and even better, because of technologic developments. It is over the method of change, whether it is to be by a rising standard of living through an evolutionary process, tested against existing social and economic conditions, or by the clash of revolution.

Marxism is more than a method for improving the conditions of mankind. Were it only that, it would be little different than the reformist movements such as, for instance, the Bull Moose of Theodore Roosevelt. It is a philosophy of total change, not only of the environment but of the nature of man. It involves a revolutionary alteration of man's thinking, including a rejection of what the Marxists call "mystical superstitions," namely, God and every expression of religion.

Therefore, many men and women who labor to improve the lot of man, even in this generation, cannot be called Communists because they are anti-Marxist. Nobody would regard Bishop Fulton Sheen as a Communist. The issue is the relationship of a man's thinking to God and his conduct to the Natural Law, which every Marxist must reject.

On the question of who bears watching, it has been my experience that nobody is investigated who has not of his own accord put himself into a position that requires some explanation. Often the investigation can save a man from difficulties. For instance, rumors about Dr. Ralph Bunche have been continuous for several years; the investigation saved Dr. Bunche from destruction by rumor, for which Dr. Bunche was in a measure himself responsible. True, some people like to believe wrong of a man but when Dr. Bunche was recently promoted by the United Nations, not a voice was raised against him.

The FBI is required to investigate applicants for employment or promotion by the United States Government. It either makes a name check which is generally a reference to its own files or it makes a field check which is thorough and takes a long time. In more than one instance, I am sure that favorable testimony helped the person get the job. Why should we all assume that all testimony is unfavorable?

Practically every member of our government is investigated sooner or later. Yet more than 2,300,000 men and women do hold positions in the federal government despite all the excitement about Communists in government. There are undoubtedly some Communists in our government; there are not as many as there used to be. The significance of one Communist in a critical area is that every member of this party is literally an agent of a foreign power. He is a security risk. But most employes of our government, all of whom are investigated, are not security risks. They are just Americans.

The man who has not put himself in a bad spot need not fear investigation. But even the man who put himself in a bad spot can always clear his record if he has a mind to. Or if he does not care, he need not seek employment that requires a security investigation.

Push Button War!

Navy Is Far Behind In Construction Of New Rocket-Launching Platform

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — With the next war likely to be one of trans-Atlantic rockets, and with Russia reported well ahead in the rocket field, the Navy is months behind in its construction of a rocket-launching platform at Dahlgren, Va.

The Navy has done some amazing pioneer work in developing rockets. But you can't launch rockets without launching-platforms, and the platform for the latest supersecret rocket and guided-missile program is now nearly six months behind schedule. It was due to be finished on March 28, but it is still not completed.

Here is the inside story of what's been happening. The track that carries the rocket on its initial course must be absolutely straight. The rocket travels at a speed of two to three times the speed of sound, and any vibration due to variation in the track might shake the launching base apart.

But the battleship admirals were not willing to spare enough nickel steel for the launching track. Instead, the nickel steel has been used for armor plate. In other words, it's the old story of the rivalry between the battleship admirals and the air admirals all over again.

Curtis Builders, who got the contract from the Navy for $1,668,700, sublet the job of machining the track to Parkersburg Die and Tool Company, of Parkersburg, W. Va. As early as March 22, 1953, more than a year ago, however, Loren Thompson, head of the Parkersburg company, wrote a letter to the Navy.

"For the time being and until further examination can be made," he warned, "we are advising you that the material as furnished is unsuitable for rocket launcher track as designs and blue-prints now specify."

What he referred to was the fact that U. S. Steel had supplied a commercial grade of stainless steel instead of nickel steel, as originally specified. However, the Navy had pre-empted the nickel steel for armor plate.

Interesting Alibis

Checking on reasons for the long delay in building a vitally important installation, this column got the following comment:

Stephen Nesbitt, spokesman for the Parkersburg company: "You can't make a launcher out of bum steel. We write the Navy and ask them how to proceed, and they don't answer."

John Krytusa, head of Curtis Builders: "I can't comment. I couldn't tell you anything until I talked to the Navy."

Comdr. H. L. Haworth, speaking for the Navy: "I won't comment. You have no call to write anything about this for at least three months. Then we'll know what mistakes we've made.

"If this story gets out," he added, "it will cost the taxpayers money. We'll have to write letters and answer questions. It will just add to the confusion around here."

However, the months continue to drag by and one of the Navy's most important test projects also continues to drag. So perhaps it would be better to have the Navy use up a little stationery answering letters and thereby help get to the bottom of things. At least, the Navy won't have to pay for the postage.

Probe Of AEC Needed

Two supersecret agencies hitherto beyond the pale of investigation are the Atomic Energy Commission and the Central Intelligence Agency. For obvious reasons many of their secrets must always remain secret.

However, Gen. Mark Clark, one of the ablest of our retired military officers, is now making a confidential survey of CIA, and it might be a good idea if there was a probe, not of atomic secrets but of atomic efficiency and honesty in the Atomic Energy Commission.

For instance, the AEC has been caught in flagrant disregard of other government agencies, also in flagrant disregard of the truth. It did not and would not give the Tennessee Valley Authority a copy of the vitally important Dixon-Yates contract until acting TVA Chairman Harry A. Curtis publicly blasted the AEC for withholding it. The TVA is required to sign the Dixon-Yates contract, yet high-handed Admiral Strauss and the AEC not only negotiated secretly for the contract which TVA had to sign, but withheld a copy.

On top of this, the AEC has now been caught in a cold lie regarding concessions to two other private power companies.

Most people think it is a new thing for the AEC to buy private power in the Tennessee Valley area. But it isn't. One year ago, Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper asked Senate permission for the AEC not only to buy 5,500,000 kilowatts of power from the Ohio Electric Corporation and Electric Energy, Inc., but to raise the limit on the amount of money the government could guarantee these companies if AEC later bought its power elsewhere.

At that time, Senator Morse of Oregon asked whether the two private companies were being given quickie tax amortization by the government. He felt that if they were being given the privilege of writing off the cost of new plants in a hurry, they should not be given a government guarantee on the building of new plants.

AEC Covered Up

To this, the Atomic Energy Commission replied in a letter to Senator Hickenlooper:

"No certificate for rapid amortization under the Revenue Act of 1950 has been issued to either OVEC or EEI (Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, and Electric Energy, Inc.). The utilities have indicated that they have no plans to request such a certificate. The contracts with OVEC and EEI provide for amortization of the new generating stations and transmission lines on a 25-year basis . . ."

However, all Senator Hickenlooper had to do was go down to the Office of Defense Mobilization, as this reporter did, to see that the Atomic Energy Commission was not telling him the truth.

The AEC letter to him was dated July 8, 1953. But two months before, on April 27, 1953, Ohio Valley Electric had applied for quickie tax amortization of $172,399,000 for its Clifty Creek plant in Madison, Ind.

On top of this, Electric Energy, Inc., had applied for $191,000,000 worth of quickie tax amortization on its Joppa plant as far back as August 14, 1951. This was more than two years before the AEC told Hickenlooper that the company had "no plans" for requesting such tax relief.

As a matter of fact, the above applications are still pending—for an interesting reason. Defense Mobilization finally decided that power companies did not need quickie tax relief for war purposes and on December 3, 1953, suspended all concessions. Perhaps that was why Admiral Strauss and the AEC came forward with a new gimmick on behalf of Dixon-Yates namely a provision whereby the AEC would pay federal taxes for the power company. In other words, one branch of Uncle Sam's government would pay taxes to another branch of Uncle Sam's government on behalf of a private power company.

Scientist's Determination Helps U. S. To Get H-Bomb

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How the United States almost lost the hydrogen bomb and how Soviet Russia might have been way ahead today in the production of superbombs if it were not for the determination of Dr. Edwin Teller, the noted scientist, is told in a new book which tells also how important it is for the chairman of a Senate committee not to be denied important information, even of a secret character, by an executive agency of the government.

James R. Shepley, head of the Washington Bureau of Time Magazine, and his associate in the bureau, Clay Blair Jr., have revealed much unpublished data in their book which has just been published in part in a copyrighted article in U. S. News & World Report, with the permission of the book publishers, the David McKay Co., of New York.

For the first time the detailed narrative of how J. Robert Oppenheimer sought by various moves to stop the building of the H-bomb is set forth, together with the dramatic facts concerning the heroic part played in that struggle behind the scenes by the late Senator Brien McMahon, Democrat, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

McMahon's Attitude Important

Indeed if it had not been for Senator McMahon's defiance of the obstructive tactics encountered among the scientists working for the Atomic Energy Commission and particularly those of Dr. Oppenheimer, who had a tremendous influence over his fellow scientists, it is doubtful whether as much progress with the superbombs would have been made in a critical period in American history.

The Atomic Energy Commission itself in 1949 stood 3 to 2 against developing the H-bomb. The General Advisory Committee of Scientists met on October 29 of that year and recommended against building the H-bomb. Dr. Teller, now known as the father of the H-bomb, was the key man on whom Senator McMahon and Lewis Strauss, now chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission but then in the minority on the commission, depended for scientific advice. The Shepley-Blair book, which will be published on September 30, says at this point:

"McMahon urged Teller to fly East immediately to help the proponents of the H-bomb meet the statistically powerful arguments of the nearly unanimous General Advisory Committee. Teller agreed and hurried to Albuquerque to take a plane East. He went via Chicago, stopped briefly to try to persuade his old friend, General Advisory Committee member (Enrico) Fermi to support the H-bomb. Fermi was cool, refused to tell Teller of the contents of the General Advisory Committee report. While he was in Fermi's office, Dr. John Manley, associate director of Los Alamos (and, as such, Teller's boss) and secretary of the General Advisory Committee, telephoned him. Manley was in Washington. He insisted that Teller drop his plan to see McMahon.

"Teller asked his reason, and Manley replied that it was important that the scientists maintain a united front against the H-bomb. It would be unfortunate, Manley argued, if the powerful Senate committee chairman got the impression that there was a division of opinion among the scientists. He insisted that Teller should not come to Washington.

Manley Changes Mind

"'I am willing to call Senator McMahon,' said Teller, 'and tell him that I have been asked not to see him and for that reason I would not see him.'

"'All right,' snapped Manley, 'You better go ahead and see him'."

The reader can imagine what kind of an answer Dr. Teller would have gotten if the Senate of the United States had formally proclaimed that the chairman of any Senate committee must be "censured" if he appeals to employes of the executive agencies of the government to come privately to chairmen of committees specifically authorized by law to investigate governmental operations of all kinds and tell them the truth—whether or not it embraced secret information.

No information has been or is more secret or confidential than what's going on behind the scenes on atomic-energy developments. To say that the chairman of the Senate committee charged with the "watchdog" function by Congress itself must discourage all contacts with employes except through the regular channels of their superiors is to say that the system of checks and balances in the United States government which saved America from possible destruction from the H-bomb in the hands of Soviet Russia shall not function hereafter.

The McMahon-Teller relationship is the most convincing rebuttal that could be revealed at this time to those who argue, in effect, that the Congress is a secondary or subordinate institution and not a coordinate or equal part of the United States Government.

On the record as revealed, did Senator McMahon "encroach" on the executive branch, or did he invite cooperation from executive employes? No law and no executive order prevents the transmission of information by executive employes to members of Congress if it's the intent not to injure but to help the United States. This is the spirit as well as the letter of the law governing relations of the personnel of the two branches of government Dr. Teller and Senator McMahon observed both.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Sooner or quicker you are going to learn that a New York politician is running on local option for legalized bingo.

When all the world is waiting for the sunrise he's going to do it with neon lights.

Furthermore he is endorsed by Franklin Roosevelt and Averell Harriman, a couple of lads who just missed going bingo in 1952.

The Demmies are figuring to put the GOP in the middle. Back in 1943 the governor nixxed bingo after it had been featured by a Republican legislature. After 11 years the ghost at the feast bobs up with another meal ticket.

The bingo candidate doesn't make speeches. He calls out 73, 42, 18, until somebody hollers bingo. He doesn't talk about better roads, conservation of forests or hydro-electric power. He's too busy giving away floor lamps, carving sets, cuckoo clocks, flat-irons and fireless cookers.

You can beat that with a good game of yo-yo with two strings. But we don't see much chance against a candidate who backs up with electric kitchen appliances and starts unloading.

The oldtime campaign itinerary is topped by the shopping tour of the benevolent candidate who gives free home demonstrations. And will take your old bread box in exchange. In addition to giving you a liberal allowance on a box-spring pop-up toaster.

The upstate Republicans can respond by legalizing croquet with soft-boiled eggs. Or charades with live Powers models.

It complicates the gimmicks when a candidate not only promises you the works but also hands you the catalogue to pick from.

Children Don't Change

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—Of all the mail received during a recent plunge into the matter of juvenile delinquency, the most encouraging letter came from a student at Ohio State University, name of Robert T. Henkel.

In a concise note suggesting that perhaps the picture isn't as dark as it has been painted, Henkel plucked two lively quotes out of the files:

"Our earth is degenerate in these latter days. There are signs that the world is coming to an end. Children no longer obey their parents. Everybody wants to write a book. The end of the world is near."

And:

"The children now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority, they show disrespect for elders, and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up dainties at the table, cross their legs, and tyrannize over their teachers."

The first quote is from an Egyptian priest, circa 4000 B. C. The second is from Socrates.

Our thinking in respect to the use of atomic weapons appears to have undergone a positive change in a very recent period.

The Air Force Association's "statement of policy," as spelled out at the association's meeting in Omaha, says, "Our national policy must clearly define nuclear weapons as legitimate and conventional instruments for resisting aggression, or the free world's temporary advantage in weapons technology will continue to be seriously compromised."

This policy was the work of a committee which included Generals Carl A. Spaatz, George C. Kenney, Jimmy Doolittle and C. R. Smith. The statement had hardly penetrated the surface of our national thinking when Walter Bedell Smith swung into line and asked:

"Are free men, in their defense, to be prevented from using the instrumentalities brought forward out of this technical inventiveness because of the brooding misgivings and distortion of purpose?"

We have gone beyond timidity based on moral considerations, as Dr. Teller swept past the hesitant Prof. Oppenheimer in the historic matter of whether or not to go ahead with the H-bomb.

Atomic warfare in the field and in the air is now so thoroughly a part of our military planning that some of the more readable text books are reaching the civilian surface. Of these the most digestible seems to be "Atomic Weapons in Land Combat," by Colonel G. C. Reinhart and Lt. Col. W. R. Kintner. (Military Service Publishing Co., Harrisburg, Pa.).

Batteries of atomic cannons loom as a dam against the Red army in Europe. A handful of them would make Formosa virtually impregnible.

Looking around for a fast buck? Well, you've come to the right man for advice. Some years back, Joe Miller wrote, "Laugh and the world laughs with you. Cry and you get on 'Strike It Rich.'" Eventually it found its way into the routine of Joe E. Lewis, who has been performing in cellars longer than the Philadelphia Athletics. Louis Sobol picked it up for an item, crediting Joe E., and I later picked it up from Lou, crediting one and all.

Recently, Reader's Digest sent me a sawbuck for "my" line. Tonight I think I'll blow it at the Copa, where Joe E. opens and Sobol is king. We'll toast the ghost of Miller.

Tetanus Victim Has Less Than 50-50 Chance To Live

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Tetanus (lockjaw) deserves its evil reputation as one of our most serious diseases. After it takes hold, the victim has less than a 50-50 chance of survival, even with the best care available. No wonder we are always striving for a new remedy and continuing to stress the need for preventive "shots" whenever a dirty wound is sustained.

The causative organism hibernates in the soil but comes to life promptly on reaching the moist and warm environment of an open cut. Although the germ is not encountered with every injury, the possibility exists. Hence tetanus toxoid or antitoxin usually is recommended because no one wants to take a chance.

Children are most susceptible to the disease because they play out of doors and fall frequently, skinning knees or elbows on the ground or dirty pavement. Stepping on rusty nails or pieces of glass also is a common offender. Farmers are in the same fix because they are in close contact with soil and manure, which is highly infested with the tetanus organism.

But puncture and blank cartridge wounds, along with embedded splinters, are potentially the most dangerous lesions. They are deep, difficult to clean, and offer an ideal spot for bacteria that prefer to set up housekeeping beneath the surface of the skin.

Tetanus bacilli manufacture a powerful toxin many times more lethal than strychnine. It has an irritating and paralyzing effect upon the nervous system. The outcome is painful spasms of the muscles, beginning as a rule in the mouth and leading to typical lockjaw.

The value of the two preventive vaccines lies in their ability to neutralize this poison. Tetanus antitoxin, the older substance, is prepared from the blood of animals that became immune after being given the toxin. Anti-tetanic serum is filled with antibodies and offers immediate temporary immunity to everyone exposed to tetanus.

Tetanus toxoid, the other vaccine, is manufactured by treating toxin with a chemical to make it nonpoisonous yet capable of stimulating the formation of antibodies when injected into the body. Thus the individual develops his own immunity.

Periodic booster "shots" are needed because the number of antibodies in the blood begins to wane as the years pass. This vaccine, when used properly, is almost 100 per cent effective.

TOMORROW: Detecting deafness in tots.

JUMPING TO CONCLUSIONS

Mrs. P. C. writes: I read in a newspaper about a 15-year-old murderer. His mother explained that he was large for his age due to having had bronchial pneumonia at the age of five. My daughter, who is large for her age, also has had bronchial pneumonia. Do you think there is any connection?

REPLY

No. This letter is printed to demonstrate that someone is bound to misconstrue almost everything that is printed.

UMBILICAL, OR NAVEL

T. F. writes: What is a biblical hernia?

REPLY

The closest I can come to it is the umbilical hernia, a protrusion in the region of the navel. A more farfetched possibility is a ganglion of the wrist which, before the advent of surgery and hydrocortisone, was treated by striking it with the heavy family Bible.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

Some brand new members of a hunting club were coming in from their first day's shooting. Unused to handling guns, the casuality list was rather formidable. One had his hand in a sling, another was hopping on one foot, a third looked like the drummer boy in the old Revolutionary War picture.

"Cheer up, fellows," urged an old member. "Judging by the bulge in your bag, you're not coming back empty-handed anyhow!" The one who was carrying the bag declared wearily, "That's our hunting dog!"

A prominent member of the "wolf pack" out in Hollywood spotter a new face—and a lovely one—at a party one evening, and, as was his subtle way, gave her his thoothiest smile and a "Hi, Babe, how about coming up to my place for a nightcap later this evening?"

The new face froze and said, "Sorry, Romeo, but I happen to be on my honeymoon." "Sorry," smirked the he-man. "How about making it tomorrow night, then?"

You're Telling Me!

The U. S. male, says the woman head of a large chain of men's clothing stores, is the best-dressed guy in the world. The lady has just returned from a three-months' European tour so she didn't see us wearing our vacation duds.

Some of those out-of-this-world sports shirts make the wearer look like a badly put-together wall papering job.

Incidentally, a noted stylst says the well-dressed man this autumn will wear a grey suit, grey tie, white shirt and black shoes. We take it that the only touch of green with this ensemble should be worn inside the billfold.

False mustaches are now the range among fashionable British men. Wouldn't not shaving be a lot cheaper?

The editor of the Waterbury, Conn., Republican, raised a most interesting question. He is dealing with investigations of persons and he says:

"A perfectly deadly syllogism is abroad in this country today. It runs something like this: The Communists profess to be for a better break all around for the economically and socially depressed; here's a fellow who feels that fine as our American system is, it will bear economic and social improvement; therefore he is a Communist or, at the very least, he will bear watching."

Men have labored to improve social and economic conditions in the capitalist world, Charles Dickens, William Morris, Henry George, Jacob Riis, Jane Addams, Samuel Gompers, to pick a few names, without being regarded as Communists. In fact, Henry George and Samuel Gompers labored valiantly against Marxism. Social and economic conditions in the capitalist world have been improving since the dark days in the early 19th Century often called the Industrial Revolution. And they will continue to be improved, just as the 56-hour week gave way to the 40-hour week; just as women and children have been protected in labor.

The quarrel is never over the need for elevating the proletariat to the living conditions of the middle class of the 19th Century, and even better, because of technologic developments. It is over the method of change, whether it is to be by a rising standard of living through an evolutionary process, tested against existing social and economic conditions, or by the clash of revolution.

Marxism is more than a method for improving the conditions of mankind. Were it only that, it would be little different than the reformist movements such as, for instance, the Bull Moose of Theodore Roosevelt. It is a philosophy of total change, not only of the environment but of the nature of man. It involves a revolutionary alteration of man's thinking, including a rejection of what the Marxists call "mystical superstitions," namely, God and every expression of religion.

Therefore, many men and women who labor to improve the lot of man, even in this generation, cannot be called Communists because they are anti-Marxist. Nobody would regard Bishop Fulton Sheen as a Communist. The issue is the relationship of a man's thinking to God and his conduct to the Natural Law, which every Marxist must reject.

On the question of who bears watching, it has been my experience that nobody is investigated who has not of his own accord put himself into a position that requires some explanation. Often the investigation can save a man from difficulties. For instance, rumors about Dr. Ralph Bunche have been continuous for several years; the investigation saved Dr. Bunche from destruction by rumor, for which Dr. Bunche was in a measure himself responsible. True, some people like to believe wrong of a man but when Dr. Bunche was recently promoted by the United Nations, not a voice was raised against him.

The FBI is required to investigate applicants for employment or promotion by the United States Government. It either makes a name check which is generally a reference to its own files or it makes a field check which is thorough and takes a long time. In more than one instance, I am sure that favorable testimony helped the person get the job. Why should we all assume that all testimony is unfavorable?

Practically every member of our government is investigated sooner or later. Yet more than 2,300,000 men and women do hold positions in the federal government despite all the excitement about Communists in government. There are undoubtedly some Communists in our government; there are not as many as there used to be. The significance of one Communist in a critical area is that every member of this party is literally an agent of a foreign power. He is a security risk. But most employes of our government, all of whom are investigated, are not security risks. They are just Americans.

The man who has not put himself in a bad spot need not fear investigation. But even the man who put himself in a bad spot can always clear his record if he has a mind to. Or if he does not care, he need not seek employment that requires a security investigation.

Push Button War!

Navy Is Far Behind In Construction Of New Rocket-Launching Platform

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — With the next war likely to be one of trans-Atlantic rockets, and with Russia reported well ahead in the rocket field, the Navy is months behind in its construction of a rocket-launching platform at Dahlgren, Va.

The Navy has done some amazing pioneer work in developing rockets. But you can't launch rockets without launching-platforms, and the platform for the latest supersecret rocket and guided-missile program is now nearly six months behind schedule. It was due to be finished on March 28, but it is still not completed.

Here is the inside story of what's been happening. The track that carries the rocket on its initial course must be absolutely straight. The rocket travels at a speed of two to three times the speed of sound, and any vibration due to variation in the track might shake the launching base apart.

But the battleship admirals were not willing to spare enough nickel steel for the launching track. Instead, the nickel steel has been used for armor plate. In other words, it's the old story of the rivalry between the battleship admirals and the air admirals all over again.

Curtis Builders, who got the contract from the Navy for $1,668,700, sublet the job of machining the track to Parkersburg Die and Tool Company, of Parkersburg, W. Va. As early as March 22, 1953, more than a year ago, however, Loren Thompson, head of the Parkersburg company, wrote a letter to the Navy.

"For the time being and until further examination can be made," he warned, "we are advising you that the material as furnished is unsuitable for rocket launcher track as designs and blue-prints now specify."

What he referred to was the fact that U. S. Steel had supplied a commercial grade of stainless steel instead of nickel steel, as originally specified. However, the Navy had pre-empted the nickel steel for armor plate.

Interesting Alibis

Checking on reasons for the long delay in building a vitally important installation, this column got the following comment:

Stephen Nesbitt, spokesman for the Parkersburg company: "You can't make a launcher out of bum steel. We write the Navy and ask them how to proceed, and they don't answer."

John Krytusa, head of Curtis Builders: "I can't comment. I couldn't tell you anything until I talked to the Navy."

Comdr. H. L. Haworth, speaking for the Navy: "I won't comment. You have no call to write anything about this for at least three months. Then we'll know what mistakes we've made.

"If this story gets out," he added, "it will cost the taxpayers money. We'll have to write letters and answer questions. It will just add to the confusion around here."

However, the months continue to drag by and one of the Navy's most important test projects also continues to drag. So perhaps it would be better to have the Navy use up a little stationery answering letters and thereby help get to the bottom of things. At least, the Navy won't have to pay for the postage.

Probe Of AEC Needed

Two supersecret agencies hitherto beyond the pale of investigation are the Atomic Energy Commissoin and the Central Intelligence Agency. For obvious reasons many of their secrets must always remain secret.

However, Gen. Mark Clark, one of the ablest of our retired military officers, is now making a confidential survey of CIA, and it might be a good idea if there was a probe, not of atomic secrets but of atomic efficiency and honesty in the Atomic Energy Commission.

For instance, the AEC has been caught in flagrant disregard of other government agencies, also in flagrant disregard of the truth. It did not and would not give the Tennessee Valley Authority a copy of the vitally important Dixon-Yates contract until acting TVA Chairman Harry A. Curtis publicly blasted the AEC for withholding it. The TVA is required to sign the Dixon-Yates contract, yet high-handed Admiral Strauss and the AEC not only negotiated secretly for the contract which TVA had to sign, but withheld a copy.

On top of this, the AEC has now been caught in a cold lie regarding concessions to two other private power companies.

Most people think it is a new thing for the AEC to buy private power in the Tennessee Valley area. But it isn't. One year ago, Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper asked Senate permission for the AEC not only to buy 5,500,000 kilowatts of power from the Ohio Electric Corporation and Electric Energy, Inc., but to raise the limit on the amount of money the government could guarantee these companies if AEC later bought its power elsewhere.

At that time, Senator Morse of Oregon asked whether the two private companies were being given quickie tax amortization by the government. He felt that if they were being given the privilege of writing off the cost of new plants in a hurry, they should not be given a government guarantee on the building of new plants.

AEC Covered Up

To this, the Atomic Energy Commission replied in a letter to Senator Hickenlooper:

"No certificate for rapid amortization under the Revenue Act of 1950 has been issued to either OVEC or EEI (Ohio Valley Electric Corporation, and Electric Energy, Inc.). The utilities have indicated that they have no plans to request such a certificate. The contracts with OVEC and EEI provide for amortization of the new generating stations and transmission lines on a 25-year basis . . ."

However, all Senator Hickenlooper had to do was go down to the Office of Defense Mobilization, as this reporter did, to see that the Atomic Energy Commission was not telling him the truth.

The AEC letter to him was dated July 8, 1953. But two months before, on April 27, 1953, Ohio Valley Electric had applied for quickie tax amortization of $172,399,000 for its Clifty Creek plant in Madison, Ind.

On top of this, Electric Energy, Inc., had applied for $191,000,000 worth of quickie tax amortization on its Joppa plant as far back as August 14, 1951. This was more than two years before the AEC told Hickenlooper that the company had "no plans" for requesting such tax relief.

As a matter of fact, the above applications are still pending—for an interesting reason. Defense Mobilization finally decided that power companies did not need quickie tax relief for war purposes and on December 3, 1953, suspended all concessions. Perhaps that was why Admiral Strauss and the AEC came forward with a new gimmick on behalf of Dixon-Yates namely a provision whereby the AEC would pay federal taxes for the power company. In other words, one branch of Uncle Sam's government would pay taxes to another branch of Uncle Sam's government on behalf of a private power company.

Scientist's Determination Helps U. S. To Get H-Bomb

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — How the United States almost lost the hydrogen bomb and how Soviet Russia might have been way ahead today in the production of superbombs if it were not for the determination of Dr. Edwin Teller, the noted scientist, is told in a new book which tells also how important it is for the chairman of a Senate committee not to be denied important information, even of a secret character, by an executive agency of the government.

James R. Shepley, head of the Washington Bureau of Time Magazine, and his associate in the bureau, Clay Blair Jr., have revealed much unpublished data in their book which has just been published in part in a copyrighted article in U. S. News & World Report, with the permission of the book publishers, the David McKay Co., of New York.

For the first time the detailed narrative of how J. Robert Oppenheimer sought by various moves to stop the building of the H-bomb is set forth, together with the dramatic facts concerning the heroic part played in that struggle behind the scenes by the late Senator Brien McMahon, Democrat, chairman of the Joint Congressional Committee on Atomic Energy.

McMahon's Attitude Important

Indeed if it had not been for Senator McMahon's defiance of the obstructive tactics encountered among the scientists working for the Atomic Energy Commission and particularly those of Dr. Oppenheimer, who had a tremendous influence over his fellow scientists, it is doubtful whether as much progress with the superbombs would have been made in a critical period in American history.

The Atomic Energy Commission itself in 1949 stood 3 to 2 against developing the H-bomb. The General Advisory Committee of Scientists met on October 29 of that year and recommended against building the H-bomb. Dr. Teller, now known as the father of the H-bomb, was the key man on whom Senator McMahon and Lewis Strauss, now chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission but then in the minority on the commission, depended for scientific advice. The Shepley-Blair book, which will be published on September 30, says at this point:

"McMahon urged Teller to fly East immediately to help the proponents of the H-bomb meet the statistically powerful arguments of the nearly unanimous General Advisory Committee. Teller agreed and hurried to Albuquerque to take a plane East. He went via Chicago, stopped briefly to try to persuade his old friend, General Advisory Committee member (Enrico) Fermi to support the H-bomb. Fermi was cool, refused to tell Teller of the contents of the General Advisory Committee report. While he was in Fermi's office, Dr. John Manley, associate director of Los Alamos (and, as such, Teller's boss) and secretary of the General Advisory Committee, telephoned him. Manley was in Washington. He insisted that Teller drop his plan to see McMahon.

"Teller asked his reason, and Manley replied that it was important that the scientists maintain a united front against the H-bomb. It would be unfortunate, Manley argued, if the powerful Senate committee chairman got the impression that there was a division of opinion among the scientists. He insisted that Teller should not come to Washington.

Manley Changes Mind

"'I am willing to call Senator McMahon,' said Teller, 'and tell him that I have been asked not to see him and for that reason I would not see him.'

"'All right,' snapped Manley, 'You better go ahead and see him'."

The reader can imagine what kind of an answer Dr. Teller would have gotten if the Senate of the United States had formally proclaimed that the chairman of any Senate committee must be "censured" if he appeals to employes of the executive agencies of the government to come privately to chairmen of committees specifically authorized by law to investigate governmental operations of all kinds and tell them the truth—whether or not it embraced secret information.

No information has been or is more secret or confidential than what's going on behind the scenes on atomic-energy developments. To say that the chairman of the Senate committee charged with the "watchdog" function by Congress itself must discourage all contacts with employes except through the regular channels of their superiors is to say that the system of checks and balances in the United States government which saved America from possible destruction from the H-bomb in the hands of Soviet Russia shall not function hereafter.

The McMahon-Teller relationship is the most convincing rebuttal that could be revealed at this time to those who argue, in effect, that the Congress is a secondary or subordinate institution and not a coordinate or equal part of the United States Government.

On the record as revealed, did Senator McMahon "encroach" on the executive branch, or did he invite cooperation from executive employes? No law and no executive order prevents the transmission of information by executive employes to members of Congress if it's the intent not to injure but to help the United States. This is the spirit as well as the letter of the law governing relations of the personnel of the two branches of government Dr. Teller and Senator McMahon observed both.

Baering Down On The News

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer

Sooner or quicker you are going to learn that a New York politician is running on local option for legalized bingo.

When all the world is waiting for the sunrise he's going to do it with neon lights.

Furthermore he is endorsed by Franklin Roosevelt and Averell Harriman, a couple of lads who just missed going bingo in 1952.

The Demmies are figuring to put the GOP in the middle. Back in 1943 the governor nixxed bingo after it had been featured by a Republican legislature. After 11 years the ghost at the feast bobs up with another meal ticket.

The bingo candidate doesn't make speeches. He calls out 73, 42, 18, until somebody hollers bingo. He doesn't talk about better roads, conservation of forests or hydro-electric power. He's too busy giving away floor lamps, carving sets, cuckoo clocks, flatirons and fireless cookers.

You can beat that with a good game of yo-yo with two strings. But we don't see much chance against a candidate who backs up with electric kitchen appliances and starts unloading.

The oldtime campaign itinerary is topped by the shopping tour of the benevolent candidate who gives free home demonstrations. And will take your old bread box in exchange. In addition to giving you a liberal allowance on a box-spring pop-up toaster.

The upstate Republicans can respond by legalizing croquet with soft-boiled eggs. Or charades with live Powers models.

It complicates the gimmicks when a candidate not only promises you the works but also hands you the catalogue to pick from.

Children Don't Change

By Bob Considine

NEW YORK—(INS)—Of all the mail received during a recent plunge into the matter of juvenile delinquency, the most encouraging letter came from a student at Ohio State University, name of Robert T. Henkel.

In a concise note suggesting that perhaps the picture isn't as dark as it has been painted, Henkel plucked two lively quotes out of the files:

"Our earth is degenerate in these latter days. There are signs that the world is coming to an end. Children no longer obey their parents. Everybody wants to write a book. The end of the world is near."

And:

"The children now love luxury, they have bad manners, contempt for authority, they show disrespect for elders, and love chatter in place of exercise. Children are now tyrants, not the servants of their households. They no longer rise when elders enter the room. They contradict their parents, chatter before company, gobble up dainties at the table, cross their legs, and tyrannize over their teachers."

The first quote is from an Egyptian priest, circa 4000 B. C. The second is from Socrates.

Our thinking in respect to the use of atomic weapons appears to have undergone a positive change in a very recent period.

The Air Force Association's "statement of policy," as spelled out at the association's meeting in Omaha, says, "Our national policy must clearly define nuclear weapons as legitimate and conventional instruments for resisting aggression, or the free world's temporary advantage in weapons technology will continue to be seriously compromised."

This policy was the work of a committee which included Generals Carl A. Spaatz, George C. Kenney, Jimmy Doolittle and C. R. Smith. The statement had hardly penetrated the surface of our national thinking when Walter Bedell Smith swung into line and asked:

"Are free men, in their defense, to be prevented from using the instrumentalities brought forward out of this technical inventiveness because of the brooding misgivings and distortion of purpose?"

We have gone beyond timidity based on moral considerations, as Dr. Teller swept past the hesitant Prof. Oppenheimer in the historic matter of whether or not to go ahead with the H-bomb.

Atomic warfare in the field and in the air is now so thoroughly a part of our military planning that some of the more readable text books are reaching the civilian surface. Of these the most digestible seems to be "Atomic Weapons in Land Combat," by Colonel G. C. Reinhart and Lt. Col. W. R. Kintner. (Military Service Publishing Co., Harrisburg, Pa.).

Batteries of atomic cannons loom as a dam against the Red army in Europe. A handful of them would make Formosa virtually impregnible.

Looking around for a fast buck? Well, you've come to the right man for advice. Some years back, Joe Miller wrote, "Laugh and the world laughs with you. Cry and you get on 'Strike It Rich.'" Eventually it found its way into the routine of Joe E. Lewis, who has been performing in cellars longer than the Philadelphia Athletics. Louis Sobol picked it up for an item, crediting Joe E., and I later picked it up from Lou, crediting one and all.

Recently, Reader's Digest sent me a sawbuck for "my" line. Tonight I think I'll blow it at the Copa, where Joe E. opens and Sobol is king. We'll toast the ghost of Miller.

Tetanus Victim Has Less Than 50-50 Chance To Live

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Tetanus (lockjaw) deserves its evil reputation as one of our most serious diseases. After it takes hold, the victim has less than a 50-50 chance of survival, even with the best care available. No wonder we are always striving for a new remedy and continuing to stress the need for preventive "shots" whenever a dirty wound is sustained.

The causative organism hibernates in the soil but comes to life promptly on reaching the moist and warm environment of an open cut. Although the germ is not encountered with every injury, the possibility exists. Hence tetanus toxoid or antitoxin usually is recommended because no one wants to take a chance.

Children are most susceptible to the disease because they play out of doors and fall frequently, skinning knees or elbows on the ground or dirty pavement. Stepping on rusty nails or pieces of glass also is a common offender. Farmers are in the same fix because they are in close contact with soil and manure, which is highly infested with the tetanus organism.

But puncture and blank cartridge wounds, along with embedded splinters, are potentially the most dangerous lesions. They are deep, difficult to clean, and offer an ideal spot for bacteria that prefer to set up housekeeping beneath the surface of the skin.

Tetanus bacilli manufacture a powerful toxin many times more lethal than strychnine. It has an irritating and paralyzing effect upon the nervous system. The outcome is painful spasms of the muscles, beginning as a rule in the mouth and leading to typical lockjaw.

The value of the two preventive vaccines lies in their ability to neutralize this poison. Tetanus antitoxin, the older substance, is prepared from the blood of animals that became immune after being given the toxin. Anti-tetanic serum is filled with antibodies and offers immediate temporary immunity to everyone exposed to tetanus.

Tetanus toxoid, the other vaccine, is manufactured by treating toxin with a chemical to make it nonpoisonous yet capable of stimulating the formation of antibodies when injected into the body. Thus the individual develops his own immunity.

Periodic booster "shots" are needed because the number of antibodies in the blood begins to wane as the years pass. This vaccine, when used properly, is almost 100 per cent effective.

JUMPING TO CONCLUSIONS

Mrs. P. C. writes: I read in a newspaper about a 15-year-old murderer. His mother explained that he was large for his age due to having had bronchial pneumonia at the age of five. My daughter, who is large for her age, also has had bronchial pneumonia. Do you think there is any connection?

REPLY

No. This letter is printed to demonstrate that someone is bound to misconstrue almost everything that is printed.

UMBILICAL, OR NAVEL

T. F. writes: What is a biblical hernia?

REPLY

The closest I can come to it is the umbilical hernia, a protrusion in the region of the navel. A more farfetched possibility is a ganglion of the wrist which, before the advent of surgery and hydrocortisone, was treated by striking it with the heavy family Bible.

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Some brand new members of a hunting club were coming in from their first day's shooting. Unused to handling guns, the casuality list was rather formidable. One had his hand in a sling, another was hopping on one foot, a third looked like the drummer boy in the old Revolutionary War picture.

"Cheer up, fellows," urged an old member. "Judging by the bulge in your bag, you're not coming back empty-handed anyhow!" The one who was carrying the bag declared wearily, "That's our hunting dog!"

A prominent member of the "wolf pack" out in Hollywood spotter a new face—and a lovely one—at a party one evening, and, as was his subtle way, gave her his thoothiest smile and a "Hi, Babe, how about coming up to my place for a nightcap later this evening?"

The new face froze and said, "Sorry, Romeo, but I happen to be on my honeymoon." "Sorry," smirked the he-man. "How about making it tomorrow night, then?"

You're Telling Me!

By William Ritt

The U. S. male, says the woman head of a large chain of men's clothing stores, is the best-dressed guy in the world. The lady has just returned from a three-months' European tour so she didn't see us wearing our vacation duds.

Some of those out-of-this-world sports shirts make the wearer look like a badly put-together wall papering job.

Incidentally, a noted stylst says the well-dressed man this autumn will wear a grey suit, grey tie, white shirt and black shoes. We take it that the only touch of green with this ensemble should be worn inside the billfold.

False mustaches are now the range among fashionable British men. Wouldn't not shaving be a lot cheaper?

Legislative Plans Aired At Meeting

State Senator Robert B. Kimble and the entire delegation of six Allegany county members of the House of Delegates met with the Board of County Commissioners Friday to discuss a number of matters likely to come before the General Assembly next winter and which will affect this county.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board, thanked the legislators for attending the meeting, adding a number of proposed bills were outlined at a recent meeting of the State County Commissioners by Dr. Carl Everstine, director of the Bureau of Legislative Reference.

It was these bills which the commissioners were interested in learning more about, Lemmert told the legislators. The first to be discussed was the proposed change in the State Employes Retirement Act in connection with interest paid to the families of deceased members.

It was explained the state fund paid four per cent interest on the amount paid into the fund by the members to the family when the member died.

Measure Planned

It was pointed out by Sen. Kimble that the trustees of the fund could not obtain more than three per cent on the reserve fund they invested, and the fund was losing money.

It is being planned to have a bill passed by which all new members of the fund will receive only three per cent on their benefits while those who are in the program will continue to get four per cent. The county employes are covered by the state retirement system.

Another matter discussed was proposed changes in election laws, mainly the adoption of voting machines in the entire state within several years.

Kimble said the state plan for a loan to the various counties would eliminate a heavy tax burden if the plan goes through and the program made mandatory.

In connection with the board's interest in a home rule provision, Kimble said that a meeting of a Legislative Council committee will be held next month.

Charles M. See, chairman of the county delegation, said he understands under an old act passed years ago the county could have a referendum on home rule and set up a county charter.

School Financing Discussed

A discussion on the financial aspects of new school construction followed. Kimble said he expects the state will probably enlarge the present school loan program to aid the various counties.

Inquiry was then made as to whether federal aid could possibly be secured, and Kimble said that this might be difficult to obtain under the federal plan of giving aid only in areas where there is an impact on the school population as a result of wartime manufacturing plants or federal agencies in certain areas.

A discussion of the suggestion that the state property tax be eliminated brought from Kimble the assertion that such a move could not be accomplished while outstanding bonds have as security the state property tax basis.

Kimble also said that the state property tax gives the state a better interest rate on bonds it sells, and officials of bonding houses have explained that the elimination of this tax would adversely affect the state's rating on the bond market.

The property tax of the state also has some bearing on school bonds, welfare programs and other matters, and the whole situation is so involved that it would be unwise to jeopardize the state's credit by rash action. It was also pointed out that the tax is extremely low.

Astor Complains He Has Financial Troubles, Too

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—One of the world's rich men, John Jacob Astor, came back from an abbreviated foreign honeymoon today talking about his money being tied up.

Less than seven weeks ago Astor, 42, took the former Mrs. Dolores Margaret Fullman of Miami Beach, as his third wife. They sailed for Europe, letting it be known they would be gone six months.

When the Astors returned today on the American Export liner Constitution, reporters remarked to him that his second wife, Mrs. Gertrude Gretsch Astor, was trying to vacate the Mexican divorce he obtained July 23.

"Sequestration proceedings have been taken to tie up my income, I understand," Astor said.

Legislative Plans Aired At Meeting

State Senator Robert B. Kimble and the entire delegation of six Allegany county members of the House of Delegates met with the Board of County Commissioners Friday to discuss a number of matters likely to come before the General Assembly next winter and which will affect this county.

William H. Lemmert, president of the board, thanked the legislators for attending the meeting, adding a number of proposed bills were outlined at a recent meeting of the State County Commissioners by Dr. Carl Everstine, director of the Bureau of Legislative Reference.

It was these bills which the commissioners were interested in learning more about, Lemmert told the legislators. The first to be discussed was the proposed change in the State Employes Retirement Act in connection with interest paid to the families of deceased members.

It was explained the state fund paid four per cent interest on the amount paid into the fund by the members to the family when the member died.

Measure Planned

It was pointed out by Sen. Kimble that the trustees of the fund could not obtain more than three per cent on the reserve fund they invested, and the fund was losing money.

It is being planned to have a bill passed by which all new members of the fund will receive only three per cent on their benefits while those who are in the program will continue to get four per cent. The county employes are covered by the state retirement system.

Another matter discussed was proposed changes in election laws, mainly the adoption of voting machines in the entire state within several years.

Kimble said the state plan for a loan to the various counties would eliminate a heavy tax burden if the plan goes through and the program made mandatory.

In connection with the board's interest in a home rule provision, Kimble said that a meeting of a Legislative Council committee will be held next month.

Charles M. See, chairman of the county delegation, said he understands under an old act passed years ago the county could have a referendum on home rule and set up a county charter.

School Financing Discussed

A discussion on the financial aspects of new school construction followed. Kimble said he expects the state will probably enlarge the present school loan program to aid the various counties.

Inquiry was then made as to whether federal aid could possibly be secured, and Kimble said that this might be difficult to obtain under the federal plan of giving aid only in areas where there is an impact on the school population as a result of wartime manufacturing plants or federal agencies in certain areas.

A discussion of the suggestion that the state property tax be eliminated brought from Kimble the assertion that such a move could not be accomplished while outstanding bonds have as security the state property tax basis.

Kimble also said that the state property tax gives the state a better interest rate on bonds it sells, and officials of bonding houses have explained that the elimination of this tax would adversely affect the state's rating on the bond market.

The property tax of the state also has some bearing on school bonds, welfare programs and other matters, and the whole situation is so involved that it would be unwise to jeopardize the state's credit by rash action. It was also pointed out that the tax is extremely low.

Astor Complains He Has Financial Troubles, Too

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—One of the world's rich men, John Jacob Astor, came back from an abbreviated foreign honeymoon today talking about his money being tied up.

Less than seven weeks ago Astor, 42, took the former Mrs. Dolores Margaret Fullman of Miami Beach, as his third wife. They sailed for Europe, letting it be known they would be gone six months.

When the Astors returned today on the American Export liner Constitution, reporters remarked to him that his second wife, Mrs. Gertrude Gretsch Astor, was trying to vacate the Mexican divorce he obtained July 23.

"Sequestration proceedings have been taken to tie up my income, I understand," Astor said.

The license was formerly held by Fred Mills, who has operated the drug store for 29 years. Mills said he has no immediate plans for the future.

Billmeyer will continue to operate the drug store business with the exception of the prescription department, which will be discontinued, Mills said. The store has been closed for certain changes and will reopen soon, Mills added.

A Class D beer license was also granted by the board to Everett W. Clem for the Silver Lane Bowling Alleys in Cresaptown. Ruth M. Lewis was granted a Class A off sale beer license for the Fifth Street Grocery at 309 Fifth Street. The license was formerly held by John S. Jenkins.

Study Of Gas Rate Continued By PSC

Mrs. J. P. Ashenfelter, 31 Somerville Avenue, appearing before the Mayor and Council Monday, inquired about the status of the petition for a gas rate increase by the C&A Gas Company.

City Attorney Finan informed Mrs. Ashenfelter that the Public Service Commission of Maryland is considering the matter. He explained that briefs and copies of the transcripts of the hearing amount to more than 600 typewriter pages and a quick decision is not possible. He did say, however, that a decision in the matter would probably be given in the near future.

W.Va. Farm Census Starts In November

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The 1954 Census of Agriculture will be taken this fall, Kenneth P. Brundage, extension farm management specialist at West Virginia University, pointed out here yesterday. For West Virginia, the census survey is scheduled to start in early November.

Results or plans of farmers for the calendar year of 1954 will be listed on sheets similar to the 1950 Census, Brundage explained. Present plans call for the questionnaire to be mailed to farms about a week prior to visits by enumerators.

"Information gathered from farmers by the census provides the basis for farm legislation," Brundage commented. "Questions will be asked on acres of land farmed, crops, livestock, facilities, and hired help on each farm. Figures on farm sales and value of the farm also will be listed. Now is the time to get the records on crops production so you can give the answers in November. A little figuring ahead of time will speed up the collection of information on West Virginia farms."

North Carolina Firm Submits Low Bid On U.S. 29 Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Nello Teer Co. of Durham, N. C., today submitted the apparent low bid of $1,133,225 for building a 4-mile stretch of dual highway which ultimately will become part of U. S. 29 in Montgomery County northeast of Washington.

The stretch is between Burtonsville and White Oak along what is now Maryland 196, already overhauled from Burtonsville northeastward to a junction with U. S. 29 and U. S. 40 west of Baltimore.

Many motorists already use U. S. 29, Maryland 196, or a combination as a "back road" between Baltimore and Washington.

The commission also received an apparent low bid of $227,825 from the Empire Contracting Co. of New York for a bridge on the expressway by-pass being built around Glen Burnie in upper Anne Arundel County.

The bridge will carry the by-pass over New Cut Road at its intersection with U. S. 301 about 2½ miles south of Glen Burnie.

A. H. Smith of Branchville submitted the apparent low bid of $166,45 for two projects in which 6.5 miles of Maryland 2 will be rebuilt completely or improved in Calvert County.

One project calls for the widening and resurfacing of about 4 miles on Maryland 2 from its junction with Maryland 416 to a point below Huntingtown. The other calls for resurfacing of the Prince Frederick by-pass.

W.Va. Farm Census Starts In November

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. — The 1954 Census of Agriculture will be taken this fall, Kenneth P. Brundage, extension farm management specialist at West Virginia University, pointed out here yesterday. For West Virginia, the census survey is scheduled to start in early November.

Results or plans of farmers for the calendar year of 1954 will be listed on sheets similar to the 1950 Census, Brundage explained. Present plans call for the questionnaire to be mailed to farms about a week prior to visits by enumerators.

"Information gathered from farmers by the census provides the basis for farm legislation," Brundage commented. "Questions will be asked on acres of land farmed, crops, livestock, facilities, and hired help on each farm. Figures on farm sales and value of the farm also will be listed. Now is the time to get the records on crops production so you can give the answers in November. A little figuring ahead of time will speed up the collection of information on West Virginia farms."

North Carolina Firm Submits Low Bid On U.S. 29 Project

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Nello Teer Co. of Durham, N. C., today submitted the apparent low bid of $1,133,225 for building a 4-mile stretch of dual highway which ultimately will become part of U. S. 29 in Montgomery County northeast of Washington.

The stretch is between Burtonsville and White Oak along what is now Maryland 196, already overhauled from Burtonsville northeastward to a junction with U. S. 29 and U. S. 40 west of Baltimore.

Many motorists already use U. S. 29, Maryland 196, or a combination as a "back road" between Baltimore and Washington.

The commission also received an apparent low bid of $227,825 from the Empire Contracting Co. of New York for a bridge on the expressway by-pass being built around Glen Burnie in upper Anne Arundel County.

The bridge will carry the by-pass over New Cut Road at its intersection with U. S. 301 about 2½ miles south of Glen Burnie.

A. H. Smith of Branchville submitted the apparent low bid of $166,45 for two projects in which 6.5 miles of Maryland 2 will be rebuilt completely or improved in Calvert County.

Real Farm System

AP Newsfeatures

DEDTROIT—The Detroit Tigers have come up with a novel farm system. It's an actual farm—grass and all.

The Tigers figured out that it cost them $8,000 this year for new sod in Briggs Stadium to replace that chewed up by the Detroit Lions football team.

So the baseball team began raising its own grass on a nine-acre sod farm near Pontiac, Mich. The new grass will be ready by the 1956 season.

"We can reduce our annual costs by two-thirds by growing our own grass," President Spike Briggs explained.

Lions Hit New High

DETROIT — The 56-point total compiled by the Detroit Lions in their 56-31 triumph over Cleveland during the '54 exhibition season was the highest ever recorded by a Lions' team.

Nuxhall Beats Milwaukee, 5-0

Attendance Takes Dip As Reds Trim Braves

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Joe Nuxhall fired a six-hitter at the patched up Milwaukee Braves today as Cincinnati posted a 5-0 victory before 10,001 fans, smallest paid attendance of the year at County Stadium.

The victory was Nuxhall's 12th against four losses and his first shutout of the season. He scattered the six singles through five innings, the Braves putting two on only in the ninth. Three double plays pulled the veteran lefthander out of any threat of trouble.

The Redlegs jumped on Chet Nichols for three runs on one hit in the third inning. Andy Seminick walked and, when Nuxhall sacrificed, Nichols threw high to second on the force and both runners were safe. Bobby Adams then banged a triple to right for two runs and scored himself on Roy McMillan's sacrifice fly.

Portsmouth Man Thought Up Idea Of Suing Majors

Lawrence Not Scared Of Big League Clubs

PORTSMOUTH, Va., Sept. 21 (AP) —Frank D. Lawrence, owner of the Portsmouth club of the Class B Piedmont League, said tonight he had organized a group of minor league baseball club owners planning a multi-million-dollar damage suit against the major leagues for invasion of minor league territory through radio and television broadcasts.

"I'm the one who thought up this idea of suing the majors," Lawrence told a reporter. "I'm not scared of the big league clubs. I'll fight the case of the little leagues which are losing money and being wiped out.

"Why, the most sacred agreement in all of baseball is that we all will respect our territorial rights. The big leagues do worse than invade your territory. They send it down by radio and television to the fans—free of charge—and collect vast sums for it."

Lawrence said he regretted the story of plans to sue the 16 major league clubs and baseball Commissioner Ford Frick had "leaked out prematurely."

"But we've kept it pretty quiet," Lawrence said. "We did pretty well. We've been working on this thing for more than a month now. We intended to spring it just before the start of the World Series."

The story of the proposed damage suit broke today in the Knickerbocker News in Albany, N. Y., in a story by Sports Editor Charles Young.

The story said that a group of minor league baseball club owners, irked over declining attendance and revenue, was reported to be planning a 50 million dollar damage suit against Commissioner Fork Frick and the owners of 16 major league clubs.

Cleveland's Win Streak Snapped

Chicago Sox Beat Art Houtteman, 9-7

CLEVELAND, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Chicago White Sox, scoring three of their runs on a wild pick-off throw, a wild pitch and a passed ball, beat the Cleveland Indians 9-7 tonight and snapped an 11-game Tribe winning string for the second time this season.

The Indians made five costly errors in chilly, wind-whipped Municipal Stadium in missing their 110th victory and a tie with the 1927 New York Yankees as the American League's biggest all-time winners. But Cleveland has four games left in which to tie or exceed the record.

Potomac State To Host West Virginia Tech Saturday

Landis, Farris, Cookerly Play With Visitors

Lough Plans To Start All-Sophomore Lineup; Game Set For 2 P. M.

By TED TROXELL

KEYSER, Sept. 21—After four weeks of concentrated drills, Potomac State's Catamounts are leveling off in preparation for their season opener Saturday with West Virginia Tech at 2 p. m. at Stayman Field.

Coach Dana G. "Horse" Lough, who has been drilling the Cats for four weeks has ended most of the contact and scrimmage drills and will use the remainder of the week prior to Saturday's game for dummy scrimmages and last minute polishing up sessions.

Practice injuries which hit several Potomac State gridders have healed well and Lough said he expects the Keyserites to be at full strength for the opener. Center Bill Main's bruised ankle has responded well to treatment and End Keith Collett, of Parsons, has shaken off a leg injury.

Tech's Golden Bears opened their season last week with a convincing 26-0 victory over the Findlay (Ohio) Oilers. The Montgomery school, coached by Don Phillips, has three Cumberlanders on its roster. They are backs Jim Farris and Eddie Landis and tackle Ed Cookerly, all graduates of Fort Hill High School.

The Catamounts plan to use an all-sophomore starting lineup Saturday, but a number of freshmen have stood out in practice and should see plenty of action.

Officials for Saturday's encounter, all members of the Southern Conference, will be Pete Rockwell, Shepherd College, referee; Bill Cunningham, Shepherd College, umpire; Bill Michael, Springfield College, head linesman; and Nelson Harvey, George Washington University, field judge.

Game time Saturday is 2 p. m. (EDT).

CLEVELAND'S PENNANT HAPPY FANS — Al Lopez, manager of the Cleveland Indians, was surrounded by happy fans at the start of a parade in Cleveland yesterday honoring the victorious Indians, American League pennant winners. The parade which covered near East and West Side attracted near one-fourth a million people.

INDIAN'S VICTORY PARADE — The pennant winning Cleveland Indians drove victoriously down Cleveland's main street, Euclid Avenue, today as thousands cheered. The parade covered 16 miles from East to West. Schools and late afternoon shoppers shouted "Stop the Giants" at the ballplayers riding in open automobiles.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 21 (AP) — Chuck Dressen says he has had feelers from major league clubs for 1955 but any report that he has agreed to terms is "only rumor."

Real Farm System

AP Newsfeatures

DEDTROIT—The Detroit Tigers have come up with a novel farm system. It's an actual farm—grass and all.

The Tigers figured out that it cost them $8,000 this year for new sod in Briggs Stadium to replace that chewed up by the Detroit Lions football team.

So the baseball team began raising its own grass on a nine-acre sod farm near Pontiac, Mich. The new grass will be ready by the 1956 season.

"We can reduce our annual costs by two-thirds by growing our own grass," President Spike Briggs explained.

Nuxhall Beats Milwaukee, 5-0

Attendance Takes Dip As Reds Trim Braves

MILWAUKEE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Joe Nuxhall fired a six-hitter at the patched up Milwaukee Braves today as Cincinnati posted a 5-0 victory before 10,001 fans, smallest paid attendance of the year at County Stadium.

The victory was Nuxhall's 12th against four losses and his first shutout of the season. He scattered the six singles through five innings, the Braves putting two on only in the ninth. Three double plays pulled the veteran lefthander out of any threat of trouble.

The Redlegs jumped on Chet Nichols for three runs on one hit in the third inning. Andy Seminick walked and, when Nuxhall sacrificed, Nichols threw high to second on the force and both runners were safe. Bobby Adams then banged a triple to right for two runs and scored himself on Roy McMillan's sacrifice fly.

Minors To Sue Major Leagues For 50 Million Damages

Radio And TV Will Be Basis For The Suit

Owners Are Charged With Failure To Act To Save Small Loops

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—A group of minor league baseball club owners, irked over declining attendance and revenue, was reported today to be planning a 50 million dollar damage suit against Commissioner Ford Frick and the owners of the 16 major league clubs.

The Knickerbocker News said the invasion of minor league territory by telecasts and broadcasts of major league games would be the basis for the suit.

Frick, in New York City, said he had not heard of the proposed suit and declined comment.

Decline To Comment

In Columbus, O., George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors), also declined comment.

The News in the story by Sports Editor Charles Young quoted an unidentified source as saying "our leaders in baseball have done nothing to save the minors from being ruined."

The story said that a representative of the minor league clubs had been negotiating with an attorney and that an announcement of the filing of the suit might be made during the World Series, which begins Sept. 29.

(Although Young could not, for professional reasons, divulge his source, Frank D. Lawrence of Portsmouth, Va., identified himself as a key figure in the suit. Lawrence is owner of the Portsmouth club in the Class B Piedmont League.

(Lawrence said the story was premature and said future statements would come from his attorney.

(He added "I have contacted 83 independent baseball owners and a majority are with me.")

Young said funds to finance the suit were being contributed by the clubs involved. He did not name the clubs.

Young quoted his source as saying "they're (the majors) afraid of tangling with the government. They say they cannot stop the telecasts and broadcasts of major league games into minor league cities but their contracts with sponsors stipulate, for instance, that telecasts of Saturday games involving the Cleveland, Philadelphia and Chicago American League contests cannot be made into a major league city.

"If the major league cities can be blacked out, why then can't the minor league cities?"

Young said he was told the independents would stress that point in their suit.

Frick Made Appeal

Frick, at a meeting of the Metropolitan Sports Broadcasters Assn. Sept. 8, said that minor league ball was being killed off by unlimited television, and that major league baseball in turn would suffer.

He proposed a meeting of representatives of his office, the radio and television industry and the majors and minors.

OUTFIELDERS IN QUEST OF NL BATTING TITLE—Willie Mays, left, and Don Mueller of the New York Giants flank Duke Snider of the Brooklyn Dodgers as they cross bats at Ebbetts Field prior to the start of yesterday's game. The trio leads in the race for National League batting honors. At the end of the game won by Giants, 5-2, Mays was batting .346 while Snider and Mueller were tied at .340.

Bell Puts Blast On Colleges For Attacks On Pros

Saturday Telecasts Sore Spot, He Says

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League today blasted Big 10 athletics officials and others as "isolationists and selfish men" intent on severing years of harmonious relations between college and professional football.

Bell said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, Big 10 commissioner; Theodore B. Payseur, Northwestern University athletic director; Tom Hamilton, Pittsburgh athletic director, and Fritz Crisler, head of athletics at Michigan, are the ring leaders in an attempt to cause a rift between college athletics and professional sports.

"They're not kidding us. We know what the real reason for their sudden attack on pro football is our elaborate nation-wide television program. They're sore because we televise on Saturday nights.

"Well, we're going to televise on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. We went through a lawsuit alone for eight weeks in federal court at a great expense. We won and we're going to give the public all the television we can," Bell said.

The commissioner said Wilson, Payseur, Hamilton, Crisler and the rest are afraid to allow unlimited television in college football "because they figure Notre Dame would sell their games coast-to-coast year in and year out, freezing the rest of them out of the picture.

"These selfish men have banded together to keep Notre Dame in the same boat with them. They hide behind that 'protect the small college' stuff, but you don't notice them scheduling small colleges to help out, do you?"

Bosox Retain Fourth Place, Cop Two 4-3 Tilts From A's

Jensen's Blow Wins First Game; Goodman Gathers Seven Hits

BOSTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Jackie Jensen's 10th inning single broke up the first game and his three run homer, No. 25 for the season, decided the second today as the Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia, by identical 4-3 scores.

While Jensen was raising his RBI total to 115, Billy Goodman went on a batting spree for the Sox—gathering seven hits including three doubles during the long afternoon which finished under the lights.

It was Goodman who singled to open the 10th inning of the first game after a 26-minute rain interruption. Ted Williams then walked prior to Jensen's safety. Russ Kemmerer, fourth Boston hurler, was the winner and John Dixon the loser.

Goodman singled in the second inning of the nightcap after Milt Bolling walked to set up Jensen's drive into the left field screen which put Boston ahead 4-0. Billy scored in the first on a wild throw after doubling and reaching third on a walk to Williams.

Frank Sullivan won his 14th game against 12 defeats with two of the runs coming on Jim Finigan's seventh home run in the fourth inning and Bill Renna's 13th in the sixth.

Navy Team Points For Opening Game

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz put his Navy football squad through a scrimmage this afternoon with emphasis on defense against the split T which will be used by William and Mary in the opener here Saturday.

The Middies probably will taper off practice the rest of the week since Erdelatz was so pleased with the team in a scrimmage against Villanova here over the weekend.

Colts Cut Squad

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Coach Wilbur (Weeb) Ewbank, pairing down his Baltimore Colts squad to the 33-man National Football League limit, today placed two more players on waivers.

Bob Lange, end from Wayne University picked up last spring from the Cleveland Browns, and Elmer Wingate, a Baltimorean who played for Maryland and was a Colt mainstay last season, were let go.

Ewbank must release two more players to meet the league requirement.

Bell Honored

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Bert Bell, commissioner of the National Football League, has been honored by Sigma Alpha Rho, national high school fraternity, in recognition of "his unselfish devotion throughout the years to better sports programs for America's youth."

Cubs Grab Pair From Cardinals

Rush And Klippstein Notch 4-3, 3-2 Wins

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs scored their sixth sweep of 30 doubleheaders this season by beating St. Louis twice, 4-3 in 10 innings, and 3-2 in six and a half innings second match before 2,119 fans today.

Steve Bilko and Ralph Kiner clouted loser Harvey Haddix for homers in the bob-tailed nightcap after Gene Baker's single scored Frankie Baumholtz in the 10th inning with the winning run in the opener.

The double defeat dropped the Cardinals into sixth place, with only four games remaining.

Bob Rush yielded 10 hits going the distance to win the opener for his fourth straight win and 12th of the year. Johnny Klippstein posted his fourth win of the year in the second match. He allowed only three hits.

CUMBERLAND'S three top flight women golfers, Mesdames G. William Bibby, G. L. Bowie and W. Royce Hodges, will compete in the annual Lillian Payne Cup Tournament scheduled for the Congressional Country Club, Washington, D. C., October 13, 14 and 15.

It's a 54-hole medal play affair with 18 holes being scheduled daily.

WHEN "ECK" MIERS came here Saturday night in the role of assistant football coach of Front Royal High's Wildcats, he recalled that 15 years ago he refereed the first game of the series between Fort Hill and the Virginians which the Sentinels won but not by such a decisive margin as last week's 41-6 rout.

SECRETARY Hubert Feeney, of the Potomac Valley Football Officials Association, reports that John Angellatta, who has worked many games in the tri-state area for 18 years, will not be available for duty this season.

Angellatta, who started his career as an official in 1936, has been employed six days a week at a local plant and is unable to give the extra time to Friday and Saturday games.

While he is dropping out of football for this year, at least, Angellatta hopes to continu his duties as basketball and baseball arbiter.

THE MARYLAND Racing Commission has revised its rules to permit an apprentice to ride 100 winners instead of 40 before losing the five-pound allowance.

The new code will become official as soon as it is returned from the printer, probably before the end of the current Marlboro meet which ends Saturday.

CALVIN BOWLING, who was in charge of stall assignments and served as a judge at this year's Fairgo race meeting, is handling the book of Jockey Angello Vasil, who has returned to Maryland's half mile circuit.

ALTHOUGH they are playing second fiddle to the Cleveland Indians this season, the New York Yankees will finish in the first division for the 33rd time in 34 years. The last time they finished below the top four was in 1925 when they wound up 7th. It still pays to be a Yankee.

LESTER BIEDERMAN, of the Pittsburgh Press, one of the best baseball writers in the business, is in Presbyterian Hospital, where he will undergo an abdominal operation.

HIGHEST PAYOFF on a $2 win ticket on the Maryland half mile racing circuit this year is $109 hung up when Foster's Cushla scored at Timonium.

The 2-year-old filly is by Beauchef and her dam is Cushlamacree, former queen of the Maryland minor ovals and winner of legs on the Clifton W. White Trophy at Fairgo in 1944 and 1945. She is owned by John Foster who won with Cushlamacree here.

CHARLEY GELBERT, one-time St. Louis Cardinals' infielder, who played basketball for the Gettysburg Fleetwings against the old Cumberland Caseys, is now football coach of the Lafayette College Freshmen.

ALTOONA Catholic High which failed to win a game in 10 starts last season is still on the toboggan. The Marauders under their new coach, John Clancy, have dropped their first two starts of the season to Hastings, 14-0 and Cresson 43-0.

The Pennsylvanians play LaSalle here November 12.

THE BALTIMORE Transit Company declares it will oppose any lifting of the ban on night high school football games at Memorial Stadium unless "some responsible body" gives the company a written guarantee that it would be remimbursed for vandalism damage to buses.

A company spokesman said buses suffered "extensive damage" at the hands of vandals attending the school games last year before the ban was imposed. It cost the company more than $5,000 to repair damage done to the interior of buses.

The ban was established last year following disorders and damage at the stadium during schoolboy games held at night.

MRS. MAURICE GLICK who copped medalist honors in the Maryland State Amateur Tournament at Five Farms on Monday has won the title seven times and is tied with Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow for that honor.

Her sternest foe, 1953 champion Mary Ann Downey, who was in the National Amateur at Sewickley last week, is not defending the crown.

DICK McELWEE'S Charleston High eleven suffered a 32-7 trouncing at the hands of South Charleston last week and Farmington High's Farmers, who will figure in Romney High's Booster Day Game on Nov. 6, battled Fairmont West to a 14-14 deadlock.

ELKINS High School, under its new grid mentor, Bob Irwin, has won its first two games of the season, whipping Belington 34-6 and Victory of Clarksburg, 21-6.

Allegany plays the Tigers at Elkins, November 5.

THE WESTVACO Papermakers, now in the All-States Association playoff finals, heaved in the sponge a month ago and then changed their mind and decided to finish out the season.

ONE week from Friday the W.M.I. Soccer League opens its season but no player is expected to come near the all-time scoring record of 47 points set by Arone DiUbaldo of Bruce High School in 1931.

In 1950 three players tied for high point honors at three points each, an all-time low.

MOST POPULAR of all breeds of dogs is now the beagle with 45,398 registrations by the American Kennel Club.

Next in line is the Cocker Spaniel with 43,561 registrations.

AND LAST but not least, thanks to "Tag" Reel, of the City Recreation Department, for his excellent coverage of the Western Maryland Softball Tournament.

Bob Grim Bags 20th Win Over Nationals, 3-1

1,912 Witness Game, Yanks' Record Low

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Bob Grim became the New York Yankees' first 20-game winning rookie since Russ Ford in 1910 as he held Washington to four hits today for a 3-1 victory. Pete Runnels' wild throw let the Yanks break a tie in the eighth inning. Only 1,912 fans, an all-time low for Yankee Stadium, watched the game.

The small turnout saw a fine pitchers' battle between Grim, the Yanks' candidate for "rookie of the year" awards, and Dean Stone, Washington's fine freshman.

Tied at 1-1 going into the last of the eighth, the Yanks had two out before Gil McDougald walked. Mickey Mantle followed with a single and Yogi Berra grounded to Runnels who made a good stop but threw high to second base, pulling Jerry Snyder off the bag. McDougald scored from second on the play.

Grim, 24-year-old former Marine, who never pitched higher than Class A before this season, struck out seven and walked only two. Boosting his season record to 20-6, he allowed only four hits, all singles. The Yanks had only five hits off Stone, the Senators' young lefthander whose record now reads 12-9 for the year.

Cubs To Retain Hack As Manager

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP) — Stan Hack will be given a new contract to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1955 after the World Series, club owner P. K. Wrigley said today.

Hack, who finished his playing career with the Cubs in 1948 and then spent five years in the club's farm system succeeded Phil Cavarretta as skipper of the Bruins last March.

The Cubs spent most of this season deep in the second division and will finish seventh for the second straight year.

Switch Gridder

AP Newsfeatures

WEST POINT, N. Y.—In football, just as in baseball, there are "switch" players—players who can move from one position to another with equal dexterity. In baseball the "switch" players can move from one position to another just as they can "switch" their batting from left hand to right hand, and vice versa.

In football, Ralph Chesnauekas was acclaimed as a speedy, elusive end when he was playing for Brockton, Mass., high school.

When he came out for the West Point Varsity squad in 1953, Coach Col. Earl H. Blaik took one look at Chesnauska's big figure at end. He looked again at Chesnauskas' 195 pounds plus and said "You're now a guard."

Minors To Sue Major Leagues For 50 Million Damages

Radio And TV Will Be Basis For The Suit

Owners Are Charged With Failure To Act To Save Small Loops

ALBANY, N. Y., Sept. 21 (AP)—A group of minor league baseball club owners, irked over declining attendance and revenue, was reported today to be planning a 50 million dollar damage suit against Commissioner Ford Frick and the owners of the 16 major league clubs.

The Knickerbocker News said the invasion of minor league territory by telecasts and broadcasts of major league games would be the basis for the suit.

Frick, in New York City, said he had not heard of the proposed suit and declined comment.

Decline To Comment

In Columbus, O., George M. Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues (the minors), also declined comment.

The News in the story by Sports Editor Charles Young quoted an unidentified source as saying "our leaders in baseball have done nothing to save the minors from being ruined."

The story said that a representative of the minor league clubs had been negotiating with an attorney and that an announcement of the filing of the suit might be made during the World Series, which begins Sept. 29.

(Although Young could not, for professional reasons, divulge his source, Frank D. Lawrence of Portsmouth, Va., identified himself as a key figure in the suit. Lawrence is owner of the Portsmouth club in the Class B Piedmont League.

(Lawrence said the story was premature and said future statements would come from his attorney.

(He added "I have contacted 83 independent baseball owners and a majority are with me.")

Young said funds to finance the suit were being contributed by the clubs involved. He did not name the clubs.

THE BALTIMORE Transit Company declares it will oppose any lifting of the ban on night high school football games at Memorial Stadium unless "some responsible body" gives the company a written guarantee that it would be remimbursed for vandalism damage to buses.

A company spokesman said buses suffered "extensive damage" at the hands of vandals attending the school games last year before the ban was imposed. It cost the company more than $5,000 to repair damage done to the interior of buses.

The ban was established last year following disorders and damage at the stadium during schoolboy games held at night.

MRS. MAURICE GLICK who copped medalist honors in the Maryland State Amateur Tournament at Five Farms on Monday has won the title seven times and is tied with Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow for that honor.

Her sternest foe, 1953 champion Mary Ann Downey, who was in the National Amateur at Sewickley last week, is not defending the crown.

DICK McELWEE'S Charleston High eleven suffered a 32-7 trouncing at the hands of South Charleston last week and Farmington High's Farmers, who will figure in Romney High's Booster Day Game on Nov. 6, battled Fairmont West to a 14-14 deadlock.

ELKINS High School, under its new grid mentor, Bob Irwin, has won its first two games of the season, whipping Belington 34-6 and Victory of Clarksburg, 21-6.

Allegany plays the Tigers at Elkins, November 5.

THE WESTVACO Papermakers, now in the All-States Association playoff finals, heaved in the sponge a month ago and then changed their mind and decided to finish out the season.

ONE week from Friday the W.M.I. Soccer League opens its season but no player is expected to come near the all-time scoring record of 47 points set by Arone DiUbaldo of Bruce High School in 1931.

In 1950 three players tied for high point honors at three points each, an all-time low.

MOST POPULAR of all breeds of dogs is now the beagle with 45,398 registrations by the American Kennel Club.

Next in line is the Cocker Spaniel with 43,561 registrations.

Bob Grim Bags 20th Win Over Nationals, 3-1

1,912 Witness Game, Yanks' Record Low

NEW YORK, Sept. 21 (AP)—Bob Grim became the New York Yankees' first 20-game winning rookie since Russ Ford in 1910 as he held Washington to four hits today for a 3-1 victory. Pete Runnels' wild throw let the Yanks break a tie in the eighth inning. Only 1,912 fans, an all-time low for Yankee Stadium, watched the game.

The small turnout saw a fine pitchers' battle between Grim, the Yanks' candidate for "rookie of the year" awards, and Dean Stone, Washington's fine freshman.

Tied at 1-1 going into the last of the eighth, the Yanks had two out before Gil McDougald walked. Mickey Mantle followed with a single and Yogi Berra grounded to Runnels who made a good stop but threw high to second base, pulling Jerry Snyder off the bag. McDougald scored from second on the play.

Grim, 24-year-old former Marine, who never pitched higher than Class A before this season, struck out seven and walked only two. Boosting his season record to 20-6, he allowed only four hits, all singles. The Yanks had only five hits off Stone, the Senators' young lefthander whose record now reads 12-9 for the year.

Bell Puts Blast On Colleges For Attacks On Pros

Saturday Telecasts Sore Spot, He Says

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 21 (AP)—Commissioner Bert Bell of the National Football League today blasted Big 10 athletics officials and others as "isolationists and selfish men" intent on severing years of harmonious relations between college and professional football.

Bell said Kenneth (Tug) Wilson, Big 10 commissioner; Theodore B. Payseur, Northwestern University athletic director; Tom Hamilton, Pittsburgh athletic director, and Fritz Crisler, head of athletics at Michigan, are the ring leaders in an attempt to cause a rift between college athletics and professional sports.

"They're not kidding us. We know what the real reason for their sudden attack on pro football is our elaborate nation-wide television program. They're sore because we televise on Saturday nights.

"Well, we're going to televise on Saturday night and Sunday afternoon. We went through a lawsuit alone for eight weeks in federal court at a great expense. We won and we're going to give the public all the television we can," Bell said.

The commissioner said Wilson, Payseur, Hamilton, Crisler and the rest are afraid to allow unlimited television in college football "because they figure Notre Dame would sell their games coast-to-coast year in and year out, freezing the rest of them out of the picture.

"These selfish men have banded together to keep Notre Dame in the same boat with them. They hide behind that 'protect the small college' stuff, but you don't notice them scheduling small colleges to help out, do you?"

Jensen's Blow Wins First Game; Goodman Gathers Seven Hits

BOSTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Jackie Jensen's 10th inning single broke up the first game and his three run homer, No. 25 for the season, decided the second today as the Boston Red Sox swept a doubleheader from Philadelphia, by identical 4-3 scores.

While Jensen was raising his RBI total to 115, Billy Goodman went on a batting spree for the Sox—gathering seven hits including three doubles during the long afternoon which finished under the lights.

It was Goodman who singled to open the 10th inning of the first game after a 26-minute rain interruption. Ted Williams then walked prior to Jensen's safety. Russ Kemmerer, fourth Boston hurler, was the winner and John Dixon the loser.

Goodman singled in the second inning of the nightcap after Milt Bolling walked to set up Jensen's drive into the left field screen which put Boston ahead 4-0. Billy scored in the first on a wild throw after doubling and reaching third on a walk to Williams.

Frank Sullivan won his 14th game against 12 defeats with two of the runs coming on Jim Finigan's seventh home run in the fourth inning and Bill Renna's 13th in the sixth.

Navy Team Points For Opening Game

ANNAPOLIS, Sept. 21 (AP)—Coach Eddie Erdelatz put his Navy football squad through a scrimmage this afternoon with emphasis on defense against the split T which will be used by William and Mary in the opener here Saturday.

The Middies probably will taper off practice the rest of the week since Erdelatz was so pleased with the team in a scrimmage against Villanova here over the weekend.

Colts Cut Squad

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP)—Coach Wilbur (Weeb) Ewbank, pairing down his Baltimore Colts squad to the 33-man National Football League limit, today placed two more players on waivers.

Bob Lange, end from Wayne University picked up last spring from the Cleveland Browns, and Elmer Wingate, a Baltimorean who played for Maryland and was a Colt mainstay last season, were let go.

Ewbank must release two more players to meet the league requirement.

Cubs Grab Pair From Cardinals

Rush And Klippstein Notch 4-3, 3-2 Wins

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—The Chicago Cubs scored their sixth sweep of 30 doubleheaders this season by beating St. Louis twice, 4-3 in 10 innings, and 3-2 in six and a half innings second match before 2,119 fans today.

Steve Bilko and Ralph Kiner clouted loser Harvey Haddix for homers in the bob-tailed nightcap after Gene Baker's single scored Frankie Baumholtz in the 10th inning with the winning run in the opener.

The double defeat dropped the Cardinals into sixth place, with only four games remaining.

Bob Rush yielded 10 hits going the distance to win the opener for his fourth straight win and 12th of the year. Johnny Klippstein posted his fourth win of the year in the second match. He allowed only three hits.

Cubs To Retain Hack As Manager

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP) — Stan Hack will be given a new contract to manage the Chicago Cubs in 1955 after the World Series, club owner P. K. Wrigley said today.

Hack, who finished his playing career with the Cubs in 1948 and then spent five years in the club's farm system succeeded Phil Cavarretta as skipper of the Bruins last March.

The Cubs spent most of this season deep in the second division and will finish seventh for the second straight year.

Switch Gridder

AP Newsfeatures

WEST POINT, N. Y.—In football, just as in baseball, there are "switch" players—players who can move from one position to another with equal dexterity. In baseball the "switch" players can move from one position to another just as they can "switch" their batting from left hand to right hand, and vice versa.

In football, Ralph Chesnauekas was acclaimed as a speedy, elusive end when he was playing for Brockton, Mass., high school.

Hofman Clouts Grand Slammer As Giants Win

Beats Brooklyn, 5-2; Mays Boosts Average

BROOKLYN, Sept. 21 (AP)—Clinching the National League pennant didn't halt the New York Giants who rode over Brooklyn today 5-2 on five-hit pitching by Ruben Gomez and Jim Hearn. The Giants eliminated the Dodgers last night, but all regulars except Hank Thompson and Wes Westrum started against lefthanded Johnny Podres.

Bobby Hofman, filling in for Thompson at third base, hit a home run with the bases loaded. It was the Giants' seventh grand slam of the season, tying their own club record of 1951 but three under the major league record of 10 set by Detroit in 1938. The National League high is nine by Chicago in 1929.

Willie Mays, who took over the league batting lead from Brooklyn's Duke Snider last night held tight to first place with two htis in three trips. The hits sent Mays' average up two points to .346.

After the first inning outburst against Podres, it was all over. The Giants rubbed it in a little when Gomez hit a home run off Podres in the fifth for their other run.

Gomez, a sure fire series starter against Cleveland, went five innings and allowed only three hits. Junior Gilliam's double and a wild throw by Hofman gave the Dodgers their run in the first. A walk and singles by Snider and Gil Hodges provided the second Brooklyn run in the third. The Puerto Rican righthander walked one, struck out one and hit one batsmen in his tune-up. Hearn gave only two singles in the last four innings.

Wilson Says Big 10 Has No Grievance With Pro Football

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Big Ten Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson asserted today his conference had no grievance with the National Football League as contended by the pro loop's commissioner, Bert Bell.

Wilson said a "bill of particulars" listed by Bell in his charge against Big Ten officials and Athletic Director Tom Hamilton of Pittsburgh was "not factual."

"We are trying to build college athletics for its own identity," said Wilson, "and I have previously told Mr. Bell I was willing to talk over the matter."

WMI Soccer League Will Open 28th Campaign On October 1

Four Referees Approved For 20-Game Card

Coaches, Officials Meet Monday; Valley Is Defending Champ

The Western Maryland Interscholastic Soccer League, composed of teams representing Valley High, Lonaconing; Beall High, Frostburg; Agricultural High School, Flintstone; Mt. Savage and Bruce High, Westernport, will open its 28th campaign on Friday, October 1, with games scheduled at Barton, Valley High's home field, and Flintstone.

Valley High is the defending champion with John Meyers at the helm. Augie Eichhorn is Bruce High mentor, Edward "Ebbie" Finzel is at the helm at Beall, Orville "Stony" Jackson will tutor the Flintstone booters and John Thomas heads the Mt. Savage High Braves.

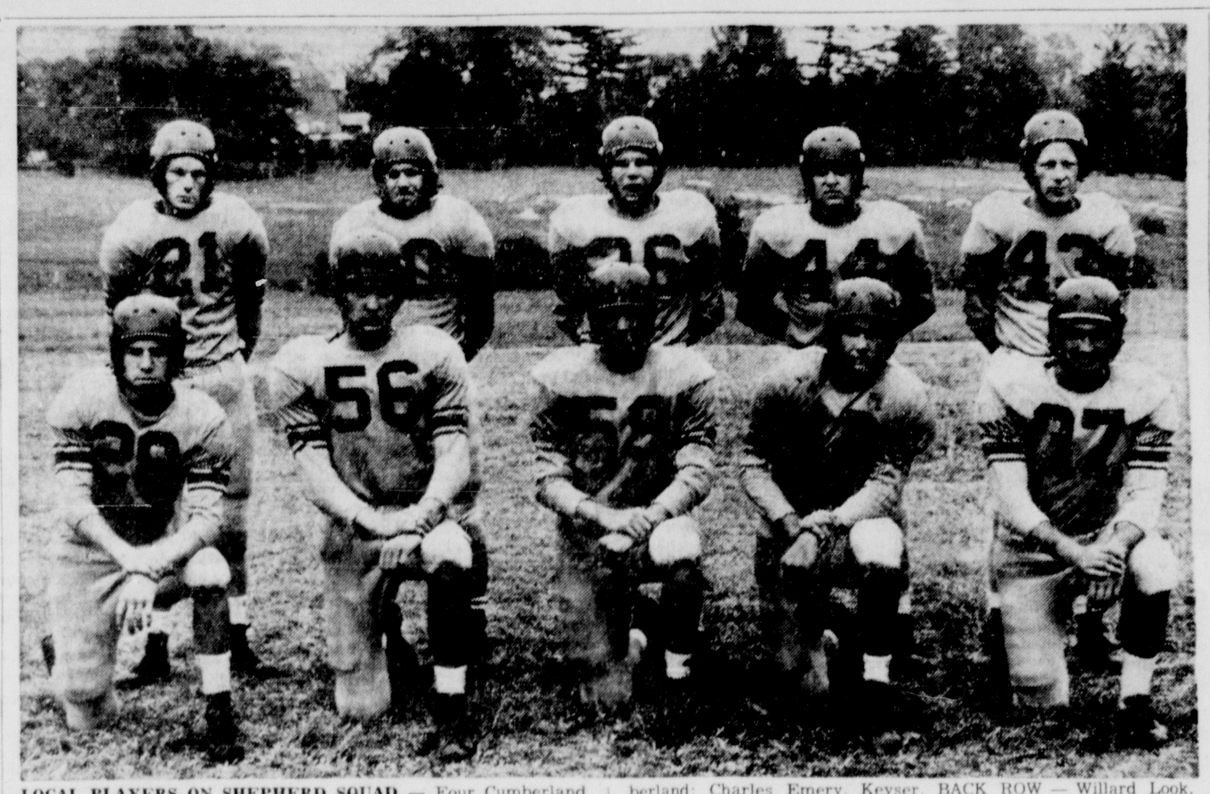

Bruce has won 11 championships since the league started in 1921. Barton, no longer in the league, and Beall have copped six titles each while Central, also just a memory, has finished on top three times and Valley High once.

Referees selected to handle league contests are Henry Stafford, Lonaconing; Cecil Warnick, Potomac Park; Enordo Arnone, State Teachers College, Frostburg, and Frank Patrone, Piedmont.

Referees and coaches will meet at Valley High School, Lonaconing, Monday, September 27 at 7:30 p.m. for a discussion of rules and interpretations. It is important that all officials and coaches attend as several rules are modified for use in the Allegany County public schools.

The schedule with referees:

Friday, October 1—Mt. Savage at Valley, Arnone; Beall at Flintstone, Stafford.
Tuesday, October 5—Valley at Bruce, Stafford; Beall at Mt. Savage, Patrone.
Friday, October 8—Mt. Savage at Bruce, Stafford; Flintstone at Valley, Warnick.
Tuesday, October 12—Valley at Beall, Stafford; Bruce at Flintstone, Arnone.
Tuesday, October 19—Flintstone at Mt. Savage, Arnone; Beall at Bruce, Stafford.
Friday, October 22—Valley at Mt. Savage, Stafford; Flintstone at Beall, Patrone.
Tuesday, October 26—Bruce at Valley, Stafford; Mt. Savage at Beall, Patrone.

Beats Brooklyn, 5-2; Mays Boosts Average

BROOKLYN, Sept. 21 (AP)—Clinching the National League pennant didn't halt the New York Giants who rode over Brooklyn today 5-2 on five-hit pitching by Ruben Gomez and Jim Hearn. The Giants eliminated the Dodgers last night, but all regulars except Hank Thompson and Wes Westrum started against lefthanded Johnny Podres.

Bobby Hofman, filling in for Thompson at third base, hit a home run with the bases loaded. It was the Giants' seventh grand slam of the season, tying their own club record of 1951 but three under the major league record of 10 set by Detroit in 1938. The National League high is nine by Chicago in 1929.

Willie Mays, who took over the league batting lead from Brooklyn's Duke Snider last night held tight to first place with two hits in three trips. The hits sent Mays' average up two points to .346.

After the first inning outburst against Podres, it was all over. The Giants rubbed it in a little when Gomez hit a home run off Podres in the fifth for their other run.

Gomez, a sure fire series starter against Cleveland, went five innings and allowed only three hits. Junior Gilliam's double and a wild throw by Hofman gave the Dodgers their run in the first. A walk and singles by Snider and Gil Hodges provided the second Brooklyn run in the third. The Puerto Rican righthander walked one, struck out one and hit one batsmen in his tune-up. Hearn gave only two singles in the last four innings.

Wilson Says Big 10 Has No Grievance With Pro Football

CHICAGO, Sept. 21 (AP)—Big Ten Commissioner K. L. (Tug) Wilson asserted today his conference had no grievance with the National Football League as contended by the pro loop's commissioner, Bert Bell.

Wilson said a "bill of particulars" listed by Bell in his charge against Big Ten officials and Athletic Director Tom Hamilton of Pittsburgh was "not factual."

"We are trying to build college athletics for its own identity," said Wilson, "and I have previously told Mr. Bell I was willing to talk over the matter."

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 21 (INS)—A long distance telephone call went to Rhonda Fleming in Rome from Universal-International, asking her to return home from Italy the day she finishes "Courtesan of Babylon," to report to the studio.

The redheaded Technicolor queen is wanted for "Kiss of Fire" to co-star with Jack Palance, and this starts as soon as Rhonda gets home.

She'll play a Spanish princess of the 17th century, who engages a renegade Spanish nobleman (Palance, of course) as her guide to the New World.

The wide smile Sam Goldwyn wore when he and his Frances sailed on the Lurline for Honolulu was caused by getting his fourth star in "Guys and Dolls," Jean Simmons.

Quite a cast Mr. Goldwyn has for himself — Marlon Brando, Frank Sinatra, Vivian Blaine and now Jean, who'll play Miss Sarah, the Salvation Army girl.

The world champion Rocky Marciano, who came to Hollywood to appear on the Colgate Comedy Hour with his friend Eddie Fisher, has gone to Lake Arrowhead for a rest. Then he returns here for plastic surgery on his nose, which was badly hurt in his fight with Ezzard Charles.

Rocky has been a visitor practically every day at the bedside of Jerry Lewis. The two are old friends. He took a whole crowd of pals to Pepe De Lucia's for Italian food, too.

The happiest man in our town when the Cleveland Indians won was Bob Hope. You could hear his cheering for them all the way East and back. Bob is a stockholder, and he couldn't resist sending Bing Crosby a wire, because Bing has stock in the Pirates who haven't done so well.

Bob tells me that he's flying East after he finishes "The Eddie Foy Story" to attend the World Series. Then he'll sail for Europe to be gone a month and, of course, he'll attend the command performance in London. He doesn't have to make a picture until January, which will give him a rest.

Socially speaking: Two of the best looking girls — and I say girls they look so young — at a party honoring Bebe Daniels and Ben Lyon in the new private room of the Los Feliz Brown Derby, were Irene Dunne and Norma Shearer. Both looked so lovely. Later, Irene, Dr. Griffin, Lorena and L. B. Mayer went to see Dorothy Lamour at Ciro's, as did Bob Hope, who was also at the party.

The new room at the youngest Derby is Bob Cobb's pride and joy. It's like a home, with lamps, sofas and chairs.

So nice to see so many of the Lyons' old friends, among them Adela Rogers St. John, Hope and Buddy Lighton, the Jean Herzogs, Clifton Webb, Hernando Courtright, the Sam Goldwyns, Fieldsie Lang, Gracie Allen and George Burns, Cesar Romero, Marion Davies, Mecca Graham, the Skeets Gallaghers, Carmen Considine, Mrs. Mervyn Le Roy, Sue and Alan Ladd, Nancy and Ronald Reagan, Dinah Shore and George Montgomery, Arlene Dahl and Fernando Lamas, the Van Heflins, Ann Miller and William O'Connor, Greg Bautzer, David Lewis and many more.

Liberace played the piano and sang, both solo and a duet with Jimmy McHugh. There was more excitement over meeting Liberace than any star in a long time. Sally Cobb did the cutest Charleston.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Rod Steiger, who plays Jud in "Oklahoma!", and Marlon Brando's brother in "On the Waterfront," and his wife are having discussions. She's just arrived in town after a separation of five months.

Tyrone Power was offered one million dollars by William Goetz for his interest in "The Long Gray Line," and Bill wasn't kidding. He remembers what "Mississippi Gambler" took in.

Dick Contino is an uncle. His sister, Mrs. Josephine Grando, is the mother of a baby girl.

The Philadelphia Athletics are dangling a very tempting offer over Joe DiMaggio's head in the hope that he'll become their manager.

Thanks to MGM, Farmer Joe Baudino has been able to keep his farm. "Interrupted Melody" went on location there for a week just after Joe lost his entire lima bean crop, and the cash helped him save his farm.

Mrs. Danny Kaye's father is in Queen of Angels Hospital. He's under observation for about ten days.

That's all today. See you tomorrow.

Mass X-Ray Falls Short In Attack On Lung Cancer

WASHINGTON, Sept. 21 (AP)—A San Francisco doctor said yesterday that mass X-ray is the best available method for spotting lung cancer in the general population but it is far from good enough.

"If a significant attack is to be made on the lung cancer problem," a more effective method of detection on a mass basis among apparently healthy people will have to be found," said Dr. L. Henry Garland, himself an X-ray specialist.

The doctor suggested that research be pushed to develop some "biochemical" or other method—possibly including some kind of blood test—as a means of detecting lung cancer on a more surefire basis among the general public.

Garland, in a report prepared for the 55th annual meeting of the American Roentgen Ray Society which opened today, said recent surveys in several large cities showed mass X-ray had several drawbacks, including:

1. Mass X-ray detects only about 10 cases of lung cancer in every 100,000 persons of all ages examined, compared with an estimated prevalence rate of 18 per 100,000.

2. Lung cancer detected in mass surveys of large groups of people "is unfortunately seldom 'early' (cancer)."

Garland said the eventual outlook of lung cancer cases detected in mass surveys of apparently well people "prove little better" than that of lung cancer detected by conventional methods of examining the chests of people who already show apparent symptoms of the disease.

Britain Lifts Ban On Bear; Future Love Life Uncertain

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Aurora, a polar bear from Chicago who almost became an international incident, was on her way to a zoo in Manchester. Her future love life was still uncertain.

"The trouble is," said Gerald Iles, superintendent of the zoo, "we are not quite sure about the sex of the two bears with whom Aurora is to live."

Not sure?

"No," said Iles. "Telling the sex of a polar bear—before they mature—can be a very tricky thing, indeed."

It's also foolhardy.

And suppose the pair of bears in Manchester turned out to be two males—or, one male and one female?

"All sorts of complications could arise," said Iles. "First of all, there would be a dreadful fight. You know, the call of the wild, jealousy and all that."

It was precisely a sex mixup that brought Aurora to England from America. The Chicago Zoo bought what it thought were six male polar bears, but one of them—Aurora—turned out to be a lady. She stirred the five males to fighting, snarling rivalry.

So Chicago has to get rid of Aurora. The zoo gave her to Iles and shipped her to London. While Aurora's ship was in midocean the British Board of Trade got sticky, pointing out a British zoo could buy a bear but not receive one free without permission. Aurora was left alone to pine on her freighter at the London docks.

"A shocking, dirty outrage, an affront to the people of Chicago," said Robert Dean, director of the Chicago Zoo.

Yesterday the facts were laid before the Board of Trade. Iles argued persuasively. The Board of Trade lifted the ban and permitted Aurora to land.

"All's well," said Iles, "but the future is uncertain."

Daily Bridge Lesson by Barclay

HONOR LEAD NECESSARY

WHEN you have a combination of cards from which the lead of an honor is sound, it may be costly to lead the fourth-best against a No Trump contract. The latter lead risks giving the declarer a very cheap trick while preserving one of his stoppers, and can well mean the difference between making his contract and being beaten. Veteran stars have all learned that, when their suit is topped by three cards higher than the eight, at least two of them touching, it pays to lead one of the touching honors.

	♠ Q 10 ♥ A Q 5 4 ♦ 9 6 ♣ 10 7 6 4 2
♠ 7 4 2 ♥ K 6 2 ♦ A J 10 7 4 ♣ 8 5	N W E S	♠ A 8 6 ♥ J 10 8 7 ♦ 8 5 3 ♣ K Q J
	♠ K J 9 5 3 ♥ 9 3 ♦ K Q 2 ♣ A 9 3

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT

South was way overboard in that game contract, when his side held only one jack more than an average of 20 by the 4-3-2-1 count. It was not his fault, though, but that of his partner, who held nothing like the strength advertised by his second bid of the higher-ranking hearts after first showing his clubs. Whatever damage was done by the overbidding, however, was offset by West's unsound opening lead of the diamond 7.

That presented a gift trick to the declarer with the 9. But, much more important, it enabled him to save his two diamond honors for protection later. He followed the first cheap trick with the spade Q and then the 10 to the J when East played low on both of those leads, coming in with the A then on the spade K. His return was the diamond 8 to the Q and A, but South had the K left to win the J return. By aid of the heart Q finesse he was then enabled to have two tricks each in the red suits, four in spades and one in clubs to make the nine needed for game.

If West had properly led the diamond J, South would have had to use an honor to gain the lead. Later trying spades, he would have hoped West had that A, so he would still have a diamond stopper. But East would have produced that telling card, following it with a diamond return which would trap South's last stopper and give West four diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

THE LITTLE WOMAN

"Good! Now, Edna, we can have a nice, long chat while the comedian is on."

Britain Lifts Ban On Bear; Future Love Life Uncertain

LONDON, Sept. 21 (AP)—Aurora, a polar bear from Chicago who almost became an international incident, was on her way to a zoo in Manchester. Her future love life was still uncertain.

"The trouble is," said Gerald Iles, superintendent of the zoo, "we are not quite sure about the sex of the two bears with whom Aurora is to live."

Not sure?

"No," said Iles. "Telling the sex of a polar bear—before they mature—can be a very tricky thing, indeed."

It's also foolhardy.

And suppose the pair of bears in Manchester turned out to be two males—or, one male and one female?

"All sorts of complications could arise," said Iles. "First of all, there would be a dreadful fight. You know, the call of the wild, jealousy and all that."

It was precisely a sex mixup that brought Aurora to England from America. The Chicago Zoo bought what it thought were six male polar bears, but one of them —Aurora—turned out to be a lady. She stirred the five males to fighting, snarling rivalry.

So Chicago has to get rid of Aurora. The zoo gave her to Iles and shipped her to London. While Aurora's ship was in midocean the British Board of Trade got sticky, pointing out a British zoo could buy a bear but not receive one free without permission. Aurora was left alone to pine on her freighter at the London docks.

"A shocking, dirty outrage, an affront to the people of Chicago," said Robert Dean, director of the Chicago Zoo.

Yesterday the facts were laid before the Board of Trade. Iles argued persuasively. The Board of Trade lifted the ban and permitted Aurora to land.

"All's well," said Iles, "but the future is uncertain."

HONOR LEAD NECESSARY

WHEN you have a combination of cards from which the lead of an honor is sound, it may be costly to lead the fourth-best against a No Trump contract. The latter lead risks giving the declarer a very cheap trick while preserving one of his stoppers, and can well mean the difference between making his contract and being beaten. Veteran stars have all learned that, when their suit is topped by three cards higher than the eight, at least two of them touching, it pays to lead one of the touching honors.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Pass	2 ♣	Pass
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
3 NT

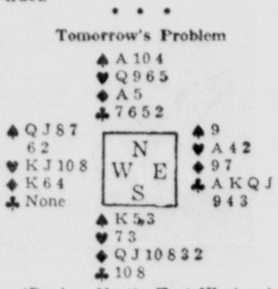

South was way overboard in that game contract, when his side held only one jack more than an average of 20 by the 4-3-2-1 count. It was not his fault, though, but that of his partner, who held nothing like the strength advertised by his second bid of the higher-ranking hearts after first showing his clubs. Whatever damage was done by the overbidding, however, was offset by West's unsound opening lead of the diamond 7.

That presented a gift trick to the declarer with the 9. But, much more important, it enabled him to save his two diamond honors for protection later. He followed the first cheap trick with the spade Q and then the 10 to the J when East played low on both of those leads, coming in with the A then on the spade K. His return was the diamond 8 to the Q and A, but South had the K left to win the J return. By aid of the heart Q finesse he was then enabled to have two tricks each in the red suits, four in spades and one in clubs to make the nine needed for game.

If West had properly led the diamond J, South would have had to use an honor to gain the lead. Later trying spades, he would have hoped West had that A, so he would still have a diamond stopper. But East would have produced that telling card, following it with a diamond return which would trap South's last stopper and give West four diamond tricks to defeat the contract.

Bones Of Prehistoric Cave Bears Discovered

VERONA, Italy, Sept. 21 (AP)—A den full of giant cave bears that walked the earth with Stone Age man has been discovered here.

An Italian expedition exploring the Friar's Hole reported finding eight skulls measuring up to a foot and a half long, and piles of bones. They were turned over to the Verona Museum of Natural History which said there were enough pieces to fit together three complete skeletons of the long extinct cave bears.

With them were found jaws, leg bones and vertebrae of the prehistoric bison.

Wild birds sing only about 10 weeks in the year.

Killing the shark before bringing him aboard

Bringing in a shark on light tackle

THE FISHING CRAFT at Montauk, Long Island, were trolling inshore near the rock coast, taking an occasional bluefish or striped bass.

To the South, about five miles from the beach, a solitary charterboat roared in wild circles, twisting, doubling back on its own tracks.

Screams of excitement arose from the cockpit. A shark was clamping its teeth into the boat's planking.

Skipper Frank Mundus leaped from the bridge to the stern. He struck downward with a knife blade lashed to a broom handle. The mate sunk the barb of a heavy gaff.

Seconds later the shark was aboard, thrashing furiously, trying to strike at its captors.

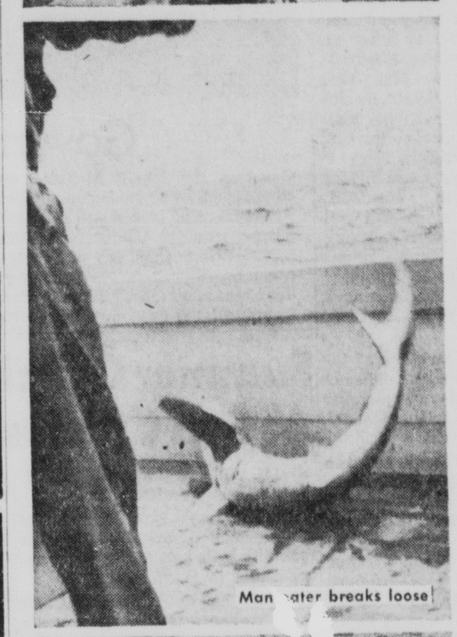

The angler, Chuck Meyer, leaned against the hatch cover, exhausted.

• • •

Chuck Meyer and Frank Mundus are undoubtedly the craziest fishing combination along the Atlantic coast. Frank specializes in catching sharks—which ought to be bad enough. But Chuck, an outdoor sports writer, likes catching 'em on spinning tackle and 12-pound test lines, and Frank is fish-happy enough to help.

Between them they've already shattered all existing light tackle records, topping the season with a 261-pound mako shark taken on an Airex "Beachcomber" reel and thread-thin monofilament line.

The fish is the heaviest game specie yet captured on the lightest line recorded.

Man eater breaks loose!

Trying to gaff a shark on the loose

At last, Chuck Meyer with his trophy

County Orders School Patrol Belts, Badges

Equipment for the members of the various School Patrol units in Allegany County has been ordered with the county commissioners paying for the items.

Included in the order are 333 regular belts, 50 large belts, 30 captain's badges, 40 lieutenant's badges, 343 patrol badges which will cost $303.40.

The county pays for this part of the equipment of the hundreds of school children who patrol street intersections near their schools during the time pupils are on their way to and from school.

Additional support is given the patrol units by Parent-Teacher Associations which buy raincoats and hats for use during inclement weather.

Trees Being Removed From Wills Creek

City workmen began clearing the small trees and other debris from the bed of Wills Creek yesterday.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said the trees and debris in the creek are being removed as a safety factor. In the event of high water next spring the trees would cause trouble, Buchholtz said. The trees grow up in times of low water in the creek.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, did, in regular session on Monday, September 13, 1954, approve the Report of Commissioners for the closing of a 16 foot wide alley located in Walsh's Addition, lying southward of and parallel to Elizabeth Street along the rear of Lots Nos. 136 through 143 and 150 through 157, and which alley extends from Trenton Avenue, Southeasterly for a distance of 270 feet. Said Commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1988 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said Alley. After meeting on premises and hearing those persons who would be affected by the closing of said Alley, the commissioners present the following:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the undersigned, that as a result of the closing of said alley, that no damages have been sustained and no benefits have accrued, not already enjoyed, by the abutting property owner, which is the aforesaid Mr. Lloyd H. Buchanan. Accordingly, our decision is that no benefits are to be levied and no damages should be assessed.

We further direct that the said Mr. Lloyd H. Buchanan should pay all costs attendant to the closing of aforesaid alley, which proceedings were instituted at his request."

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after September 13, 1954, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

In Civil War days some stamps used in the South were printed in England and brought into the Confederacy by blockade runners.

The picturesque thatched roofs of the English countryside are gradually giving way to slates, tiles and asbestos shingles.

The United States annually wastes 50 million tons of grain straw that might be used in valuable pulp for paper products.

Bones Of Prehistoric Cave Bears Discovered

VERONA, Italy, Sept. 21 (AP)—A den full of giant cave bears that walked the earth with Stone Age man has been discovered here.

An Italian expedition exploring the Friar's Hole reported finding eight skulls measuring up to a foot and a half long, and piles of bones. They were turned over to the Verona Museum of Natural History which said there were enough pieces to fit together three complete skeletons of the long extinct cave bears.

With them were found jaws, leg bones and vertebrae of the prehistoric bison.

Wild birds sing only about 10 weeks in the year.

BY FRANK KUCHIRCHUK

Killing the shark before bringing him aboard

Bringing in a shark on light tackle

Man-eater breaks loose!

Trying to gaff a shark on the loose

At last, Chuck Meyer with his trophy

THE FISHING CRAFT at Montauk, Long Island, were trolling inshore near the rock coast, taking an occasional bluefish or striped bass.

To the South, about five miles from the beach, a solitary charterboat roared in wild circles, twisting, doubling back on its own tracks.

Screams of excitement arose from the cockpit. A shark was clamping its teeth into the boat's planking.

Skipper Frank Mundus leaped from the bridge to the stern. He struck downward with a knife blade lashed to a broom handle. The mate sunk the barb of a heavy gaff.

Seconds later the shark was aboard, thrashing furiously, trying to strike at its captors.

The angler, Chuck Meyer, leaned against the hatch cover, exhausted.

• • •

Chuck Meyer and Frank Mundus are undoubtedly the craziest fishing combination along the Atlantic coast. Frank specializes in catching sharks—which ought to be bad enough. But Chuck, an outdoor sports writer, likes catching 'em on spinning tackle and 12-pound test lines, and Frank is fish-happy enough to help.

Between them they've already shattered all existing light tackle records, topping the season with a 261-pound mako shark taken on an Airex "Beachcomber" reel and thread-thin monofilament line.

The fish is the heaviest game specie yet captured on the lightest line recorded.

County Orders School Patrol Belts, Badges

Equipment for the members of the various School Patrol units in Allegany County has been ordered with the county commissioners paying for the items.

Included in the order are 333 regular belts, 50 large belts, 30 captain's badges, 40 lieutenant's badges, 343 patrol badges which will cost $303.40.

The county pays for this part of the equipment of the hundreds of school children who patrol street intersections near their schools during the time pupils are on their way to and from school.

Additional support is given the patrol units by Parent-Teacher Associations which buy raincoats and hats for use during inclement weather.

Trees Being Removed From Wills Creek

City workmen began clearing the small trees and other debris from the bed of Wills Creek yesterday.

Street Commissioner William H. Buchholtz said the trees and debris in the creek are being removed as a safety factor. In the event of high water next spring the trees would cause trouble, Buchholtz said. The trees grow up in times of low water in the creek.

NOTICE

Pursuant to the provisions of Section 127 of the Charter of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, 1950 Edition, notice is hereby given that the Mayor and City Council of Cumberland, did, in regular session on Monday, September 13, 1954, approve the Report of Commissioners for the closing of a 16 foot wide alley located in Walsh's Addition, lying southward of and parallel to Elizabeth Street along the rear of Lots Nos. 136 through 143 and 150 through 157, and which alley extends from Trenton Avenue, Southeasterly for a distance of 270 feet. Said Commissioners were appointed by virtue of Ordinance No. 1988 for the purpose of assessing any damages or benefits incurred by or accruing to any owners of property affected by the closing of said Alley. After meeting on premises and hearing those persons who would be affected by the closing of said Alley, the commissioners present the following:

"It is the unanimous opinion of the undersigned, that as a result of the closing of said alley, that no damages have been sustained and no benefits have accrued, not already enjoyed, by the abutting property owner, which is the aforesaid Mr. Lloyd H. Buchanan. Accordingly, our decision is that no benefits are to be levied and no damages should be assessed.

We further direct that the said Mr. Lloyd H. Buchanan should pay all costs attendant to the closing of aforesaid alley, which proceedings were instituted at his request."

Any person, persons, firm or corporation feeling aggrieved by the decision of the commissioners may appeal therefrom within thirty (30) days after September 15, 1954, by filing written notice of such appeal with the City Clerk of the City of Cumberland, Maryland, who will transmit same to the Circuit Court for Allegany County to be docketed for jury trial.

County Asks SRC To Begin Survey For Plant Bridge

Board Requests Start Of Plans

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday formally requested the State Roads Commission to begin surveys and the preparation of plans for the new overhead bridge which will lead onto the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's new factory site at North Branch.

William H. Lemmert, board president, said that the commissioners requested Gorman E. Getty, their attorney, to prepare the letter to be mailed to the State Roads Commission later in the day. The letter went to Russell H. McCain, commission chairman.

The bridge and road improvements onto the factory site will be done under the direction of the State Roads Commission but the expense will be borne partially by county and federal governments and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

About 45 per cent will come from federal funds, according to Lemmert. The B&O will pay 10 per cent of the cost of the bridge which will span its tracks in a grade-crossing elimination.

The county's share of the overall cost will approach 55 per cent but it all will come from gasoline tax moneys.

The county's annual levy list for the current fiscal year has an $85,000 item for supplementary matching funds for the North Branch Overhead Bridge and County Roads Projects.

Total cost of the job has been estimated at between $450,000 and $500,000. Included is the relocation of a county road off Oldtown Road, construction of a service road connection for the Western Maryland Railway underpass, the overhead bridge spanning 100 feet of track and a 38-foot underpass for vehicular traffic.

485 Field Trips Are Conducted By Health Dept.

A total of 485 field trips were made in the Sanitation Section of the Allegany County Health Department during the month of August and there were 502 calls, according to J. B. Dowling, sanitary inspector of the Health Department.

Complaints of various types of conditions were checked, many of which were miscellaneous nuisance complaints which were not the kind to be injurious to public health.

Dowling, in his monthly report, said two restaurants were closed for not complying with sanitation requirements. During August, 119 conferences were held by the department and a public lecture was conducted.

Some 113 water samples were collected for analysis, as well as 306 milk samples, three food samples, 18 swab tests and one sample of ice was taken.

Dowling pointed out that 31 septic tanks were installed, three water supplies improved, 20 milk licenses checked, two new dairy barns and three new milk houses inspected.

During August, Dowling added, local sewerage problems increased due to the new program of the State Roads Commission and the County Roads Department. A number of these have been corrected or are in the process of being corrected.

The County Health Department was called into court on two cases during the month concerning sewerage flowing on the state highways and verdicts were given in favor of the department.

Judge Settles Land Dispute

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday decided an Allegany County Circuit Court dispute concerning a triangular parcel of land on Spruce Street in Westernport in favor of the plaintiff.

However, he will file a written opinion explaining his views more fully.

Laura Elias, a widow, through Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr., brought suit for $500 damages against her Spruce Street neighbor, Lester Chaney. She said that as of January 29, 1938, she was in possession of legal title and immediate right of possession of the parcel.

She asserted that on June 23, 1937, Chaney purchased property immediately adjacent to the disputed land and since January 29, 1938, has wrongfully entered the property and has ejected her.

Judge Harris ruled that Mrs. Elias had good paper title to the land. Chaney had argued that he held the property legally through adverse possession for 20 years. Attorney Louis T. Fatkin represented Chaney.

CAP Member To Talk

The Civil Air Patrol and its service to the community in times of emergency will be explained by Quinter H. Fike, a member of the Allegany County CAP, at today's dinner meeting of the Optimist Club at 6:15 p. m. at Central YMCA.

Times-News Cooking School Continues Today At Strand

Several new and interesting recipes are to be demonstrated in today's session of the Times-News Cooking School, which gets under way at 9:15 a. m. at the Strand Theatre.

The school opened yesterday with a near-capacity audience—some 1,250 women—attending despite a heavy downpour.

Miss Eva Hogan of the National Live Stock and Meat Board is conducting the school, assisted by Miss Geraldine Lien. The sessions are free and every homemaker who attends will receive a free cookbook containing all the recipes demonstrated at the school.

Miss Eva Hogan and Miss Geraldine Lien of the National Live Stock and Meat Board are conducting the school, assisted by Misses Louise McMullen and Rosemary Daugherty.

One of the meats which will be featured in today's session of the school is cranberry pot-roast. This is an innovation since it combines the well known arm or blade pot-roast with such spices as cloves and cinnamon. In addition a can of cranberry sauce is added and the flavor makes this dish a very populer one which can be used for the company meal or family dinner.

Another meat dish is cactus cones—something brand new. This dish is made from a combination of ground beef and pork to which is added a seasoning, and also tomato, milk, eggs, onions and uncooked rice. This recipe gets its name from the fact that as the rice cooks it protrudes from the meat.

The angel ginger cake also featured on the second day program is very easily made.

Winners of meat dishes and pastries yesterday were Mrs. Audrey Combs, 104 South Street; Leona Grindell, 14 West Main Street, Frostburg; Mrs. Norma Emerick, Bowling Green; Mrs. Paul Wineow, 216 Cumberland Street; Mrs. R. B. Scott, 8 Arch Street; Mrs. Agnes Edmiston, 19 South Centre Street; Mrs. D. J. Robison, RD 1, Box 441; Mrs. Paul Perdew, 232 Glenn Street.

Mrs. C. E. Cooke, Bedford Road, won a set of Dexterette Cutlery; Mrs. William Raley, Keyser RD 3, won a Taylor meat thermometer, and Mrs. Naomi Thompson, Bowling Green, was winner of a case of 7-up.

Ten market sacks of groceries went to Emma Clites, Ridgeley; Hazel Harrison, 716 Gephart Drive; Mrs. Robert P. Mertens, Bedford Road; Mrs. A. A. Sowers, 721 Greene Street; Mrs. Henry T. Pyles, 236 Glenn Street; Mrs. J. C. Koegel, 70 South Water Street, Frostburg; Mrs. Thomas Wilhelm, 508 Hill Street; Mrs. Margaret Myers, 227 Oak Street; Sarah E. Simpson, Ridgeley, and Mrs. Philip Martin, 638 Columbia Avenue.

McKeldin Presents Etching

An etching of Maryland's historic State House, the oldest building of its type in the United States still in daily use, was presented yesterday to A. J. Paddock, senior vice president of the American Bridge Company, by Governor Theodore R. McKeldin.

The presentation was made during a luncheon in the Fort Cumberland Hotel ball room following the ceremonies marking laying of the steelwork for the new Potomac River bridge to Ridgeley.

The ceremony at the hotel gave Governor McKeldin an opportunity to cite George Washington's close connection with Maryland. He noted that twice Washington led defeated armies back into Cumberland from the west.

Thomas Johnson, later Maryland's first governor, nominated Washington as commander-in-chief of the Continental Army. The first informal monument to Washington was erected on South Mountain near Boonsboro and the first formal one in Baltimore. The first college honoring Washington was at Chestertown.

Maryland's State House itself was important to Washington, too, McKeldin explained. It was there that the treaty ending the Revolution was signed and it was there Washington resigned his commission as commander-in-chief of the Army.

2 Countians Die In August Auto Mishaps

Two persons met death in Allegany County highway accidents in August, according to figures compiled by the Maryland State Police, and during that month a total of 48 persons were killed throughout the state.

The two fatalities in this county occurred within 48 hours in separate accidents. Andrew Joseph Bugosh, 25, of RD 1, Frostburg, died August 5 of injuries sustained when his car skidded off Braddock Road near Winchester Road and hit a tree.

On August 7, Elmer William Herrell, 17, of Vocke Road, was killed instantly when his car was involved in a headon collision on Route 40 at Red Hill.

Neighboring Garrett County went through the month fatality-free, the report disclosed. The monthly summary, compiled by the State Police Statistics Division, recorded a total of 2,958 traffic accidents which were investigated by police in August.

The 48 traffic deaths during that month brought the total number of persons killed by motor vehicles in Maryland this year to 331 persons and raised the number of persons injured to 9,501.

These traffic deaths represent a four per cent decrease in traffic deaths from the corresponding period last year.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, in releasing the accident data for August, stated, "It is surely better to take a few minutes longer for a safe drive than to try to cut the time.

"Seconds saved at the sacrifice of human lives are seconds bought too dearly. Driving hazards seem unreal and devoid of special terror until you have a serious accident.

"Unfortunately, the experience that teaches caution is too often the one that kills."

Governor Operates Crane

Governor Theodore R. McKeldin operates the controls of a huge crane as he puts the first piece of the steel structure of the Potomac River bridge into place during ceremonies at the site in Riverside Park yesterday. The bridge will span the river at the industrial dam, combining the State Roads Commission project with the Cumberland-Ridgeley flood program. A. J. Paddock, senior vice president of the American Bridge Company of Pittsburgh, Pa., which is building the new bridge, looks on at the left while crane operator B. K. Sweitzer sits beside Gov. McKeldin as he operates the massive machinery. Paddock presented Gov. McKeldin with a permit from Local 568 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, to allow the chief executive of the state to operate the crane.

Summer Officially Ends Thursday Morning As Sun Crosses Equator To Herald Autumn

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

On Thursday, September 23, at exactly 8:56 a. m. EST, Summer officially ends and Autumn arrives, according to the almanac.

Science has determined that it is then the sun in its seeming southward journey stands directly above the earth's equator. Day equals night as the world spins on its axis. On this particular day there are as many hours of daylight as there are of darkness. This is known as the autumnal equinox.

Since March 21, the sun has been north of the equator. This old section of the world enjoyed spring and summer. Flowers bloomed, crops grew, fruit ripened, and all the other things attributed to spring and summer happened as usual. But now, the sun swings southward below the equator and spring and summer come to South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, etc.

Actually, however, neither the sun nor the earth moves from north to south or vice versa in the heavens. Instead, the world, in which modern civilization waits for the atom bomb to go off, moves in a giant oval around the blazing sun, thus swinging the heat waves closer or farther away and changing the seasons.

The earth, spinning on its axis, leans a fixed amount, 23½ degrees, scientists say, away from an imaginary perpendicular. If this were not so, there would be no seasons. The climate would be the same all the time, and maybe that wouldn't be bad if it were all spring, or perhaps all summer. But the earth manages somehow, without help of brain trusters, economic planners, politicians or experts, to retain its axis tilt, year in and year out. And the seasons change.

In this tilted position, the earth continues to move around the sun. First the northern half leans toward the sun, and then the southern half tilts toward the light.

On June 21, at summer solstice, the North Pole tilts the full 23½ degrees toward the sun. On December 21, at the winter solstice it leans an equal amount away from the sun. These two equinoxes are midway points. And thus occur the longest day and the shortest day of the year.

The question arises, "if the sun is closer in June, and farthest away in December, why aren't temperatures consistently hot in June and consistently cold in December?"

This would be true if the air did not retain heat. And since the atmosphere holds heat, seasons are somewhat delayed.

Through June, when days are longest, the atmosphere above the United States receives far more heat than it loses at night. Not until sometime in July or August does the heat loss equal the heat gain. Even September frequently is warmer than June.

And conversely, through the fall and past the winter solstice, more heat leaks away by night than is received during the day. Then temperatures continue to decline until January or February before they can turn upward again.

With the coming of fall, occasioned Thursday by the Autumn equinox, there will be plenty of weather to talk about. Along with the harvest in this northern region, the hurricane season can be expected on the Atlantic Coast. In fact, some will argue that it came ahead of time this year.

But here in the mountains, the coming of fall marks a change that people of this area look forward to each year, despite the cold that it heralds. This is the changing color of the woodlands. Nature will bring out her palette and the trees will take on all the golden, blazing luster that she can conjure.

Equinox or not, weather or not, hot, cold, medium or indifferent, this glory of the area, is the surest sign of fall.

And that makes the weather worth talking about.

Womens Clubs Urge Better Treatment For Juveniles

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Maryland Federation of Womens Clubs today decided to make the improvement of correction services for youngsters its project for the 1954-55 club year.

The action was taken at the federation's fall meeting, now in session here.

Mrs. Henry A. Warburton Jr. of Elkton, chairman of the federation's committee on community services, outlined four goals in improving the handling and treatment of juveniles who get in trouble with the law.

There ought to be short-term detention homes so youngsters who are first offenders will not be mixed with criminals, she said.

Regulations on the jurisdiction and treatment of juvenile offenders ought to be uniform throughout the state, she and three other club women with her recommended.

Juvenile courts need improvement, they suggested.

Probation services should be provided in all juvenile courts.

Mrs. Warburton and Mrs. C. Edward Sparrow Jr. of Baltimore, chairman of the legislative committee, pointed out it will take passage of bills in the General Assembly at Annapolis to accomplish most of these purposes.

Walter Reidt, managing director of the Criminal Justice Commission and chairman of a special Baltimore commission on youth problems, outlined for the convention Maryland's patchwork of laws bearing on juvenile offenders.

The juvenile court in Baltimore has jurisdiction over youngsters up to 17 years old. In the counties, the top limit is 18. Some counties have special juvenile courts. Circuit judges rotate in presiding over juvenile cases in other counties. Different judges prescribe different penalties for the same offenses. Some transact all juvenile business in secret, others in open court. Probation services vary widely and are inadequate in some counties, Reidt said.

State Readies Papers For Embezzlement Trial

The State's Attorney's Office is preparing information papers for the immediate trial of Fred V. Rathburn, 606 Elm Street, on a charge of embezzlement of $2,000 from the Cumberland Motor Express Company over a period of months.

Rathburn, an employe of the company at the time, filed a petition August 30 in Allegany County Circuit Court requesting the trial on information charges through his attorney, Thomas B. Finan.

The State's Attorney hoped to have the case docketed in Circuit Court this week.

Rathburn is presently free on $2,000 bond.

Governor Lays First Steel For Potomac Bridge

Interstate Span To Cost $314,910

Operating a huge crane, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin yesterday hoisted a one-and-one-half-ton steel "shoe" from the muddy approach to the new Potomac River bridge to Ridgeley and placed it in position on the Maryland shore pier of the new structure as the steelwork for the new bridge got under way with appropriate ceremonies.

The ceremonies lasted about half an hour as six different speakers were heard by a crowd of about 100 persons gathered on the approach to the bridge.

Gov. McKeldin's talk was a brief one in which he said that "a bridge is a friendly device which breaks the barrier and joins together in friendship and commerce the people living on both of its banks."

Other Studies Under Way

The Governor offered brief comments about the other Potomac River crossings downstream from the new bridge. He said that a study is under way to replace the Wiley Ford Bridge which is admittedly inadequate in both width and carrying capacity.

McKeldin further observed that a little bridge linking Oldtown and Green Spring, W. Va., is the only remaining private toll bridge on Maryland's border.

It is said that certain underground springs at this point (the new bridge site) once gave the waters of this river an especially blue color, hence the name 'Blue Bridge.' Whatever the source of its name, I foresee a very rosy future for this new span across the Potomac," the Governor concluded.

First speaker yesterday was Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, who asserted that the City of Cumberland should be commended for its foresight in combining a new bridge to Ridgeley with the flood protection works.

Other brief remarks were heard from State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who introduced various city and county office holders in the audience; U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, who introduced McKeldin as a "man of action, not a man of promises;" A. J. Paddock, senior vice president of the American Bridge Company, Pittsburgh, and Kenneth Dern of Keyser, district engineer for the West Virginia Road Commission.

"Joins" Local Union

Paddock gave Governor McKeldin a permit from Local 568 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, to allow him to operate the crane. The Governor also received a quarterly working card from the American Federation of Labor.

Credit for this modern span is due to the State Roads Commissions of Maryland and West Virginia, the Corps of Army Engineers and the City of Cumberland, all cooperating in placing the bridge on the superstructure of the flood protection works industrial dam, McCain said.

The president of the American Bridge Company, W. B. Obbard, and J. M. Scott, assistant to the vice president, flew from Pittsburgh to be here, but due to the rain and overcast, could not land at Municipal Airport and went on to Washington.

Officials of the bridge company, besides Paddock, attending the ceremony were Eugene Mowlds, general contracting manager; W. O. Weathersby, director of engineering; J. H. Zorn, assistant to the president, all of Pittsburgh, and Robert Ferber, Baltimore, construction manager for this project.

West Virginia officials representing the West Virginia State Roads Commission were Kenneth Dern, district engineer; Cleo Swecker, maintenance engineer, and J. J. Melody, senior engineer, all of Keyser.

The old span being replaced was built in 1868.

The new one is to contain two spans, each 156 feet in length. The cost of $314,910 is being shared by the two states. State and local officials from both sides of the river were invited to attend the ceremonies.

Following the bridge ceremony, the bridge company was host to city, county and state officials at a luncheon in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.

County Asks SRC To Begin Survey For Plant Bridge

Board Requests Start Of Plans

The Allegany County Board of Commissioners yesterday formally requested the State Roads Commission to begin surveys and the preparation of plans for the new overhead bridge which will lead onto the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company's new factory site at North Branch.

William H. Lemmert, board president, said that the commissioners requested Gorman E. Getty, their attorney, to prepare the letter to be mailed to the State Roads Commission later in the day. The letter went to Russell H. McCain, commission chairman.

The bridge and road improvements onto the factory site will be done under the direction of the State Roads Commission but the expense will be borne partially by county and federal governments and the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

About 45 per cent will come from federal funds, according to Lemmert. The B&O will pay 10 per cent of the cost of the bridge which will span its tracks in a grade-crossing elimination.

The county's share of the overall cost will approach 55 per cent but it all will come from gasoline tax moneys.

The county's annual levy list for the current fiscal year has an $85,000 item for supplementary matching funds for the North Branch Overhead Bridge and County Roads Projects.

Total cost of the job has been estimated at between $450,000 and $500,000. Included is the relocation of a county road off Oldtown Road, construction of a service road connection for the Western Maryland Railway underpass, the overhead bridge spanning 100 feet of track and a 38-foot underpass for vehicular traffic.

485 Field Trips Are Conducted By Health Dept.

A total of 485 field trips were made in the Sanitation Section of the Allegany County Health Department during the month of August and there were 502 calls, according to J. B. Dowling, sanitary inspector of the Health Department.

Complaints of various types of conditions were checked, many of which were miscellaneous nuisance complaints which were not the kind to be injurious to public health.

Dowling, in his monthly report, said two restaurants were closed for not complying with sanitation requirements. During August, 119 conferences were held by the department and a public lecture was conducted.

Some 113 water samples were collected for analysis, as well as 306 milk samples, three food samples, 18 swab tests and one sample of ice was taken.

Dowling pointed out that 31 septic tanks were installed, three water supplies improved, 20 milk licenses checked, two new dairy barns and three new milk houses inspected.

During August, Dowling added, local sewerage problems increased due to the new program of the State Roads Commission and the County Roads Department. A number of these have been corrected or are in the process of being corrected.

The County Health Department was called into court on two cases during the month concerning sewerage flowing on the state highways and verdicts were given in favor of the department.

Judge Settles Land Dispute

Associate Judge Morgan C. Harris yesterday decided an Allegany County Circuit Court dispute concerning a triangular parcel of land on Spruce Street in Westernport in favor of the plaintiff.

However, he will file a written opinion explaining his views more fully.

Laura Elias, a widow, through Attorney Horace P. Whitworth Jr., brought suit for $500 damages against her Spruce Street neighbor, Lester Chaney. She said that as of January 29, 1938, she was in possession of legal title and immediate right of possession of the parcel.

She asserted that on June 23, 1937, Chaney purchased property immediately adjacent to the disputed land and since January 29, 1938, has wrongfully entered the property and has ejected her.

Judge Harris ruled that Mrs. Elias had good paper title to the land. Chaney had argued that he held the property legally through adverse possession for 20 years. Attorney Louis T. Fatkin represented Chaney.

The two fatalities in this county occurred within 48 hours in separate accidents. Andrew Joseph Bugosh, 25, of RD 1, Frostburg, died August 5 of injuries sustained when his car skidded off Braddock Road near Winchester Road and hit a tree.

On August 7, Elmer William Herrell, 17, of Vocke Road, was killed instantly when his car was involved in a headon collision on Route 40 : Red Hill.

Neighboring Garrett County went through the month fatality-free, the report disclosed. The monthly summary, compiled by the State Police Statistics Division, recorded a total of 2,958 traffic accidents which were investigated by police in August.

The 48 traffic deaths during that month brought the total number of persons killed by motor vehicles in Maryland this year to 331 persons and raised the number of persons injured to 9,501.

These traffic deaths represent a four per cent decrease in traffic deaths from the corresponding period last year.

Col. Elmer F. Munshower, superintendent of the Maryland State Police, in releasing the accident data for August, stated, "It is surely better to take a few minutes longer for a safe drive than to try to cut the time.

"Seconds saved at the sacrifice of human lives are seconds bought too dearly. Driving hazards seem unreal and devoid of special terror until you have a serious accident.

"Unfortunately, the experience that teaches caution is too often the one that kills."

Summer Officially Ends Thursday Morning As Sun Crosses Equator To Herald Autumn

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT
News Staff Writer

On Thursday, September 23, at exactly 8:56 a. m. EST, Summer officially ends and Autumn arrives, according to the almanac.

Science has determined that it is then the sun in its seeming southward journey stands directly above the earth's equator. Day equals night as the world spins on its axis. On this particular day there are as many hours of daylight as there are of darkness. This is known as the autumnal equinox.

Since March 21, the sun has been north of the equator. This old section of the world enjoyed spring and summer. Flowers bloomed, crops grew, fruit ripened, and all the other things attributed to spring and summer happened as usual. But now, the sun swings southward below the equator and spring and summer come to South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Argentina, etc.

Actually, however, neither the sun nor the earth moves from north to south or vice versa in the heavens. Instead, the world, in which modern civilization waits for the atom bomb to go off, moves in a giant oval around the blazing sun, thus swinging the heat waves closer or farther away and changing the seasons.

The earth, spinning on its axis, leans a fixed amount, 23½ degrees, scientists say, away from an imaginary perpendicular. If this were not so, there would be no seasons. The climate would be the same all the time, and maybe that wouldn't be bad if it were all spring, or perhaps all summer. But the earth manages somehow, without help of brain trusters, economic planners, politicians or experts, to retain its axis tilt, year in and year out. And the seasons change.

In this tilted position, the earth continues to move around the sun. First the northern half leans toward the sun, and then the southern half tilts toward the light.

On June 21, at summer solstice, the North Pole tilts the full 23½ degrees toward the sun. On December 21, at the winter solstice it leans an equal amount away from the sun. These two equinoxes are midway points. And thus occur the longest day and the shortest day of the year.

The question arises, "if the sun is closer in June, and farthest away in December, why aren't temperatures consistently hot in June and consistently cold in December?"

This would be true if the air did not retain heat. And since the atmosphere holds heat, seasons are somewhat delayed.

Through June, when days are longest, the atmosphere above the United States receives far more heat than it loses at night. Not until sometime in July or August does the heat loss equal the heat gain. Even September frequently is warmer than June.

And conversely, through the fall and past the winter solstice, more heat leaks away by night than is received during the day. Then temperatures continue to decline until January or February before they can turn upward again.

With the coming of fall, occasioned Thursday by the Autumn equinox, there will be plenty of weather to talk about. Along with the harvest in this northern region, the hurricane season can be expected on the Atlantic Coast. In fact, some will argue that it came ahead of time this year.

But here in the mountains, the coming of fall marks a change that people of this area look forward to each year, despite the cold that it heralds. This is the changing color of the woodlands. Nature will bring out her palette and the trees will take on all the golden, blazing luster that she can conjure.

Equinox or not, weather or not, hot, cold, medium or indifferent, this glory of the area, is the surest sign of fall.

And that makes the weather worth talking about.

Womens Clubs Urge Better Treatment For Juveniles

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21 (AP) — The Maryland Federation of Womens Clubs today decided to make the improvement of correction services for youngsters its project for the 1954-55 club year.

The action was taken at the federation's fall meeting, now in session here.

Mrs. Henry A. Warburton Jr. of Elkton, chairman of the federation's committee on community services, outlined four goals in improving the handling and treatment of juveniles who get in trouble with the law.

There ought to be short-term detention homes so youngsters who are first offenders will not be mixed with criminals, she said.

Regulations on the jurisdiction and treatment of juvenile offenders ought to be uniform throughout the state, she and three other club women with her recommended.

Juvenile courts need improvement, they suggested.

Probation services should be provided in all juvenile courts.

Mrs. Warburton and Mrs. C. Edward Sparrow Jr. of Baltimore, chairman of the legislative committee, pointed out it will take passage of bills in the General Assembly at Annapolis to accomplish most of these purposes.

Walter Reidt, managing director of the Criminal Justice Commission and chairman of a special Baltimore commission on youth problems, outlined for the convention Maryland's patchwork of laws bearing on juvenile offenders.

The juvenile court in Baltimore has jurisdiction over youngsters up to 17 years old. In the counties, the top limit is 18. Some counties have special juvenile courts. Circuit judges rotate in presiding over juvenile cases in other counties. Different judges prescribe different penalties for the same offenses. Some transact all juvenile business in secret, others in open court. Probation services vary widely and are inadequate in some counties, Reidt said.

Governor Lays First Steel For Potomac Bridge

Interstate Span To Cost $314,910

Operating a huge crane, Governor Theodore R. McKeldin yesterday hoisted a one-and-one-half-ton steel "shoe" from the muddy approach to the new Potomac River bridge to Ridgeley and placed it in position on the Maryland shore pier of the new structure as the steelwork for the new bridge got under way with appropriate ceremonies.

The ceremonies lasted about half an hour as six different speakers were heard by a crowd of about 100 persons gathered on the approach to the bridge.

Gov. McKeldin's talk was a brief one in which he said that "a bridge is a friendly device which breaks the barrier and joins together in friendship and commerce the people living on both of its banks."

Other Studies Under Way

The Governor offered brief comments about the other Potomac River crossings downstream from the new bridge. He said that a study is under way to replace the Wiley Ford Bridge which is admittedly inadequate in both width and carrying capacity.

McKeldin further observed that a little bridge linking Oldtown and Green Spring, W. Va., is the only remaining private toll bridge on Maryland's border.

It is said that certain underground springs at this point (the new bridge site) once gave the waters of this river an especially blue color, hence the name 'Blue Bridge.' Whatever the source of its name, I foresee a very rosy future for this new span across the Potomac," the Governor concluded.

First speaker yesterday was Russell H. McCain, chairman of the Maryland State Roads Commission, who asserted that the City of Cumberland should be commended for its foresight in combining a new bridge to Ridgeley with the flood protection works.

Other brief remarks were heard from State Senator Robert B. Kimble, who introduced various city and county office holders in the audience; U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, who introduced McKeldin as a "man of action, not a man of promises;" A. J. Paddock, senior vice president of the American Bridge Company, Pittsburgh, and Kenneth Dern of Keyser, district engineer for the West Virginia Road Commission.

"Joins" Local Union

Paddock gave Governor McKeldin a permit from Local 568 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers, to allow him to operate the crane. The Governor also received a quarterly working card from the American Federation of Labor.

Credit for this modern span is due to the State Roads Commissions of Maryland and West Virginia, the Corps of Army Engineers and the City of Cumberland, all cooperating in placing the bridge on the superstructure of the flood protection works industrial dam, McCain said.

The president of the American Bridge Company, W. B. Obbard, and J. M. Scott, assistant to the vice president, flew from Pittsburgh to be here, but due to the rain and overcast, could not land at Municipal Airport and went on to Washington.

Officials of the bridge company, besides Paddock, attending the ceremony were Eugene Mowlds, general contracting manager; W. O. Weathersby, director of engineering; J. H. Zorn, assistant to the president, all of Pittsburgh, and Robert Ferber, Baltimore, construction manager for this project.

West Virginia officials representing the West Virginia State Roads Commission were Kenneth Dern, district engineer; Cleo Swecker, maintenance engineer, and J. J. Melody, senior engineer, all of Keyser.

The old span being replaced was built in 1868.

The new one is to contain two spans, each 156 feet in length. The cost of $314,910 is being shared by the two states. State and local officials from both sides of the river were invited to attend the ceremonies.

Following the bridge ceremony, the bridge company was host to city, county and state officials at a luncheon in the Fort Cumberland Hotel.
